1968 Brings Hope Of Better Things

HE DIDN'T FORGET. It's a New Year for new thoughts, new ideas and new happenings and a recent newcomer to the scene helped usher it in last night. Jay-Jay Lucas, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lucas of 750 Beaver Ave., Midland, reminded all that 1968 has arrived.

By The Associated Press

Hope for the year ahead was mingled with bittersweet remembrances of the joys and sorrows of 1967 as people around the world marked New Year's Day.

The war in Vietnam, where even a New Year's truce didn't halt all the fighting; the summer riots in American cities, where the memory of Christmas boycotts to protest segregation was still fresh; and poverty at home and abroad made the holiday just another day of frustration and starvation.

All combined to interject a note of sadness into the traditional football games, family parties and other celebrations.

The world's leaders added their voices to the chorus of hope that 1968 would bring better things.

Pope Paul VI, who had proclaimed Monday as a day of peace, told about 20,000 persons in St. Peter's Square:

★ ★ ★

World Marks New Year

"For us the twilight of the year which ends today is obscured by the unrest and conflict which has disturbed it, a rather unhappy twilight with little promise of better days.

"But the star — that is, desire and hope—Has not dimmed. Indeed, it is brighter than ever on the horizon of a new history of humanity.

"We fix our regard tomorrow, the coming new year, on this star of peace which can orient the way for the world, the world on the road of progress and unity."

In Vietnam, the Viet Cong bounced Russian-made grenades off the tanks and armored troop carriers of a U.S. armored column, killing nine Americans and shattering a three-day truce the Viet Cong had called.

A U.S. and South Vietnam 36-hour New Year's truce went into effect 13 hours later.

President Johnson, spending the New Year holiday at his LBJ Ranch in Texas, took time out Sunday to attend mass at a Roman Catholic church in nearby Stonewall.

He brought yuletide gifts for the pastor, the Rev. Wunibald W. Schneider, and among them was a book, "No Retreat from Tomorrow."

In his sermon, the Bavarian-born priest asked for prayers to help the President "carry his heavy burden." "He loves peace as well as you and I," he said.

Elsewhere, Americans headed for the annual football bowl games or sat back to watch them on television.

More than a few hangover moans and vows of alcoholic abstinence were uttered.

Seeing the old year out Sunday night ranged from $100-per-couple parties with top name entertainers to home parties and watching festivities on television.

Among the New Year's Eve entertainers in New York City, which got a snowstorm for the final day of 1967, were Guy Lombardo, Judy Garland, Count Basie, Buddy Greco and Jonah Jones.

The weather did little to hold down the throngs of people who wanted to be in Times Square for the midnight moment.

In Japan, the arrival of the New Year — the year of monkey in the oriental lunar calendar — attracted millions of Japanese to temples and shrines to pray for health and luck.

Television stations stayed on the air until early Monday featuring New Year's Day programs while national and private railroads extended their services throughout the night to convience those visiting shrines and temples.

From the Associated Press bureau in Tokyo, where the New Year began at 10 a.m. Eastern Standard Time, came the following message to the New York AP office:

"Akenashite Omedeto Gozaimasu — Happiest New Year to you all from Tokyo."

Three Potteries To Display Ware

Three major East Liverpool district potteries will display their new 1968 dinnerware lines to wholesale buyers at nationally - known trade exhibitions in Atlantic City and Chicago.

The Homer Laughlin China Co. will introduce its new offerings at both shows — the 10th annual Atlantic City China & Glass Show opening next Sunday at Convention Hall in the resort city and the National Housewares Manufacturers Association Show Jan. 15-19, inclusive, at the Chicago Amphitheater.

The Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. will present its new lines at the Atlantic City show and the Hall China Co. will introduce its wares at the Chicago exhibition.

THE TRADITIONAL Pittsburgh show, in which all the firms participated, was held last in 1958. It was sponsored by the Associated Glass & Pottery Manufacturers. Since that time, the area firms have shifted between the sites in Atlantic City and Chicago, except for 1963, when they were all together again under one roof for the National China & Glass Show at Chicago. It was sponsored by the same group which had arranged the traditional Pittsburgh exhibit.

Homer Laughlin is the only area firm which will show at both Atlantic City and Chicago.

The Harker China Co. does not expect to enter either show, primarily because it is working through a new type of distributive outlet and is entering the new year with a much bigger backlog of business than a year ago.

The Atlantic City Show is sponsored by the China, Glass & Pottery Association of America, Inc. It is arranged by the George Little Management, Inc., of New York City. The exhibit will continue through Thursday, Jan. 11.

THE CHICAGO show was held for many years at the McCormick Pl. Exhibition Hall, which was destroyed by fire just before the opening of the 1967 exhibit.

At both Atlantic City and Chicago, Homer Laughlin will introduce a new "Regency" shape. A modern, continental - style shape, it will be shown in a snow white glaze decorated in a series of patterns featuring shades of yellow, orange and green as the predominant colors.

Laughlin's also will display its standard line, including the "Victoria" shape with decorative treatments and the "Colonial" white paneled shape in four or five treatments.

Red Force Violates Its Own Truce

VC Ambushes And Shatters Armored American Column

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong violated its own truce Sunday, ambushing and shattering a U.S. armored column east of Saigon. The U.S. Command reported nine Americans were killed and 29 wounded.

There were about 80 Americans in the column of two armored platoons of the U.S. 9th Division heading south on Route 2 toward the port of Vung Tau, 37 miles east of Saigon.

The attack came about 13 hours before the U.S. and South Vietnamese 36-hour New Year's truce went into effect at 6 p.m. The Viet Cong had called its own three - day truce beginning Saturday.

The column was passing through the rubber plantation country in predawn darkness when it ran into a hail of Communist rocket grenades and machine gun fire.

The enemy force, estimated at about 300, bounced Russian-made grenades off the tanks and armored troop carriers and cut down the American soldiers taking cover around them.

The column flashed a radio call for help. Within minutes, flareships were overhead, spewing bullets from Gatling guns into the darkened woods where the Viet Cong were entrenched.

Two companies of armored troops on a similar road patrol nearby sped to the battle scene.

As the reinforcements began arriving, the Viet Cong melted into the bush and the battle was over, less than 25 minutes after it began. Viet Cong losses were unknown.

As the allied truce went into effect, U.S., South Vietnamese, Korean, Australian and other forces fighting the Communists were ordered into defensive positions. The orders were to fire only if fired upon.

With the allied truce came a pause in the bombings of North Vietnam, although reconnaissance planes were over North Vietnam as usual. It is expected the North Vietnamese will take advantage of the respite to rush supplies and troops to the south.

The hours before the truce saw some aerial activity over North Vietnam and sharp skirmishes in scattered parts of South Vietnam Saturday.

Outlook Good

Area Views '68 With Confidence

Ringing down the curtain Sunday night on a year that brought comparative prosperity to most facets of retail business and industry and residents generally, the East Liverpool district looks forward today to 1968 to bring continued high employment and production levels.

Forecasters throughout the United States anticipate the new year will top 1967 in gross national product and individual income. Although the outlook is tempered slightly by fears of growing inflation, all the experts agree that business and industry alike should attain new highs in 1968.

THE OPTIMISTIC forecasts were issued by Secretary of Commerce Alexander Trowbridge, the National Industrial Conference Board, the National Planning Association and officers of the New York Stock Exchange.

And, of particular import to the tri-state region, steel producers expect the demand for their products will soar to 100 million to 105 million tons in 1968, against 96 million tons in 1967.

The Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co., finishing a prosperous year, said it is looking forward to 1968 with confidence. The company announced it expects to spend $21 million in 1968 on capital improvements — 75 per cent of it in the Midland plant. Two top-blown oxygen converters at Midland will be placed in operation by June.

The East Liverpool area's ceramic plants experiencced a comparatively good year in 1967, as evidenced by a steady employment and payroll rate. The dinnerware plants were particularly busy in the last quarter of the year.

ON THE national level, the forecasters said business and industrial gains will be strongest in the first half of 1968. A tax increase may curb inflationary trends and slow the rise by late summer, they predicted.

Payrolls at 11 area industrial plants hit $15,839,290 in the first 11 months of 1967, a gain of 2.5 per cent from the $15,456,444 at the same time in 1966. The plants paid out $1,835,712 in wages in November, up 23.8 per cent from the $1,482,420 in October.

Employment at the same plants averaged 3,635 monthly through the first 11 months of 1967, a drop of 2.3 per cent from the average of 3,722 shown at the same time in 1966. November employment hit 3,945, a gain of 1.6 per cent from the 3,785 listed in October.

Snow Squalls Due For Area As '68 Begins

Heavy snow squalls are due today in the tri-state district in the wake of Sunday's fall which made driving hazardous.

Colder weather also is on tap, with some moderation due by evening.

More snow is expected Tuesday.

Temperatures will remain below normal Tuesday through Saturday, with highs in the 20s and low 30s and lows in the teens.

It will be a little warmer Tuesday, colder again Wednesday and warmer near the end of the week.

County Highway Department crews spent a snowy New Year's Eve ashing and salting highways to make them as safe as possible for revelers.

About two inches of snow fell in the Lisbon area before evening Sunday and it was coming down steadily at 7 when the last of the county's 12 trucks left the garage.

Main highways were wet and slushy, but secondary roads were snow covered and slippery.

Medicare And Security

All the provisions and benefits of the new Medicare and Social Security legislation are explained in a 15-part series which will begin in Tuesday's Review.

A 96-page book, "What You've Got Coming from Medicare and Social Security," also will be made available for only $1 a copy.

The articles and the book have been prepared by Bruce Biossat and John Troan. Biossat is Washington correspondent for the Newspaper Enterprise Association and Troan, editor of The Pittsburgh Press, is an authority on Social Security legislation.

Be sure to read the informative articles which will begin in Tuesday's Review.

Four Injured As Snow Hits Area's Roads

At least four district highway accidents in which four were injured had been investigateed by police Sunday evening as the continuing snowfall made roads and streets hazardous.

A city woman was admitted to Weirton General Hospital after a Route 2 collision, and a Negley man was hospitalized in one of two mishaps on Route 170.

Police were checking on an accident on Route 66 near the Globe Refractories in which a car went over an embankment.

Marjorie Carter of 408 W. 5th St. was admitted to the Weirton hospital with back injuries suffered when her car was involved in a crash with two others south of New Cumberland.

Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies said a car operated by Helen McMasters, 20, of Cleveland was headed south when it skidded and struck the oncoming auto driven by the Carter woman which was then struck from behind by a car operated

7 Children Of 2 Families Perish In Wheeling Fire

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Seven children — ages 3 to 7 — burned to death early Sunday when a roaring fire burned out a two-story frame apartment building in Wheeling.

The children, all of two families, were trapped in the upper-floor bedrooms of one of three apartments in the complex, said Asst. Fire Chief W. M. Mueller.

An eighth child asleep in a playpen in a first-floor bedroom was rescued, Mueller said.

Mueller gave this account of the fire:

Mrs. Sandra Gonzales and Mrs. Harriet Gosztyla, mothers of the children, went to a local tavern together, leaving their children in the care of Carol Botteri, a visitor in the Gonzales apartment.

The two women returned about 2 a.m., and Mrs. Gosztyla left her three children in the Gonzales apartment rather than awaken them to take them home.

After going to bed, Miss Botteri said she awoke to go to the bathroom which was located upstairs. She told Mueller she checked on the children then.

A short while later, she estimated 15 minutes, Miss Botteri said she heard glass shattering. She said she looked toward the kitchen which was aflame.

Miss Botteri then awakened Mrs. Gonzales who ran to the adjoining apartment and telephoned the fire department.

Meanwhile, Miss Botteri ran to the Gonzales' front porch with Kenneth Gonzales, 11-months, who had been asleep in the playpen.

Before fire trucks arrived, Mrs. Gonzales and Mrs. Gosztyla awakened the five adults in the apartment over the Gosztylas', then climbed onto the front porch roof and broke a window

Proud Father Sips Champagne

Australian Mother Has Country's First Quints

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Roger Braham sipped champagne and chain-smoked cigarettes Sunday after becoming the father of Australia's first quintuplets, three girls and two ism, or with such complete mate" remark a "little hooker," boys weighing about three pounds each.

The 34-year-old lawyer stayed at Brisbane Women's Hospital throughout the day. He had the champagne in the hospital ward and in between visits to his wife puffed on cigarettes in a waiting room.

Mrs. Braham, 36, was reported doing well. So were the infants, who were premature by six weeks and two days. Doctors said, however, one of the quints was receiving eftra care. They did not explain why.

"My wife is very good," Braham said. "I have been talking to her and we are both thrilled."

Mrs. Braham had not been taking fertility drugs, which are believed to have been the cause of an increase in the number of multiple births around the world.

The Brahams have had four children previously, including a set of twins.

The hospital said the births began at 5:12 a.m. and ended at 6:27 a.m. The first was a girl, then a boy, then two girls and a boy.

Dr. R.F. Drake, the obstetrician who delivered all the babies. Said "There were handshakes but no tears" after the births

Cites U.S. And Israel

De Gaulle Stresses Points For Viet, Mideast Peace

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle said Sunday the only solutions for the conflicts in Vietnam and the Middle East are those he has proposed — evacuation of U.S. troops from Vietnam and of Israeli forces from Arab lands.

Speaking to the nation by radio and televsion, De Gaulle also pushed his support for French-Canadian separatism a notch further, and held out the possibility for Britain to join the European Common Market but only in the dim future.

De Gaulle made a reference to "the French nation in Canada" as he wished a happy New Year to Frenchmen everywhere.

The 77-year-old president, in his regular New Year's eve speech, cut no readily new ground, but he stressed several key points in his controversal foreign policy.

PARIS De Gaulle take 2: policy.

De Gaulle said France's main aim in 1968 will be peace at home and abroad. He said he wants to see peace re-established "where it has been broken."

"Naturally, this concerns Vietnam and the Middle East. In both cases everything shows how justified were the warnings that good sense and the right of people to self- determination made us give to the two states for whom we wish only the best," he said.

"Everything proves now that to find an end to these wars, there are no other ways than those we propose. Everything indicates that because of this fact, we will one day be in a situation to contribute in the best way to international solutions."

De Gaulle did not go into detail on France's proposals to end the two conflicts.

In the past he has repeatedly called for an American pullout from Vietnam, leaving the Vietnanese to settle their problems themselves.

On the Middle East, he said that Israel must evacuate the Arab territories it took in the June 5-9 war. He has also said there must be reciprocal recognition by Israel and the Arab states, free navigation for all in the Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez Canal, and an international regime for Jerusalem.

De Gaulle, whose speech was recorded in the Elysee Palace, repeated a familiar call for the union of all Europe through "relaxations of tensions and cooperation."

In the West, he said, the six-nation Common Market must be strengthened "provided it does so in emancipation and not subordination" — an obvious reference to American influence in Europe.

Speaking of increasing the membership of the Common Market, he said this could happen "one day perhaps . . . when candidates will politically, economically and mentarily able to enter without destroying it or misleading it."

In recent weeks, De Gaulle has made it clear that Britain which filed an application to join the Common Market in May, will not be let in under present circumstances.

De Gaulle made only passing reference to his support of French-Canadian separatism, which first boiled into a storm during his visit to Quebec in July with his cry "long live free Quebec."

De Gaulle began his 11-minute speech by wishing happy New Year to all Frenchmen and added: "When France succeeds, all its children see their chances grow. Yes, all of them — that is, those of metropolitan France, those of our overseas departments and territories, those who live abroad, and finally — an instance which is very moving and especially dear to us — those of the French nation in Canada".

De Gaulle contends that the French Canadians do not have rights equal to those of their English-speaking neighbors and says that France intends to help them out. Just how far has not been made clear.

De Gaulle said France would continue its foreign policy in 1968 "on the base of our independence" — indicating further controversial ploys in the coming year.

He also said that France will press ahead with its plan for "the best means of dissuasion and defense" — a reference to his hopes for a hydrogen bomb. At the same time, he said, France will do all it can to help underdeveloped nations.

De Gaulle seemed in good form as he addressed the nation. For the first time, a speech of his was carried by color television.

Trustees Set Organization In Liverpool

Liverpool Township trustees will hold an organization meeting for 1968 tonight at 6 in the township office building in LaCroft.

Samuel B. Webber, elected at the November general election, will assume his post, replacing Frank Gray, who had served 23 years as trustee.

The trustees also will elect a chairman; appoint a road crew; select a constable; adopt a temporary budget; appoint members of the firemen's dependent board and set regular meeting nights. Guy Digman is the present chairman. Richard Sanford is the other hold-over member of the board. Fred Fryman is the incumbent constable.

The retiring board held its final meeting Friday night at the township building. Bills totaling $1,629.50 were ordered paid.

Residents of 5th Ave., LaCroft, appeared to complain about a parking problem on their street. The trustees agreed to investigate and also to advise the constable and the sheriff's office.

Paul Cunningham, clerk, was instructed to send a letter to Gray expressing the thanks and appreciation of the board for his long service.

City Hospital Treats 7 In Emergencies

A city woman injured in a fall Sunday at home was admitted to City Hospital, where six other area residents were treated Saturday and Sunday.

Sylvia Wagner of Princeton Ave. is in "fair" condition with a fractured right ankle suffered in the fall.

Treated Sunday were Jay Brooks, son of Ronald Brooks of 500 Northside Ave., a contusion and fracture of the left shoulder area when his sled struck a pole; Edward Rhodes Jr., son of Edward Rhodes Jr. of 188 E. Main St., Salineville, a laceration of the scalp while sledding.

Charlotte Keller of 1600 Maine Blvd., a sprain of the right wrist and a contusion of the right shoulder in a fall on ice, Stephen Newhouse, son of Mrs. Ruby Newhouse of 9 Lincoln St., Salineville, a contusion of the right shoulder while sledding.

Treated Saturday were Jay Lucas, son of Jack Lucas of 750 Beaver Ave., Midland, a laceration of the lower lip in a fall down stairs; Daryl Jackson, son of Kenneth Jackson of 320½ Main St., Wellsville, laceration of the nose and upper lip in a fall while crossing the Chester bridge.

Urges Hope, Understanding In 1968

King Tells Greek People He Hopes To Return Soon

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — King Constantine told the Greek people in a New Year's message Monday that he hoped to return soon to Greece.

The king, who fled to Rome Dec. 14 with his family after his countercoup against the military government failed, said he still held "freedom and democratic government dearer than life itself."

But in a conciliatory tone he urged Greeks to face 1968 "with hope and understanding in a spirit of national unity."

Constantine did not specify when he planned to return. Nor did he indicate whether negotiations in the past two weeks with envoys from the Athens junta had brought any concessions from Greece's military rulers.

The king announced Dec. 20 he would return to his throne only if the regime agreed to "a firm and complete timetable for the re-establishment of a normal, democratic political life," including restoration of the Greek parliament, suspended since the military took over in a coup April 21.

In Athens, the government ordered publication of the king's New Year's message until further orders. The government had imposed a similar blackout on his statement of conditions for return but allowed it to be published the next day.

The king's New Year's message to the Greek people said in full: "The queen and I wish you all a Happy New Year. I want you to know that our thoughts are always with you wherever we may be. My life has been and always will be dedicated to the well-being of my people.

"We Greeks hold freedom and democratic government dearer than life itself. A new year dawns today. Let all of us face it with hope and understanding in a spirit of national unity.

"May the fulfillment of our hopes find us all united with a happy and prosperous Greece.

"We hope soon to be among you again. We send you all our love and our heartfelt wishes for a Happy New Year."

Search For Plane Called Off In South

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The Civil Air Patrol search for a plane feared down in the Great Smoky Mountains with two Ohioans aboard was called off Sunday.

Lt. Col. Foy Reese, mission co-ordinator for the North Carolina wing of the CAP, said the search will be resumed "when substantial leads are received." Snow, sleet and rain hampered Sunday's search efforts.

The pilot, Larry Wood, 22, and Harry Stites, 58, both of London, have been missing since Dec. 22, when they left Ohio for Columbus, Ga., to pick up Stites' son, who is in the Army, for the holidays.

Early settlers poured through the mountains into Kentucky by way of the Cumberland Gap.

Wilson Warns His Country Of Hardships

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson warned in a New Year's message that Britain faces a year of hardship and sacrifice — but a year of vital opportunity.

In a message to members of his Labor party, he said November's devaluation of the pound can bring increased economic strength and job security, and eventually higher living standards.

The party's domestic objective, he said, remains full employment within a sound and expanding economy. Abroad, he said, every opportunity must be taken to seek an end to the war in Vietnam.

Opposition leader Edward Heath told his Conservative party to be ready for a year of decision which might see the end of Wilson's Labor government.

Heath summed up 1967 as a year of bewilderment, hardship, frustration and disappointment — "all for the promise of more hardship, frustration and disappointment."

He added: "I do not believe that the British people will be ready to endure another year like that — or that this Socialist government could survive it."

Reds In Brazil Ban Force To Topple Regime

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's outlawed Communist party surfaced Sunday with a published document assailing the nation's military-bred government but ruling out armed struggle to bring it down.

The document, published in the independent newspaper Jornal do Brasil, rejected Red Chinese and Cuban calls for violent revolution — or Vietnams in Latin America — as the way to overturn present leaders.

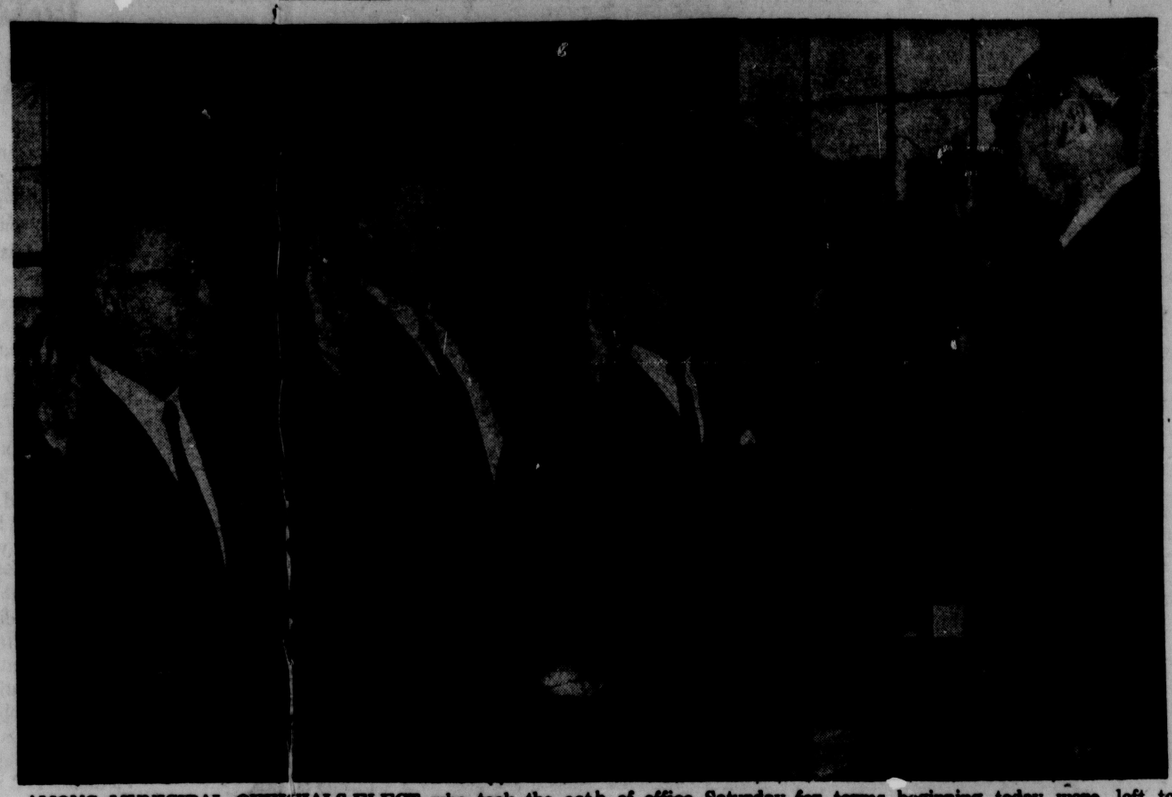

It urges instead exploitation of what it calls dissatisfaction with the government's wage and economic policies to consolidate opposition "mobilizing, uniting and organzing the working classes and other patriotic forces for a struggle against the dictatorial regime."

Brazil's Communist party is believed to have a card-carrying membership of about 40,000. The document was drawn up at the party's first congress since 1960, held in secret early in December.

The document assailed the government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva, a former army marshal, as a dictatorship dominated by "defeatist, antidemocratic and antilabor ideas."

But the party conceded for the first time that development in Brazil began its decline under the government of left-leaning President Joao Goulart. Goulart was overthrown by the military in 1964 and exiled on the grounds he was too soft on Communists.

Parrots, sparrows and titmice show a reasonable amount of brainpower. Crows and ravens can be regarded as the geniuses of the bird world.

AMONG MUNICIPAL OFFICIALS-ELECT who took the oath of office Saturday for terms beginning today were, left to right, Edward Massey, Democrat, Fourth Ward councilman who replaces Harold Maylone, Republican; I. Burcham, Democrat, new councilman-at-large, and John Wilson, Republican, who succeeds his wife, Mrs. Donna Richards Wilson, in the Second Ward seat. The oaths were administered by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

More Retire At Crucible

Harold Eardley of Clearwater, Fla., formerly of East Liverpool, has retired as supervisor of the invoice department at the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co. He completed 45 years service.

He and his wife moved to Florida in December. He has a brother, Ernest Eardley of East Liverpool, who is employed in the maintenance section of the finishing mills.

Eardley, who has been in supervision since 1930, joined Crucible in 1922 when he moved to East Liverpool from England.

He worked four years in the cost department and three years at the Midland Improvement Co. and Midland Water Co. before transferring to the invoice department in 1930 as assistant supervisor. He was named supervisor in 1947.

John L. Thomas of Industry, junior melter in the Open Hearth Department since 1955, retired recently with 42 years service.

Others retiring are Charles O. Cox of Midland, stripper man, Open Hearth Department, with 24 years service, and James D. Morgan Jr. of East Liverpool, laborer, Blast Furnace Department, with 15 years. The four retirements become effective today.

Good Tax News

KINSHASA, Congo (AP) — Congolese taxpayers have good news for the new year. The 1968 budget promulgated by President Joseph D. Mobutu shows a $22-million surplus and Finance Minister Paul Mushiete says income taxes will be lowered during the year.

A montage is the production of one complete picture by combining several distinct ones, often in such a way that they blend with or into one another.

3 Winners Are Named For Home Decorations

The winners were announced today in the Christmas home decorating contest sponsored by the East Liverpool Junior Chamber of Commerce. They are:

First place, $100 Savings Bond, Mr. and Mrs. John Klinsky of Westfield.

Second place, $50 bond, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Putnam of Fisher Ave., Maplewood.

Third place, $25 gift certificate from the Potters Lumber Co., Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Devore of Adler St., Dixonville.

The Klinsky home featured a Nativity scene at the side of the residence facing the road, with colored lights outlining the entire house and yard. A moving "Santa Claus" was spotlighted at the front of the house.

The Putnam home offered a picture postcard effect, with the house lending itself perfectly to the decorations. The shrubbery in the yard was lighted and handmade Christmas trees were in each front window. The house was outlined with colored lights.

The Devore dwelling, a house trailer, from a distance looks like a large home, the judges pointed out, due to the expert decorating. The entire trailer is outlined with twinkle lights, with a big red and blue star on the roof.

John Nicholson, contest chairman, pointed out the "judging was extremely difficult, since all the entries were beautiful and well done."

With an eye on next year's event, he pointed out that many other area homes probably could have been winners had they entered the competition.

Nicholson said the photos of the winning entries will be placed on display shortly in the window of the City Loan Co.

Wirtz Ties Wage, Price Controls To Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of wage and price controls will have to be faced in 1968 if Congress does not approve a tax increase, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Sunday.

But such regulation remains the last thing the Johnson administration would want, Secretary of Commerce Alexander Trowbridge emphasized.

Wirtz predicted Congress will recognize the problems of inflation and accept President Johnson's 10-per cent surtax proposal it shelved in 1967.

However, he said, "If you don't have a tax rise, then we'll have to face up to that question of wage and price controls ...

"That'll be part of the reason for a tax rise," he went on.

"The last thing in the world we want is to go anywhere near wage and price controls," Trowbridge added.

Wirtz and Trowbridge were interviewed jointly on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

Wirtz called 1968 a year of crisis in labor negotiations and said if wages continue to go up at an average rate of five per cent, it would pose problems for the economy.

Citing forthcoming talks in the steel, aluminum, can, glass and longshore industries, the Cabinet member said the number of labor issues "goes beyond anything we've seen in recent years."

"We go on through a seres of major disputes, so this is a year of real crisis," Wirtz said.

Wirtz said the wage increases would be worthless if offset by inflated prices. He said, "We're very close to the point where it's going to make no sense to get a wage or a price increase if it's taken away" by inflation.

The Johnson administration has sought the 10-per cent surcharge on corporate and personal income taxes to reduce its budget deficit and cool off the economy. The proposal will be pending in the House Ways and Means Committee when Congress returns Jan. 15.

Warren Youth Dies Of Beating Injuries

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — A Warren High School youth died Sunday of injuries received when he was beaten during a fracas Dec. 21 after a basketball game.

The victim was 15-year-old Robert Dority, a student at Howland Township High School.

Police say Dority and a car full of friends were motioned into a tavern parking lot just north of Youngstown after the Hubbard-Howland basketball game. Hubbard beat Howland, 65-37.

Woman, 44, Charged With Traffic Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 44-year-old Warren woman has been charged with traffic manslaughter in the death of a man who was killed by a car that hit a bus shelter on East 55th Street.

Police said charges were awaiting a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Killed in the crash early Saturday was 35-year-old Charles Vorn. Police said Vorn was sitting in the shelter when Miss Simms' car went out of control, sideswiped another car and rammed the shelter.

Wilson Warns His Country Of Hardships

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson warned in a New Year's message that Britain faces a year of hardship and sacrifice — but a year of vital opportunity.

In a message to members of his Labor party, he said November's devaluation of the pound can bring increased economic strength and job security, and eventually higher living standards.

The party's domestic objective, he said, remains full employment within a sound and expanding economy. Abroad, he said, every opportunity must be taken to seek an end to the war in Vietnam.

Opposition leader Edward Heath told his Conservative party to be ready for a year of decision which might see the end of Wilson's Labor government.

Heath summed up 1967 as a year of bewilderment, hardship, frustration and disappointment — "all for the promise of more hardship, frustration and disappointment."

He added: "I do not believe that the British people will be ready to endure another year like that — or that this Socialist government could survive it."

Reds In Brazil Ban Force To Topple Regime

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's outlawed Communist party surfaced Sunday with a published document assailing the nation's military-bred government but ruling out armed struggle to bring it down.

The document, published in the independent newspaper Jornal do Brasil, rejected Red Chinese and Cuban calls for violent revolution — or Vietnams in Latin America — as the way to overturn present leaders.

It urges instead exploitation of what it calls dissatisfaction with the government's wage and economic policies to consolidate opposition "mobilizing, uniting and organzing the working classes and other patriotic forces for a struggle against the dictatorial regime."

Brazil's Communist party is believed to have a card-carrying membership of about 40,000. The document was drawn up at the party's first congress since 1960, held in secret early in December.

The document assailed the government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva, a former army marshal, as a dictatorship dominated by "defeatist, antidemocratic and antilabor ideas."

But the party conceded for the first time that development in Brazil began its decline under the government of left-leaning President Joao Goulart. Goulart was overthrown by the military in 1964 and exiled on the grounds he was too soft on Communists.

Parrots, sparrows and titmice show a reasonable amount of brainpower. Crows and ravens can be regarded as the geniuses of the bird world.

More Retire At Crucible

Harold Eardley of Clearwater, Fla., formerly of East Liverpool, has retired as supervisor of the invoice department at the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co. He completed 45 years service.

He and his wife moved to Florida in December. He has a brother, Ernest Eardley of East Liverpool, who is employed in the maintenance section of the finishing mills.

Eardley, who has been in supervision since 1930, joined Crucible in 1922 when he moved to East Liverpool from England.

He worked four years in the cost department and three years at the Midland Improvement Co. and Midland Water Co. before transferring to the invoice department in 1930 as assistant supervisor. He was named supervisor in 1947.

John L. Thomas of Industry, junior melter in the Open Hearth Department since 1955, retired recently with 42 years service.

Others retiring are Charles O. Cox of Midland, stripper man, Open Hearth Department, with 24 years service, and James D. Morgan Jr. of East Liverpool, laborer, Blast Furnace Department, with 15 years. The four retirements become effective today.

Good Tax News

KINSHASA, Congo (AP) — Congolese taxpayers have good news for the new year. The 1968 budget promulgated by President Joseph D. Mobutu shows a $22-million surplus and Finance Minister Paul Mushiete says income taxes will be lowered during the year.

A montage is the production of one complete picture by combining several distinct ones, often in such a way that they blend with or into one another.

3 Winners Are Named For Home Decorations

First place, $100 Savings Bond, Mr. and Mrs. John Klinsky of Westfield.

Second place, $50 bond, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Putnam of Fisher Ave., Maplewood.

Third place, $25 gift certificate from the Potters Lumber Co., Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Devore of Adler St., Dixonville.

The Klinsky home featured a Nativity scene at the side of the residence facing the road, with colored lights outlining the entire house and yard. A moving "Santa Claus" was spotlighted at the front of the house.

The Putnam home offered a picture postcard effect, with the house lending itself perfectly to the decorations. The shrubbery in the yard was lighted and handmade Christmas trees were in each front window. The house was outlined with colored lights.

The Devore dwelling, a house trailer, from a distance looks like a large home, the judges pointed out, due to the expert decorating. The entire trailer is outlined with twinkle lights, with a big red and blue star on the roof.

Greeting The New Year

The dawning of a new year is time for the symbolic sweeping out of old bad habits and for new resolve.

The occasion calls for analysis of individual national and international performances of 1967.

Violence — domestic and foreign — has marred the entire year. Blood has flowed continuously in Vietnam and sporadically in our cities.

It is no comfort to recite how many other nations were involved in war, also; or to recount numerous shaky economic and governmental structures in other nations.

It is easy to forget the plus side of 1967 — advances in medicine, food production, space exploration and human rights. A myriad of individual good deeds went unnoticed by everyone except the beneficiaries.

Little thought is given to all the energy that went into preparation by young people to prepare themselves to meet the challenge of society—energy that could have been spent in less admirable endeavors.

Some people spent the entire year working to make the world better. Others worked in neighborhood and community projects, campaigns for charity and worthwhile programs by organizations.

We live in a complex age of changing values, truth-seeking and revision of outdated thinking. The year 1967 demonstrated very well the many problems of our era.

More importantly, it brought about the crystallization of nagging thoughts that have been nibbling away at the conscience of Americans a long time.

Americans have been forced to ask themselves embarrassing questions about war, skin color, poverty and individual freedom. A new spirit of honest inquiry provides hope as we greet the year 1968.

Each new year brings some new problems, some of the same old problems, challenge, disillusionment, accomplishment, new discoveries, repeated mistakes and progress.

Whatever the problems of 1968 turn out to be, in addition to those carried over from 1967, the new awareness Americans found in 1967 will ease their eventual solution.

More Housing Ahead

A happy New Year bit of news was announcement of a $2.1 million federal loan for a 130-unit low income housing project near Maine Blvd.

Inadequate or insufficient housing has been a part of the East Liverpool "trouble list" for many years.

The 1960 census indicated the city had 8.3 per cent homes in dilapidated condition, compared to the Ohio urban level of 2.9 per cent, and 21.1 per cent of homes in deteriorating condition — almost twice the state's 11.2 per cent. The median value of housing was $8,600, well below the state's $14,000.

Approval of funds for the Maine Blvd. development and preparation for construction of the 11-story housing complex for the elderly in the West End — also under the Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority — assure the initial steps toward meeting a serious need. Private developments and construction of apartments has helped alleviate only some of the shortages of medium income living quarters.

But East Liverpool, primarily a residential-commercial community, must continue to promote more building. Guidelines for redevelopment and renewal are listed in the comprehensive plan, and city officials, the housing authority, private developers and investors would do well to plan for a cooperative effort to tackle the task together.

Harrisburg Veto Needed

Pennsylvania taxpayers should certainly hope reports coming out of Harrisburg that Gov. Raymond Shafer will veto the proposed pension plan for legislators are true.

The plush program, approved 48-0 by the Senate and 128-64 by the House and based on a formula of years served plus other benefits of which many of the legislators themselves were uncertain, is simply not warranted.

To attract capable men to government and to properly reimburse them for service is one thing. But to give, for example, the top General Assembly leaders as much annual retirement pay as $48,480 is difficult to justify—especially for the leaders of this session whose record of inaction, stalemate, bickering and wasteful delay is apparent to all.

Many Beaver Countians cannot understand why Sen. Ernest Kline (D) of Beaver Falls, even though one of the prime recipients of the plan, would lend himself to this porkbarrel dip when he has so often pointed out the need to trim "fat" from the state budget.

Beaver County Democrat Representative Charles Stone and Republican Robert Davis voted against it; Democrat Ronald Lench voted for it; Democrat Robert Hamilton did not vote.

A pension is deserved by the state legislators, but it should not be equated to that of a Maharajah, particularly when almost all of them have their own profitable careers.

This irresponsibility with tax money, tied in with reports that some representatives recorded as voting on the House electronic tabulator despite their absence, should give the constitutional convention some additional evidence of why modifications are needed in the Keystone State's legislature — especially providing for fewer representatives and shorter sessions.

It will be up to the voters to make sure there is a greater awareness of fiscal responsibility.

TRUMAN TWILL

Happiness For One And All!

Just to be a little different, Happy New Year EVERYBODY!

And just to be a lot different, I mean EVERYBODY.

I want the New Year to be happy for all befuddled little people in foreign lands being pushed around by Great Powers and I want it to be as happy as it can be for the survivors of those killed in the melee.

I want it to be happy, also, for all little people in the United States who have been caught in the grinding crunch of international power politics and have known the heartache of separation from loved ones and the utter desolation of death.

I wish a Happy New Year to all people I have been told to hate for assorted ideological reasons. I am unable to find them hateful for the reasons cited, though I might find some of them hateful for personal reasons, just as I find some of my fellow countrymen hateful for personal reasons.

I bespeak an extra allotment of happiness in the New Year for that minority of Homo Sapiens whose love for their own kind is expressed in acts of kindness, because without this tangible evidence of innate goodness the innate badness of humankind would gain easy ascendancy.

My heart overflows with good wishes for children, especially those old enough to share the hollow disenchantment of their generation with the antics of a preceding generation which seems to them to have "gone ape" with no hope of redemption.

I wish Happy New Year to all artisans, because in the long view they are the only ones among us who have lived up to the promise of an era in which so many good things were expected to be possible but in which only mechanical performance has come up to expectation.

Happiest of New Years also to all girls of my era who have been worth watching, because when it is all said and done watching them is the only pleasure that never palls, with particular reference to the one I have watched at close range for more than four decades.

And Happy New Year to all people who have been reading this column, because they have shared with its writer a lively interest in those small facets of thought and behavior that put punch and pathos into human existence.

May all the good things of the past be better in the future and all the bad things easier to bear.

Happy New Year — Everybody!

'You're a Little Child . . . So Lead'

Gun-And-Butter Year

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

It is not too early to make a report on the economy for 1968. We are grateful to Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Grim Economic Institute for providing us with the information that could be of such great value to all Americans.

Art Buchwald

Professor, how do you see 1968, economically speaking, that is?"

"I see it as another great gun-and-butter year, with possibly the thrust a little more toward guns than butter."

"Is this bad?"

"Well, in a gun-and-butter economy, you always like to have an even balance between the two, but it's hard to maintain, particularly in a society that consumes so much oleomargarine."

"What can we expect if the pendulum swings in that direction?"

"An inflationary spiral followed by a wage and price merry-go-round which will eventually lead to a roller coaster ride ending on a Ferris wheel cycle of high interest rates."

"WOULD THIS stem the tide?" I asked.

"It depends on how many ripples you have in the waves of the economy. Some unemployment may wash over the sands of counter-production, but it's the undertow that we have to worry about."

"Could the body of our economy be hurt?"

"I think it may become bruised and sprained, but I don't see any fractures or contusions. Of course, I'm not a doctor."

"Do you see growth in the gross national product?"

"There could be growth, depending on what kind of fertilizer the administration uses. We have to cultivate production, but at the same time we have to get at the weeds of inflation. This can be done by either spraying the economy with new investment, or cutting off the water to the American dollar."

"But doesn't this put pressure on the system?"

"The system can probably stand a certain amount of pressure, providing the input is not greater than the output. The problem here, of course, is heat. We can't let the economy overheat, yet if it cools off for a period of time, it might be difficult to start stoking up the fires again. I think here we have to think in terms of durable goods, if we think of anything at all."

"Prof. Applebaum, is there any possibility of cushioning the economy without falling off the precipice?"

"IT DEPENDS on how soft the economy gets. I don't think the government can sit on business, even though it doesn't hurt to give it a kick once in a while."

"Then from what you say, if spending continues unabated, all signs lead to another spiral which, in turn, could lead to the absence of economic euphoria and possibly an upward thrust with some strain, but not necessarily a clean break with the patterns of 1967."

Prof Applebaum said, "Are you a wise guy, or something?"

"No sir. I was trying to get this all in perspective."

"I believe what I said was quite clear. You have a perverse economy, with relatively pessimistic monetary inversions, leading to starts and stops which could or could not set into motion a boom or bust, depending on how many people go to sports stores and buy guns, as opposed to how many people go to grocery stores and buy butter."

RAYMOND MOLEY

The Cure-All

President Johnson acts on the principle that any ill in our society can be cured by throwing money at it.

If its existence is widely known, doing a lot about it is productive of popularity and votes. Unlike his circumspection in foreign affairs, his action on the domestic front is compulsive and lavish.

The President's routine is to deplore the social ill, recommend a lot of money, get Congress to make the appropriation, then dump the money on the bureaucracy.

That has been his method in providing for what are called the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

President Kennedy, no doubt guided by a fairly prudent Secretary Abraham Ribicoff of Health, Education and Welfare, in his first budget recommended an appropriation of $583,400,000. The Johnson budgets since then have jumped to $1,425,700,000.

No government service can grow so much and so soon without great waste. This one is no exception.

CONGRESSIONAL committees have complained about waste in spending this money. As far back as 1961, the House Committee on Government Operations, after a two-year study, found major weaknesses in NIH and made recommendations which even officials in the agency agreed should be acted upon.

The next year the committee found little improvement. In 1965, a special presidential committee found that NIH, under pressure to spend and spend, had little time to correct bad management practices. As late as October 1967, the Government Operations Committee concluded that NIH had made "relatively little effort to improve its administration of grants."

Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on appropriations for the agency, has in effect accused critics of not wanting to save lives. In 14 of 16 budgets, the Senate under Hill's prodding has increased the President's request.

There is no more powerful lobby than the one pressing for more and more appropriations for the NIH.

In the current Atlantic Monthly, an informative article by Elizabeth Brenner Drew, "The Health Syndicate," describes the growing power in that lobby of the Lasker Foundation, in which the moving spirit is Mrs. Mary Lasker.

That lady, armed with private, tax-exempt funds, is most influential with President Johnson and the senators and congressmen responsible for health appropriations. In the "team" operating the lobby are a number of doctors skilled in the art of political pressure.

The NIH lobby operates in the noble interests of humanity. Who can possibly be against eradicating the killer diseases?

Congressional committees have used the words "inept," "inadequate" and "surprising laxity" in reviewing every aspect of NIH management. For instance, one organization was overpaid almost $500,000 which has still not been recovered.

A FIVE-YEAR, $23-million commitment was made "without first developing workable methods for the comprehensive scientific and administrative review" of the whole program. Grants to Health Science Awards have been made without open competition.

There is a limit to the number of scientists who can be employed and supported. It ill serves the purposes of research to underwrite an increasing number of grants to those who have neither skill nor adequate plans.

Moreover, such profligate giving impairs the effectiveness of teaching in medical schools. Dr. W. C. Davidson, former dean of the Duke University medical school, said in 1963: "With grants for research projects, research facilities, research training, research equipment, research personnel and for anything in any way, shape or form, so long as it is for research, the central educational function of medical schools has been seriously distorted."

Prudent management of such huge funds is gravely needed.

Odd Facts

The ancestor of today's popular safety pin was a metal brooch called a "fibula," which was worn by ancient Greeks and Romans.

The first plastic billiard balls appeared in 1868.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Who's Listening?

Most puzzling aspect of the Vietnam War is that people supposed to be knowledgeable and well-informed apparently know very little about the relationship between what is happening in Southeast Asia and the security of the United States.

Advertisement in the New York Times signed by 426 persons contained a message to the President which said:

"We in the book publishing industry and library profession want you to hear our voices raised along with those of many other informed, responsible citizens in the worlds of business, the professions and the arts.

"The United States is the most powerful nation on earth. Let us act with responsibility. Let us have the wisdom and the courage and the compassion for peace in Vietnam now."

Signers of the communication claim they are "acting as individuals" and that the affiliations with their different companies were given only for "identification."

The declaration ends with this demand:

"Let us stop sending the young men of our country across the world to be killed. Let us stop destroying the people and the economy of Vietnam. Let us stop bombing North Vietnam and start negotiating now!"

NO CONSIDERATION is given by the signers to the effects of an American surrender in Vietnam, or of the consequences to the rest of the world, particularly Southeast Asia.

The advertisement declares that "military assessments of the war in Vietnam have proved tragically wrong," and that it is time "for a civilized, civilian approach to the problem."

Yet, Allied military forces in Vietnam have been restrained from using maximum power by that very same thing — civilian caution and a fear of political consequences.

The military men have never been given full authority to conduct the war as they think it should be.

In an interview published in the New York Times, Dwight Eisenhower, who was president of the United States for eight years and knows both the civilian and military points of view, gave the answer to those who want to surrender in Vietnam. He said:

"To pull out now under whatever guise would mean the end ultimately of all the free and independent countries of that area (Southeast Asia). You pull out our armed forces from South Vietnam and it will only be a question of time before every country up the borders of India falls under the Communist heel. That includes Laos and Cambodia — right next door — as well as Thailand and Burma, and I'm not too sure about India, either, once they have got that far."

President Johnson has tried in every way to persuade the North Vietnamese to come to the conference table. So when a demand is made that the United States stop the war now, this means, in effect, that America should withdraw in abject surrender and let Southeast Asia take care of itself.

Recently, 14 professors and scholars in universities who have specialized in Asian affairs warned against accepting a Communist victory in Vietnam and said:

"These are not developments conducive to a long-range peace. They are more likely to prove precursors to larger, more costly wars."

THE MYSTERY is why so many persons in the business and professional fields should sign an advertisement demanding an ending of the war when the Communists seem unwilling to negotiate.

The signers are disregarding the arguments of the U.S. government, as well as declarations by the governments of the Philippines, Australia, South Korea and others allied with this country, concerning the importance of an honorable settlement of the war in Vietnam.

Several organizations have expressed thoughts similar to those of the nearly 500 signers in the book publishing business and library profession.

This causes people in Washington to wonder whether the official explanations given by governments throughout the world are really read by those protesting continuance of the war.

Greeting The New Year

The dawning of a new year is time for the symbolic sweeping out of old bad habits and for new resolve.

The occasion calls for analysis of individual national and international performances of 1967.

Violence — domestic and foreign — has marred the entire year. Blood has flowed continuously in Vietnam and sporadically in our cities.

It is no comfort to recite how many other nations were involved in war, also; or to recount numerous shaky economic and governmental structures in other nations.

It is easy to forget the plus side of 1967 — advances in medicine, food production, space exploration and human rights. A myriad of individual good deeds went unnoticed by everyone except the beneficiaries.

Little thought is given to all the energy that went into preparation by young people to prepare themselves to meet the challenge of society—energy that could have been spent in less admirable endeavors.

Some people spent the entire year working to make the world better. Others worked in neighborhood and community projects, campaigns for charity and worthwhile programs by organizations.

We live in a complex age of changing values, truth-seeking and revision of outdated thinking. The year 1967 demonstrated very well the many problems of our era.

More importantly, it brought about the crystallization of nagging thoughts that have been nibbling away at the conscience of Americans a long time.

Americans have been forced to ask themselves embarrassing questions about war, skin color, poverty and individual freedom. A new spirit of honest inquiry provides hope as we greet the year 1968.

Each new year brings some new problems, some of the same old problems, challenge, disillusionment, accomplishment, new discoveries, repeated mistakes and progress.

Whatever the problems of 1968 turn out to be, in addition to those carried over from 1967, the new awareness Americans found in 1967 will ease their eventual solution.

More Housing Ahead

A happy New Year bit of news was announcement of a $2.1 million federal loan for a 130-unit low income housing project near Maine Blvd.

Inadequate or insufficient housing has been a part of the East Liverpool "trouble list" for many years.

The 1960 census indicated the city had 8.3 per cent homes in dilapidated condition, compared to the Ohio urban level of 2.9 per cent, and 21.1 per cent of homes in deteriorating condition — almost twice the state's 11.2 per cent. The median value of housing was $8,600, well below the state's $14,000.

Approval of funds for the Maine Blvd. development and preparation for construction of the 11-story housing complex for the elderly in the West End — also under the Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority — assure the initial steps toward meeting a serious need. Private developments and construction of apartments has helped alleviate only some of the shortages of medium income living quarters.

But East Liverpool, primarily a residential-commercial community, must continue to promote more building. Guidelines for redevelopment and renewal are listed in the comprehensive plan, and city officials, the housing authority, private developers and investors would do well to plan for a cooperative effort to tackle the task together.

Harrisburg Veto Needed

Pennsylvania taxpayers should certainly hope reports coming out of Harrisburg that Gov. Raymond Shafer will veto the proposed pension plan for legislators are true.

The plush program, approved 48-0 by the Senate and 126-64 by the House and based on a formula of years served plus other benefits of which many of the legislators themselves were uncertain, is simply not warranted.

To attract capable men to government and to properly reimburse them for service is one thing. But to give, for example, the top General Assembly leaders as much annual retirement pay as $48,480 is difficult to justify—especially for the leaders of this session whose record of inaction, stalemate, bickering and wasteful delay is apparent to all.

Many Beaver Countians cannot understand why Sen. Ernest Kline (D) of Beaver Falls, even though one of the prime recipients of the plan, would lend himself to this porkbarrel dip when he has so often pointed out the need to trim "fat" from the state budget.

Beaver County Democrat Representative Charles Stone and Republican Robert Davis voted against it; Democrat Ronald Lench voted for it; Democrat Robert Hamilton did not vote.

A pension is deserved by the state legislators, but it should not be equated to that of a Maharajah, particularly when almost all of them have their own profitable careers.

This irresponsibility with tax money, tied in with reports that some representatives recorded as voting on the House electronic tabulator despite their absence, should give the constitutional convention some additional evidence of why modifications are needed in the Keystone State's legislature — especially providing for fewer representatives and shorter sessions.

It will be up to the voters to make sure there is a greater awareness of fiscal responsibility.

Happiness For One And All!

Just to be a little different, Happy New Year EVERYBODY!

And just to be a lot different, I mean EVERYBODY.

I want the New Year to be happy for all befuddled little people in foreign lands being pushed around by Great Powers and I want it to be as happy as it can be for the survivors of those killed in the melee.

I want it to be happy, also, for all little people in the United States who have been caught in the grinding crunch of international power politics and have known the heartache of separation from loved ones and the utter desolation of death.

I wish a Happy New Year to all people I have been told to hate for assorted ideological reasons. I am unable to find them hateful for the reasons cited, though I might find some of them hateful for personal reasons, just as I find some of my fellow countrymen hateful for personal reasons.

I bespeak an extra allotment of happiness in the New Year for that minority of Homo Sapiens whose love for their own kind is expressed in acts of kindness, because without this tangible evidence of innate goodness the innate badness of humankind would gain easy ascendancy.

My heart overflows with good wishes for children, especially those old enough to share the hollow disenchantment of their generation with the antics of a preceding generation which seems to them to have "gone ape" with no hope of redemption.

I wish Happy New Year to all artisans, because in the long view they are the only ones among us who have lived up to the promise of an era in which so many good things were expected to be possible but in which only mechanical performance has come up to expectation.

Happiest of New Years also to all girls of my era who have been worth watching, because when it is all said and done watching them is the only pleasure that never palls, with particular reference to the one I have watched at close range for more than four decades.

And Happy New Year to all people who have been reading this column, because they have shared with its writer a lively interest in those small facets of thought and behavior that put punch and pathos into human existence.

May all the good things of the past be better in the future and all the bad things easier to bear.

Happy New Year — Everybody!

'You're a Little Child . . . So Lead'

Gun-And-Butter Year

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

It is not too early to make a report on the economy for 1968. We are grateful to Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Grim Economic Institute for providing us with the information that could be of such great value to all Americans.

Art Buchwald

Professor, how do you see 1968, economically speaking, that is?"

"I see it as another great gun-and-butter year, with possibly the thrust a little more toward guns than butter."

"Is this bad?"

"Well, in a gun-and-butter economy, you always like to have an even balance between the two, but it's hard to maintain, particularly in a society that consumes so much oleomargarine."

"What can we expect if the pendulum swings in that direction?"

"An inflationary spiral followed by a wage and price merry-go-round which will eventually lead to a roller coaster ride ending on a Ferris wheel cycle of high interest rates."

"WOULD THIS stem the tide?" I asked.

"It depends on how many ripples you have in the waves of the economy. Some unemployment may wash over the sands of counter-production, but it's the undertow that we have to worry about."

"Could the body of our economy be hurt?"

"I think it may become bruised and sprained, but I don't see any fractures or contusions. Of course, I'm not a doctor."

"Do you see growth in the gross national product?"

"There could be growth, depending on what kind of fertilizer the administration uses. We have to cultivate production, but at the same time we have to get at the weeds of inflation. This can be done by either spraying the economy with new investment, or cutting off the water to the American dollar."

"But doesn't this put pressure on the system?"

"The system can probably stand a certain amount of pressure, providing the input is not greater than the output. The problem here, of course, is heat. We can't let the economy overheat, yet if it cools off for a period of time, it might be difficult to start stoking up the fires again. I think here we have to think in terms of durable goods, if we think of anything at all."

"Prof. Applebaum, is there any possibility of cushioning the economy without falling off the precipice?"

"IT DEPENDS on how soft the economy gets. I don't think the government can sit on business, even though it doesn't hurt to give it a kick once in a while."

"Then from what you say, if spending continues unabated, all signs lead to another spiral which, in turn, could lead to the absence of economic euphoria and possibly an upward thrust with some strain, but not necessarily a clean break with the patterns of 1967."

Prof Applebaum said, "Are you a wise guy, or something?"

"No sir. I was trying to get this all in perspective."

"I believe what I said was quite clear. You have a perverse economy, with relatively pessimistic monetary inversions, leading to starts and stops which could or could not set into motion a boom or bust, depending on how many people go to sports stores and buy guns, as opposed to how many people go to grocery stores and buy butter."

The Cure-All

President Johnson acts on the principle that any ill in our society can be cured by throwing money at it.

If its existence is widely known, doing a lot about it is productive of popularity and votes. Unlike his circumspection in foreign affairs, his action on the domestic front is compulsive and lavish.

The President's routine is to deplore the social ill, recommend a lot of money, get Congress to make the appropriation, then dump the money on the bureaucracy.

That has been his method in providing for what are called the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

President Kennedy, no doubt guided by a fairly prudent Secretary Abraham Ribicoff of Health, Education and Welfare, in his first budget recommended an appropriation of $583,400,000. The Johnson budgets since then have jumped to $1,425,700,000.

No government service can grow so much and so soon without great waste. This one is no exception.

CONGRESSIONAL committees have complained about waste in spending this money. As far back as 1961, the House Committee on Government Operations, after a two-year study, found major weaknesses in NIH and made recommendations which even officials in the agency agreed should be acted upon.

The next year the committee found little improvement. In 1965, a special presidential committee found that NIH, under pressure to spend and spend, had little time to correct bad management practices. As late as October 1967, the Government Operations Committee concluded that NIH had made "relatively little effort to improve its administration of grants."

Sen. Lister Hill, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on appropriations for the agency, has in effect accused critics of not wanting to save lives. In 14 of 16 budgets, the Senate under Hill's prodding has increased the President's request.

There is no more powerful lobby than the one pressing for more and more appropriations for the NIH.

In the current Atlantic Monthly, an informative article by Elizabeth Brenner Drew, "The Health Syndicate," describes the growing power in that lobby of the Lasker Foundation, in which the moving spirit is Mrs. Mary Lasker.

That lady, armed with private, tax-exempt funds, is most influential with President Johnson and the senators and congressmen responsible for health appropriations. In the "team" operating the lobby are a number of doctors skilled in the art of political pressure.

The NIH lobby operates in the noble interests of humanity. Who can possibly be against eradicating the killer diseases?

Congressional committees have used the words "inept," "inadequate" and "surprising laxity" in reviewing every aspect of NIH management. For instance, one organization was overpaid almost $500,000 which has still not been recovered.

A FIVE-YEAR, $23-million commitment was made "without first developing workable methods for the comprehensive scientific and administrative review" of the whole program. Grants to Health Science Awards have been made without open competition.

There is a limit to the number of scientists who can be employed and supported. It ill serves the purposes of research to underwrite an increasing number of grants to those who have neither skill nor adequate plans.

Moreover, such profligate giving impairs the effectiveness of teaching in medical schools. Dr. W. C. Davidson, former dean of the Duke University medical school, said in 1963: "With grants for research projects, research facilities, research training, research equipment, research personnel and for anything in any way, shape or form, so long as it is for research, the central educational function of medical schools has been seriously distorted."

Prudent management of such huge funds is gravely needed.

Odd Facts

The ancestor of today's popular safety pin was a metal brooch called a "fibula," which was worn by ancient Greeks and Romans.

The first plastic billiard balls appeared in 1868.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Who's Listening?

Most puzzling aspect of the Vietnam War is that people supposed to be knowledgeable and well-informed apparently know very little about the relationship between what is happening in Southeast Asia and the security of the United States.

Advertisement in the New York Times signed by 496 persons contained a message to the President which said:

"We in the book publishing industry and library profession want you to hear our voices raised along with those of many other informed, responsible citizens in the worlds of business, the professions and the arts.

"The United States is the most powerful nation on earth. Let us act with responsibility. Let us have 'the wisdom and the courage and the compassion for peace in Vietnam now."

Signers of the communication claim they are "acting as individuals" and that the affiliations with their different companies were given only for "identification."

The declaration ends with this demand:

"Let us stop sending the young men of our country across the world to be killed. Let us stop destroying the people and the economy of Vietnam. Let us stop bombing North Vietnam and start negotiating now!"

NO CONSIDERATION is given by the signers to the effects of an American surrender in Vietnam, or of the consequences to the rest of the world, particularly Southeast Asia.

The advertisement declares that "military assessments of the war in Vietnam have proved tragically wrong," and that it is time "for a civilized, civilian approach to the problem."

Yet, Allied military forces in Vietnam have been restrained from using maximum power by that very same thing — civilian caution and a fear of political consequences.

The military men have never been given full authority to conduct the war as they think it should be.

In an interview published in the New York Times, Dwight Eisenhower, who was president of the United States for eight years and knows both the civilian and military points of view, gave the answer to those who want to surrender in Vietnam. He said:

"To pull out now under whatever guise would mean the end ultimately of all the free and independent countries of that area (Southeast Asia). You pull out our armed forces from South Vietnam and it will only be a question of time before every country up the borders of India falls under the Communist heel. That includes Laos and Cambodia — right next door — as well as Thailand and Burma, and I'm not too sure about India, either, once they have got that far."

President Johnson has tried in every way to persuade the North Vietnamese to come to the conference table. So when a demand is made that the United States stop the war now, this means, in effect, that America should withdraw in abject surrender and let Southeast Asia take care of itself.

Recently, 14 professors and scholars in universities who have specialized in Asian affairs warned against accepting a Communist victory in Vietnam and said:

"These are not developments conducive to a long-range peace. They are more likely to prove precursors to larger, more costly wars."

THE MYSTERY is why so many persons in the business and professional fields should sign an advertisement demanding an ending of the war when the Communists seem unwilling to negotiate.

Retired Dentist To Be Patient

New Heart Transplant Slated By Dr. Barnard

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Christiaan Barnard said Sunday his medical team in Cape Town may carry out another human heart transplant operation "within hours."

It all depends upon when a suitable donor is found to supply a heart for Dr. Philip Blaiberg, 58, a retired dentist dangerously ill in Groote Schurr Hospital.

This is the hospital where Barnard's team performed the world's first heart transplant Dec. 3 on Louis Washkansky, 55. Washkansky died 18 days later but death was attributed to pneumonia, not to the operation.

Stopping over in London en route back to South Africa from a visit to the United States and a talk with President Johnson, reporters asked Barnard if he was more confident of success in this second operation.

"I think the main thing is that the main difference will be we will have more confidence now in that we are not going into the unknown," Barnard replied. "We are going where we have been before."

He said the death of Washkansky has no effect on Blaiberg's desire for the operation. He said Blaiberg had one advantage over Washkansky. Washkansky was a diabetic. Blaiberg is not.

Barnard said he had heard Sunday morning from Dr. Val-Schrire, senior physician at Groote Schuur, that Blaiberg's condition was "very bad."

"I think everything is prepared," he added. "We know we can do it a second time."

Barnard said he saw Blaiberg in the hospital after Washkansky's death.

"I told him what had happened and asked if he had changed his mind," the surgeon recalled. "But he said no—he was quite confident it would work one day."

Of Washkansky's death from pneumonia, Barnard said: "although we took every precaution to prevent infection we must have made a mistake. I still think he may have got infected by organisms harboring in his body."

Newsmen asked if it was possible to take even more precautions to prevent infection.

"I don't know," the surgeon replied. "Even with a completely germ-free room it is still possible to get infection."

Newspaper reports from South Africa said Blaiberg was Washkansky's dentist in World War II at a training camp.

Blaiberg was prepared for the operation with biochemical tests and everything was done to ease his heart weakness, caused by a severe coronary thrombosis, said the Johannesburg Sunday Express.

The Sunday Times reported that Blaiberg's blood group was B-positive, one of the rarer groups, and thus it may be difficult to find a donor.

Surgeons indicated the donor probably would have to be someone who died in a traffic accident with his heart uninjured, as did the young woman whose heart went to Washkansky.

A second human heart transplant failed at Brooklyn's Maimonedes Hospital a few days after the Washkansky surgery. A 2½-year-old infant died 6½ hours after being given the heart of a child which died when three days old.

Iowa Corn Farmer Aids Production In Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roswell Garst, Iowa corn farmer who made headlines as host to Soviet Premier Khrushchev in 1959, is credited by U.S. officials with a major assist in multiplying agriculture production of Salvador, a little nation in Central America.

Garst and Dr. Benjamin Birdsall, tropical agricultural specialist of the Agency for International Development (AID), hit upon the idea of boosting Salvador's food production during a visit to 10 Latin American nations in 1964, an AID official said.

The results of their program are called astonishing. And they have raised hopes for similar successes elsewhere in Latin America.

Garst, who has visited the Soviet Union various times and introduced hybrid corn to Romania, became enthusiastic about Salvador's possibilities after his 1964 visit. AID officials said he was able to convince the Salvadorean government, and the U.S. AID mission, to go ahead with the demonstration program.

The Iowan worked with Birdsall in planning the program and in selection of seed.

For years, Salvador, whose population density of 360 per square mile is one of the highest in the New World, saw its agricultural production drop to what AID officials called an alarming level.

The country was spending money needed for economic and social development to import about $30 million worth of food annually each year.

"But in 1967 Salvador became a rice exporter and in 1968 she plans to become a corn exporter too," the official said.

"The idea behind the whole program was to make an intensive effort at boosting agricultural production, and give small farmers something so impressive in the results that they could see them," he added.

Private business interests in Salvador, a country where coffee and cotton production were paramount, agreed to contribute the seed, fertilizer and insecticides for the experiment.

"What happened was unprecedented in Central America—the doubling or quadrupling of per-acre production," AID said in reviewing the Salvador experience as an outstanding achievement under the Alliance for Progress.

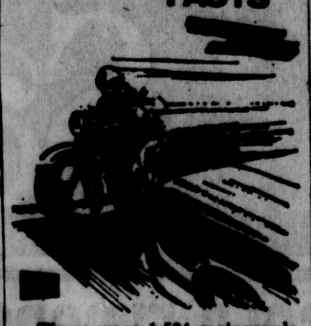

"Farmers with holdings of one to five acres—3,200 of them—cooperated in demonstration programs with corn and rice, leaving tiny plots without benefits of the program. The differences in production were astonishing. In corn alone, many farmers boosted production from 5 to 16 bushels per acre up to 52-84 bushels, against the U.S. production of about 70 bushels.

"No power farm machinery was needed. Just muscle power—and the right amounts of good seed, fertilizer and insecticide applied according to Salvador's Agricultural Extension Service recommendations. Thousands of small farmers have thus graduated from subsistence farming into commercial farming."

When Khrushchev was touring the United States in 1959 he visited Garst's farm near Coon Rapids and made a strenuous, walking inspection of the land with a throng of reporters and photographers trailing along.

Retired Dentist To Be Patient

New Heart Transplant Slated By Dr. Barnard

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Christian Barnard said Sunday his medical team in Cape Town may carry out another human heart transplant operation "within hours."

It all depends upon when a suitable donor is found to supply a heart for Dr. Philip Blaiberg, 58, a retired dentist dangerously ill in Groote Schurr Hospital.

This is the hospital where Barnard's team performed the world's first heart transplant Dec. 3 on Louis Washkansky, 55. Washkansky died 18 days later but death was attributed to pneumonia, not to the operation.

Stopping over in London en route back to South Africa from a visit to the United States and a talk with President Johnson, reporters asked Barnard if he was more confident of success in this second operation.

"I think the main thing is that —the main difference will be we will have more confidence now in that we are not going into the unknown," Barnard replied. "We are going where we have been before."

He said the death of Washkansky has no effect on Blaiberg's desire for the operation. He said Blaiberg had one advantage over Washkansky. Washkansky was a diabetic. Blaiberg is not.

Barnard said he had heard Sunday morning from Dr. Val-Schrire, senjor physician at Groote Schuur, that Blaiberg's condition was "very bad."

"I think everything is prepared," he added. "We know we can do it a second time."

Barnard said he saw Blaiberg in the hospital after Washkansky's death.

"I told him what had happened and asked if he had changed his mind," the surgeon recalled. "But he said no—he was quite confident it would work one day."

Of Washkansky's death from pneumonia, Barnard said: "although we took every precaution to prevent infection we must have made a mistake. I still think he may have got infected by organisms harboring in his body."

Newsmen asked if it was possible to take even more precautions to prevent infection.

"I don't know," the surgeon replied. "Even with a completely germ-free room it is still possible to get infection."

Newspaper reports from South Africa said Blaiberg was Washkansky's dentist in World War II at a training camp.

Blaiberg was prepared for the operation with biochemical tests and everything was done to ease his heart weakness, caused by a severe coronary thrombosis, said the Johannesburg Sunday Express.

The Sunday Times reported that Blaiberg's blood group was B-positive, one of the rarer groups, and thus it may be difficult to find a donor.

Surgeons indicated the donor probably would have to be someone who died in a traffic accident with his heart uninjured, as did the young woman whose heart went to Washkansky.

A second human heart transplant failed at Brooklyn's Maimonedes Hospital a few days after the Washkansky surgery. A 2½-year-old infant died 6½ hours after being given the heart of a child which died when three days old.

Iowa Corn Farmer Aids Production In Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roswell Garst, Iowa corn farmer who made headlines as host to Soviet Premier Khrushchev in 1959, is credited by U.S. officials with a major assist in multiplying agriculture production of Salvador, a little nation in Central America.

Garst and Dr. Benjamn Birdsall, tropical agricultural specialist of the Agency for International Development (AID), hit upon the idea of boosting Salvador's food production during a visit to 10 Latin American nations in 1964, an AID official said.

The results of their program are called astonishing. And they have raised hopes for similar sucesses elsewhere in Latin America.

Garst, who has visited the Soviet Union various times and introduced hybrid corn to Romania, became enthusiastic about Salvador's possibilities after his 1964 visit. AID officials said he was able to convince the Salvadorean government, and the U.S. AID mission, to go ahead with the demonstration program.

The Iowan worked with Birdsall in planning the program and in selection of seed.

For years, Salvador, whose population density of 360 per square mile is one of the highest in the New World, saw its agricultural production drop to what AID officials called an alarming level.

The country was spending money needed for economc and social development to import about $30 million worth of food and feed each year.

"But in 1967 Salvador became a rice exporter and in 1968 she plans to become a corn exporter too," the official said.

"The idea behind the whole program was to make an intensive effort at boosting agricultural production, and give small farmers something so impressive in the results that they could see them," he added.

Private business interests in Salvador, a country where coffee and cotton production were paramount, agreed to contribute the seed, fertilizer and insecticides for the experiment.

"What happened was unprecedented in Central America—the doubling or quadrupling of per-acre production," AID said in reviewing the Salvador experience as an outstanding achievement under the Alliance for Progress.

"Farmers with holdings of one to five acres—3,280 of them —cooperated in demonstration programs with corn and rice, leaving tiny plots without benefits of the program. The differences in production were astonishing. In corn alone, many farmers boosted production from 5 to 16 bushels per acre up to 52-84 bushels, against the U.S. production of about 70 bushels.

"Shades of Grandeur" will feature one basic Spanish motif combining a choice of four distinctive colorings. The colors are called: "Mediterranean," "Pharoah's Gold," "Sahara Sun" and "Oasis."

"Granada" will be available in five colors and patterns called "Matador," "Casa Madrid," "Casa Verde," "Mantilla" and "Flor Del Sol."

Accessories with American hardwood handles and brass finials will be combined with the dinner and serving pieces, which are ovenproof and detergent proof. The new lines are designed to complement "Design 70," TST's ceramic ironware introduced at the show two years ago.

AT THE Chicago show, Hall's will present its traditional line of teapots and cookingware, contemplating no major new innovations.

Rather than present its lines in either Chicago or Atlantic City, Harker will continue to utilize "a specialized program which is working very effectively through a new type of distributive outlets."

David G. Boyce, president, added: "We are going into the new year with a much better backlog of new business than a year ago."

Lewis H. Hoff

NEW WATERFORD — Lewis H. Hoff, 80, of New Waterford RD 1 died of a stroke Saturday at 4:40 p. m. at Salem City Hospital, where he had been a patient two weeks.

A former resident of East Liverpool, he worked for many years in the circulation department of The Review. He was born Jan. 17, 1887, in Washington County, Ohio, a son of the late Fred Hoff and Melinda Hinds Hoff. He was married to the former Mattie Dearth in 1908. She died in 1937 and the following year he moved to Columbiana.

Mr. Hoff also was employed by the Equitable Life Insurance Co. in East Liverpool and served as manager of the Wheeling District. He also had served the same firm in Alliance, Wheeling and Moundsville. At Columbiana, he was employed for 16 years as foundry clerk of the Columbiana Pump Co., retiring in 1939.

While in East Liverpool, he was a member of the First Church of Christ and served as a deacon and Sunday School teacher. He also was active in the work of the YMCA and the Salvation Army. While residing in the New Waterford area, he attended the East Fairfield Methodist Church. In 1952, he was married to the former Pearl Birmingham.

Mr. Hoff leaves his widow, at home; a son, Dale L. Hoff of Columbiana RD 2; three stepsons, Don Birmingham of New Springfield; Michael Birmingham of Merritt Island, Fla., and Marshall Birmingham of Orlando, Fla.; two brothers, Gilbert Hoff of Hayward, Calif., and John Hoff of East Liverpool; a sister, Mrs. Maymee Deshler of East Liverpool; a daughter, Mrs. Hilda Edgar of East Liverpool, 13 grandchildren and seven great - grandchildren.

south of Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam.

The plane was marking targets with smoke rockets for a strike and had just pulled out of its run when it was hit. The two-man crew nursed the jet over the jungles to the south, bailed out, and later were rescued by helicopter. It was the 772nd plane shot down over North Vietnam.

In one battle in the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong gunners shot down four U.S. helicopters supporting a South Vietnamese sweep. One American was killed and three injured.

The U.S. Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson, went along Saturday with helicopters making a combat assault about 15 miles north of Saigon, the Army disclosed Sunday.

Spokesmen at U.S. headquarters said there was no report of contact with the enemy in the operation.

Johnson, who has been touring U.S. installations in South Vietnam, accompanied a flight of U.S. Army helicopters that lifted South Vietnamese Rangers into landing zones in the Dong Nai River, the recent scene of enemy activity.

"Gen. Johnson," the announcement said, "observed the mission in order to get a first-hand view of U.S. and South Vietnamese counter - insurgency efforts."

A clandestine Viet Cong broadcast said that in towns and cities of South Vietnam "the people are being trained and prepared for an acute struggle with the enemy aimed at achieving the goals set by the NLF." This is the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

"Despite fierce attacks by the enemy, our liberated areas have been consolidated," the broadcast said. "Production in general was maintained. The 1967 acreage under food crops for the whole of South Vietnam did not diminish, compared to 1966."

strong throughout the first 11 months of 1967. They stood at 11,865, a gain of 11.8 per cent from the 10,615 shown at the same time in 1966. November used car sales hit 800, a drop of 15.8 per cent from the 950 listed in October.

THE CITY'S parking meter receipts also showed healthy gains. The meter revenue hit $80,529 for the first 11 months of the year, a climb of 16.7 per cent from the $69,011 listed at the same time in 1966. The meter revenue was $6,883 in November, virually unchanged from the $6,854 in October.

Advance payments on state sales taxes in Columbiana County also exceeded 1966 totals. The payments reached $1,514,837 in the first 11 months of the year, standing 10.9 per cent ahead of the $1,365,770 shown during the same time in 1966. The quints will remain in five thermo-controlled incubators for about 10 days.

A pediatrician, Dr. Grantley Stable, said it would be between six and eight weeks before the quints would be allowed to leave the hospital if there were no complications.

Mrs. Braham's first meal after the births—orange juice and tomato sandwiches—was shared with her husband.

The quints had their first meal Sunday—a mixture of water and glucose.

of Grandeur" and "Granada." John Gilkes, designer, said the new stylings break away from the traditional whiteware bodies that rely on pattern for color and utilize color applied to the entire surface of the ware to emphasize design.

"Shades of Grandeur" will feature one basic Spanish motif combining a choice of four distinctive colorings. The colors are called: "Mediterranean," "Pharoah's Gold," "Sahara Sun" and "Oasis."

"Granada" will be available in five colors and patterns called "Matador," "Casa Madrid," "Casa Verde," "Mantilla" and "Flor Del Sol."

Accessories with American hardwood handles and brass finials will be combined with the dinner and serving pieces, which are ovenproof and detergent proof. The new lines are designed to complement "Design 70," TST's ceramic ironware introduced at the show two years ago.

AT THE Chicago show, Hall's will present its traditional line of teapots and cookingware, contemplating no major new innovations.

Rather than present its lines in either Chicago or Atlantic City, Harker will continue to utilize "a specialized program which is working very effectively through a new type of distributive outlets."

David G. Boyce, president, added: "We are going into the new year with a much better backlog of new business than a year ago."

south of Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam.

The plane was marking targets with smoke rockets for a strike and had just pulled out of its run when it was hit. The two-man crew nursed the jet over the jungles to the south, bailed out, and later were rescued by helicopter. It was the 772nd plane shot down over North Vietnam.

In one battle in the Mekong Delta, Viet Cong gunners shot down four U.S. helicopters supporting a South Vietnamese sweep. One American was killed and three injured.

The U.S. Army chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson, went along Saturday with helicopters making a combat assault about 15 miles north of Saigon, the Army disclosed Sunday.

Spokesmen at U.S. headquarters said there was no report of contact with the enemy in the operation.

Johnson, who has been touring U.S. installations in South Vietnam, accompanied a flight of U.S. Army helicopters that lifted South Vietnamese Rangers into landing zones in the Dong Nai River, the recent scene of enemy activity.

"Gen. Johnson," the announcement said, "observed the mission in order to get a first-hand view of U.S. and South Vietnamese counter - insurgency efforts."

A clandestine Viet Cong broadcast said that in towns and cities of South Vietnam "the people are being trained and prepared for an acute struggle with the enemy aimed at achieving the goals set by the NLF." This is the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

"Despite fierce attacks by the enemy, our liberated areas have been consolidated," the broadcast said. "Production in general was maintained. The 1967 acreage under food crops for the whole of South Vietnam did not diminish, compared to 1966."

Quiet New Year's Eve Spent By First Family

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson sent word he was winding up 1967 with "a quiet New Year's Eve."

It had been a grey, rainy year-end Sunday at the LBJ Ranch, with the President and his wife, Lady Bird, at home while their two daughters and sons-in-law went off on holiday vacations.

Even grandson Patrick Lynden Nugent was away — at his home in Austin, 65 miles from the ranch, recuperating from a cold and a common infant complaint — teething. He was in the charge of a nurse while parents Luci and Patrick Nugent were at the northern New Mexico winter ski resort at Red River.

Newlyweds Lynda and Charles Robb dropped in briefly for a year-end visit at the ranch and took off for a private New Year's holiday spot, too.

A Texas White House spokesman said President and Mrs. Johnson might see some close personal friends as they celebrated the New Year quietly.

The President started out the last day of the year by going to Sunday morning services at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in nearby Stonewall, Tex. There, the pastor issued a year-end prayer for peace in the world and prayed for the President, too.

Johnson came in the rain to the 9 a.m. Mass, bringing along Yuletide gifts for the Rev. Wumbald W. Schneider.

Calling attention to the President's presence in the church, Father Schneider asked prayers for the nation's chief executive.

"We should pray every day to help him carry his heavy burden. He needs our prayers," the clergyman said.

"He loves peace as well as you and I," the Father Schneider added, "and is working as hard as he can for it."

Then he prayed that "our President—and all the presidents in the world—will work with the Holy Father, Pope Paul, for a just and lasting peace."

President Johnson is spending a year-end work-vacation holiday period at his ranch after a round-the-world trip in which he met with the Pope in Rome.

Father Schneider made reference to this and reminded his parishioners that President Johnson had interceded last summer to get the local priest a private audience with the pontiff.

Although Johnson is a member of the Christian Church, he often attends this little Catholic church next door to his ranch. He has established a friendship with the Bavarian-born pastor and took him along last April when he went to the funeral of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

St. Nicholas was a 4th Century bishop of Myra in Turkey.

Ohio Traffic Deaths Below Predictions

By The Associated Press

Despite snow-slicked roads in many parts of the state, Ohio's holiday traffic death toll was holding well below predictions past the halfway mark in the long New Year's weekend Sunday.

At least 10 deaths were reported by Sunday evening, including three teen-agers killed when their car slid into a bridge abutment on an icy Defiance County road.

State highway safety officials predicted 34 people would die on the state's roads and highways between 6 pm. Friday and midnight Monday.

The victims:

Friday Night

Michael E. Foky, 51, Akron, killed when his car hit a utility pole at an Akron intersection.

Saturday

Charles Vorn, 35, Cleveland, killed early Saturday when an automobile went out of control and hit a city bus shelter in which he was sitting.

Emmett E. Ward, 35, Akron, killed Saturday morning when his car went out of control and hit a tree in Akron.

Mary E. Beatty, 79, London, who was hit by a pickup truck while crossing a London street Saturday night.

Iona Hatcock, 52, Lebanon, killed in a two-car accident early Saturday at a Dayton intersection.

Sunday

Ruth Richards, 65, Fremont, killed in a two-car accident west of Fremont Sunday morning.

Robert Gruenhagen, 17, Rt. 1, Napoleon, and Mary Ann Behfeldt, 18, and Martha Moser, 17, both of Rt. 3, Defiance, killed when their car slied on a curve on a Defiance County road, hit a bridge abutment and went into a creek bed early Sunday. A fourth teenager was hospitalized.

Kenneth J. Mercer, 17, Carrollton, killed when the car in which he was riding collided with a pickup truck on Ohio 39 four miles west of Carrollton. Another teen-ager in the car and the driver of the truck were injured.

Dresden Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision Saturday on Dresden Ave. at Rural Ln., police reported.

The mishap involved a southbound 1963 four - door sedan driven by Joseph L. Perrin, 59, of 1809 Dresden Ave. and a northbound 1955 sedan operated by Hallie V. Simms, 57, of 443 Thompson Ave.

Perrin told police the oncoming Simms car turned into his path. Simms reported he was preparing to turn into Rural Ln. when he saw the Perrin car approaching. As he attempted to halt, his car slid on ice and hit Perrin's vehicle, he said.

The collision damaged the hood, bumper and a front fender of Perrin's car and the left front fender, hood, bumper and grill of Simms' car.

Quiet New Year's Eve Spent By First Family

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson sent word he was winding up 1967 with "a quiet New Year's Eve."

It had been a grey, rainy year-end Sunday at the LBJ Ranch, with the President and his wife, Lady Bird, at home while their two daughters and sons-in-law went off on holiday vacations.

Even grandson Patrick Lyndon Nugent was away — at his home in Austin, 65 miles from the ranch, recuperating from a cold and a common infant complaint — teething. He was in the charge of a nurse while parents Luci and Patrick Nugent were at the northern New Mexico winter ski resort at Red River.

Newlyweds Lynda and Charles Robb dropped in briefly for a year-end visit at the ranch and took off for a private New Year's holiday spot, too.

A Texas White House spokesman said President and Mrs. Johnson might see some close personal friends as they celebrated the New Year quietly.

The President started out the last day of the year by going to Sunday morning services at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in nearby Stonewall, Tex. There, the pastor issued a year-end prayer for peace in the world and prayed for the President, too.

Johnson came in the rain to the 9 a.m. Mass, bringing along Yuletide gifts for the Rev. Wunibald W. Schneider.

Calling attention to the President's presence in the church, Father Schneider asked prayers for the nation's chief executive.

"We should pray every day to help him carry his heavy burden. He needs our prayers," the clergyman said.

"He loves peace as well as you and I," the Father Schneider added, "and is working as hard as he can for it."

Then he prayed that "our President—and all the presidents in the world—will work with the Holy Father, Pope Paul, for a just and lasting peace."

President Johnson is spending a year-end work-vacation holiday period at his ranch after a round-the-world trip in which he met with the Pope in Rome.

Father Schneider made reference to this and reminded his parishioners that President Johnson had interceded last summer to get the local priest a private audience with the pontiff.

Although Johnson is a member of the Christian Church, he often attends this little Catholic church next door to his ranch. He has established a friendship with the Bavarian-born pastor and took him along last April when he went to the funeral of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

St. Nicholas was a 4th Century bishop of Myra in Turkey.

Ohio Traffic Deaths Below Predictions

By The Associated Press

Despite snow-slicked roads in many parts of the state, Ohio's holiday traffic death toll was holding well below predictions past the halfway mark in the long New Year's weekend Sunday.

At least 10 deaths were reported by Sunday evening, including three teen-agers killed when their car slid into a bridge abutment on an icy Defiance County road.

State highway safety officials predicted 34 people would die on the state's roads and highways between 6 pm. Friday and midnight Monday.

The victims:

Friday Night

Michael E. Floky, 51, Akron, killed when his car hit a utility pole at an Akron intersection.

Saturday

Charles Vorn, 35, Cleveland, killed early Saturday when an automobile went out of control and hit a city bus shelter in which he was sitting.

Emmett E. Ward, 35, Akron, killed Saturday morning when his car went out of control and hit a tree in Akron.

Mary E. Beatty, 79, London, who was hit by a pickup truck while crossing a London street Saturday night.

Iona Hatcock, 52, Lebanon, killed in a two-car accident early Saturday at a Dayton intersection.

Sunday

Ruth Richards, 65, Fremont, killed in a two-car accident west of Fremont Sunday morning.

Robert Gruenhagen, 17, Rt. 1, Napoleon, and Mary Ann Behfeldt, 18, and Martha Moser, 17, both of Rt. 3, Defiance, killed when their car slied on a curve on a Defiance County road, hit a bridge abutment and went into a creek bed early Sunday. A fourth teenager was hospitalized.

Kenneth J. Mercer, 17, Carrollton, killed when the car in which he was riding collided with a pickup truck on Ohio 39 four miles west of Carrollton. Another teen-ager in the car and the driver of the truck were injured.

Dresden Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision Saturday on Dresden Ave. at Rural Ln., police reported.

The mishap involved a southbound 1963 four - door sedan driven by Joseph L. Perrin, 59, of 1809 Dresden Ave. and a northbound 1955 sedan operated by Hallie V. Simms, 57, of 443 Thompson Ave.

Perrin told police the oncoming Simms car turned into his path. Simms reported he was preparing to turn into Rural Ln. when he saw the Perrin car approaching. As he attempted to halt, his car slid on ice and hit Perrin's vehicle, he said.

The collision damaged the hood, bumper and a front fender of Perrin's car and the left front fender, hood, bumper and grill of Simms' car.

Points To Fressing Need

Finance Director Backs Rhodes' Highway Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The need for adoption of Gov. James A. Rhoades' proposed $700 million highway bond issue was seconded Sunday by his finance director, Richard L. Krabach, who pointed up the pressing need for finishing up Ohio's highway system.

The $700 million highway bond issue is in addition to the comprehensive $265 million proposed bond issue proposed Saturday by Gov. Rhodes for capital improvements.

"Ohio is the transportation center of the U.S.," Krabach said. "It will complete its interests system years ahead of any other large state.

"At the same time the congestion in our cities is becoming more acute. Bottlenecks and traffic jams cause hours of delay. Many workers must take as much as an hour just to get to work.

"Many of our municipalities have resorted to real estate tax levies to finance their improvements and they are finding it difficult to keep up with the problem.

"It is recommended that some $275 million of this proposed bond issue be given to the local communities on a per capita basis to solve these local problems.

"This issue can be financed without any additional taxes. We can use the present 1-cent gas tax and the axle mile tax for the payments," Krabach said.

Krabach said the proposed $700 million would provide:

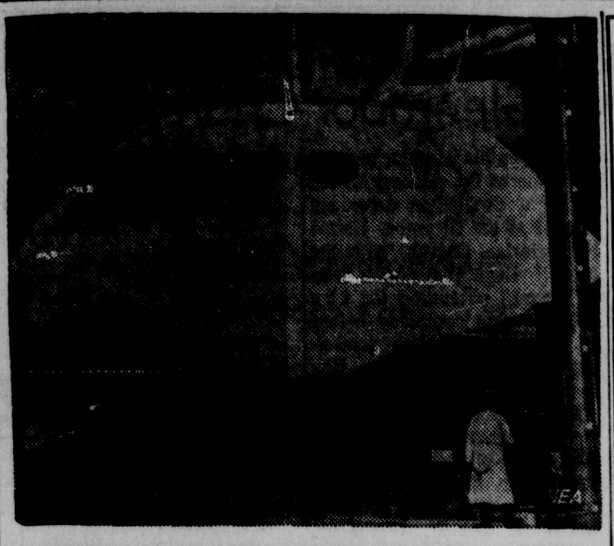

—$275 million in direct grants to Ohio communities to break traffic bottlenecks; $265 million to the highway department for state-financed road building projects and to match federal construction money; $100 million to complete the Appalachian Highway System in Southern Ohio; $30 million to construct the transportation research and development center near Bellefontaine; and $30 million to provide access roads facilities.

Boosts Transmission

DEHRA DUN, India (AP)—All India Radio, the government station, is to establish a network of transmitters along the Himalayan border area. Information Minister K. K. Shah said a shortage of transmitters forced people in the strategic border districts to listen to "enemy radio stations," presumably those of Pakistan and Communist China.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I deal with ink or blood stains on wallpaper?

A.—Try applying water, then rubbing with some white magnesia chalk. Allow this mixture to dry, then rub it off.

Q.—How can I keep the can on my fingernail polish bottle from sticking?

A.—By applying a little face cream to the threads of the bottle.

Q. — How can I "antique" an old gilt wood frame?

A. — By a small tube of burnt umber oil paint from an artists' supply store, daub a small amount of this on clean cloth, and rub into the gilt frame until you achieve the mellow shade you're looking for.

Q. — How can I improve the looks of powdered sugar cake icings?

A. — Add a few drops of lemon juice. This makes the icing very white.

Q.—How can I make a stronger, better job of restringing pearls?

A.—By using nylon fishing line. This is strong, yet so flexible and firm that you can string the beads without a needle . . . and the color blends nicely with the pearls, too.

Q.—How can I remove coffee, tea and wine stains from table linens?

A.—By rubbing the spots with glycerin, then laundering in the usual way. Or, cover the spot at once with salt, let stand awhile then pour boiling water through it holding your pitcher at a height of a few inches above the spot. Follow this treatment with the usual washing.

Correct name for the face of a coin is the obverse.

Cynthia Morgan Marries In Glenmoor Church Rites

Miss Cynthia Morgan became the bride of Cpl. Robert Woods during a candlelight ceremony Dec. 19 at the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. H. Gene Toot of the Trinity Church officiating for the double - ring ceremony before an altar banked with poinsettia, palms and ferns. Mrs. Helen Densmore was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Morgan Jr. of Kelly Ave., Glenmoor. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woods of Ross St., Glenmoor.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white velvet designed with long, bell - shaped sleeves. A double-ring circle formed the neckline and a pearl and silk cord effect accented the yoke.

Her floor - length veil of silk illusion was attached to a white velvet bow. She carried a white Bible, the gift of Miss Jill Ogilvie, topped with an arrangement of white orchids and lily-of-the-valley tied with satin streamers. The traditions were observed.

Miss Ogilvie was maid of honor and Miss Elaine Morgan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore sheath dresses of forest green velvet with matching velvet bows as headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets of white carnations interspersed with sprigs of holly and tied with red velvet streamers.

Leonard Walker served as best man. Ushers were Brent Railing, cousin of the bridegroom, and Rick Wolfe, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a teal blue lace dress and the bridegroom's mother a green knit suit. Matching accesories and white carnation corsages complemented their attire. Mrs. Percy Woods, grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in a rose color ensemble with white carnation corsage.

MRS. ROBERT WOODS
Double-Ring Ceremony.

—:—

A RECEPTION followed in the social rooms, where Miss Jana Jo Franklin presided at the guest register. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake topped with bells and encircled at the base with holly and red velvet ribbon.

Aides were Mrs. Richard Wolfe, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Howard Douglas, her great - aunt; Mrs. Martin Christen, and Mrs. Herman Langer.

For her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a winter - white dress and cranberry color coat ensemble and her bridal orchids.

The newlyweds are graduates of East Liverpool High School, the bride in 1965 and her husband in 1966. She is employed at the Bell Telephone Co. and will remain with her parents. The bridegroom will return to Ft. Benning, Ga., where he will enter the NCO Academy.

Brazil Floods Fatal To 200

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — New pleas for assistance came Sunday from the coastal state of Bahia, where authorities estimated 200 persons have been drowned and 50,000 left homeless in raging floods.

Food and medicine were flown by helicopter to the southeastern Bahia city of Itabuna, which is the most seriously effected and is cut off from the outside by high water.

A navy corvette unloaded several tons of supplies at the coasta city of Ilheus, 20 miles east of Itabuna.

A government agency in Bahia sent word that at least $750,000 was needed for food, medicine and to rebuild damaged homes.

Gov. Luis Viana Filho of Bahia sent another aid request to President Arthur da Costa e Silva.

Several days of heavy rain sent rivers out of their banks in southern Bahia, destroying bridges, homes, highways, communications and inundating airports.

The rivers now are receding, but health authorities fear epidemics.

The rains finally stopped in Rio de Janeiro, where one person died.

Plane Crash Fatal To Six

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A private plane carrying six persons plunged into Lake Pontchartrain Sunday and rescue units reported no signs of survivors.

The Coast Guard said reports indicated the plane was carrying a pilot and five passengers who had missed a commercial flight from Mobile to New Orleans.

Airport personnel said the twin-engined Beechcraft was heading for a landing at New Orleans International Airport when it disappeared from the radar scope. It crashed shortly after noon two miles from the New Orleans shore, and about 150 feet from the heavily traveled Lake Pontchartrain Causeway.

"About the snap of your fingers, everything was gone under the water," a witness said. "As the plane hit the water an orange and white flame came in a short burst . . . then all I saw was eight or ten pieces of small debris, and a lot of bubbles."

The plane had been rented earlier in the day from Executive Aircraft Co. at Mobile.

Spain Traffic Deaths

MADRID (AP) — Officials say 2,721 persons were killed in 40,606 traffic accidents in Spain during the first nine months of 1967. About 59,000 persons were injured. The accident rate was about the same as last year's.

Salt was financially important in Ethiopia, Tibet and the Mongol empire, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Quiet New Year's Eve Spent By First Family

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson sent word he was winding up 1967 with "a quiet New Year's Eve."

It had been a grey, rainy year-end Sunday at the LBJ Ranch, with the President and his wife, Lady Bird, at home while their two daughters and sons-in-law went off on holiday vacations.

Even grandson Patrick Lyndon Nugent was away — at his home in Austin, 65 miles from the ranch, recuperating from a cold and a common infant complaint — teething. He was in the charge of a nurse while parents Luci and Patrick Nugent were at the northern New Mexico winter ski resort at Red River.

Newlyweds Lynda and Charles Robb dropped in briefly for a year-end visit at the ranch and took off for a private New Year's holiday spot, too.

A Texas White House spokesman said President and Mrs. Johnson might see some close personal friends as they celebrated the New Year quietly.

The President started out the last day of the year by going to Sunday morning services at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic Church in nearby Stonewall, Tex. There, the pastor issued a year-end prayer for peace in the world and prayed for the President, too.

Johnson came in the rain to the 9 a.m. Mass, bringing along Yuletide gifts for the Rev. Wunibald W. Schneider.

Calling attention to the President's presence in the church, Father Schneider asked prayers for the nation's chief executive.

"We should pray every day to help him carry his heavy burden. He needs our prayers," the clergyman said.

"He loves peace as well as you and I," the Father Schneider added, "and is working as hard as he can for it."

Then he prayed that "our President—and all the presidents in the world—will work with the Holy Father, Pope Paul, for a just and lasting peace."

President Johnson is spending a year-end work-vacation holiday period at his ranch after a round-the-world trip in which he met with the Pope in Rome.

Father Schneider made reference to this and reminded his parishioners that President Johnson had interceded last summer to get the local priest a private audience with the pontiff.

Although Johnson is a member of the Christian Church, he often attends this little Catholic church next door to his ranch. He has established a friendship with the Bavarian-born pastor and took him along last April when he went to the funeral of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

St. Nicholas was a 4th Century bishop of Myra in Turkey.

Ohio Traffic Deaths Below Predictions

By The Associated Press

Despite snow-slicked roads in many parts of the state, Ohio's holiday traffic death toll was holding well below predictions past the halfway mark in the long New Year's weekend Sunday.

At least 10 deaths were reported by Sunday evening, including three teen-agers killed when their car slid into a bridge abutment on an icy Defiance County road.

State highway safety officials predicted 34 people would die on the state's roads and highways between 6 pm. Friday and midnight Monday.

The victims:

Friday Night

Michael E. Foky, 51, Akron, killed when his car hit a utility pole at an Akron intersection.

Saturday

Charles Vorn, 35, Cleveland, killed early Saturday when an automobile went out of control and hit a city bus shelter in which he was sitting.

Emmett E. Ward, 35, Akron, killed Saturday morning when his car went out of control and hit a tree in Akron.

Mary E. Beatty, 79, London, who was hit by a pickup truck while crossing a London street Saturday night.

Iona Hatcock, 52, Lebanon, killed in a two-car accident early Saturday at a Dayton intersection.

Sunday

Ruth Richards, 65, Fremont, killed in a two-car accident west of Fremont Sunday morning.

Robert Gruenhagen, 17, Rt. 1, Napoleon, and Mary Ann Behfeldt, 18, and Martha Moser, 17, both of Rt. 3, Defiance, killed when their car slied on a curve on a Defiance County road, hit a bridge abutment and went into a creek bed early Sunday. A fourth teenager was hospitalized.

Kenneth J. Mercer, 17, Carrollton, killed when the car in which he was riding collided with a pickup truck on Ohio 39 four miles west of Carrollton. Another teen-ager in the car and the driver of the truck were injured.

Dresden Mishap Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision Saturday on Dresden Ave. at Rural Ln., police reported.

The mishap involved a southbound 1963 four - door sedan driven by Joseph L. Perrin, 59, of 1809 Dresden Ave. and a northbound 1955 sedan operated by Hallie V. Simms, 57, of 443 Thompson Ave.

Perrin told police the oncoming Simms car turned into his path. Simms reported he was preparing to turn into Rural Ln. when he saw the Perrin car approaching. As he attempted to halt, his car slid on ice and hit Perrin's vehicle, he said.

The collision damaged the hood, bumper and a front fender of Perrin's car and the left front fender, hood, bumper and grill of Simms' car.

'68 Car Safety Devices Expected To Save Lives

WAHSNIGTON (AP) — Many auto occupants can expect to escape death or serious injury in traffic accidents — at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, says the director of the national highway safety program.

Dr. William Haddon Jr. applies this assessment to persons riding in 1968 model cars equipped with safety devices newly required on vehicles built in Amreica.

But he makes one basic proviso: The travelers must be wearing the combination lap and cross-chest seat belts.

The seat belt combination is one—and, Haddon says, the most important — of the package of safety standards going into effect Monday under the government's new highway safety program.

"Most people dying on the highways are dying of smashed heads — I would put it just that way," Haddon, director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, said in an interview.

"And these belts, used together, prevent that."

And, he said, the belts prevent another major cause of death in accidents: being crushed by one's car or by another car after having been thrown out of the vehicle.

In support of his claim that death and major injury can be ruled out in most under-60 accidents, the young physician said:

"We've known for years what the body can take with proper packaging." And he said the new cars provide the proper package with such features in addition to seat belts as:

—Improved laminated windshields, which won't break and therefore won't gash heads and necks;

—Shock absorbing steering columns, which cushion impact spears: and

—Stronger door locks, so doors don't pop open in crashes.

Evidence that "people are beginning to walk away" from once fatal types of accidents, Haddon said, is contained in a study of 28,000 such crashes in Sweden involving cars with lap and cross chest seat belts. Among occupants wearing the belts, no one was killed at speeds under 60.

Yet only about one-third of the drivers and passengers in cars wear seat belts, he said. Many refuse to wear them because they think they're better off to be thrown clear in an accident.

Haddon said they couldn't be more wrong.

The safety chief conceded that officials expect many people—especially women — won't use the new chest belts because of inconvenience, discomfort or concern for clothes.

But he said statistics show lap belts alone improve one's chances of avoiding death or serious injury by 35 per cent, lap and chest belts together, by 80 per cent.

Haddon predicted the new harnesses will be much improved in the next two or three years. Some companies are expected to introduce belts that allow freedom while riding but which lock if the car crashes.

He expresed hope too about studies which show that people with more education are more likely to use the belts. The same pattern has occurred with life-protecting developments in the past, such as vaccination, Haddon said.

Caracas Men Give Children Unique Gift

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Thirty-nine Caracas men gave their 238 children a unique Christmas gift, a family name.

They did it by marrying in a mass ceremony the mothers with whom they had been living. Some of the 78 newlyweds have been living together almost 20 years.

The ceremony was a measure of progress towards overcoming one of Venezuela's major social ailments — common law marriages and illegitimate births.

Under the law children born out of wedlock can use only their mother's name unless she marries the father or he "recognizes" the child as being his before government officials.

The idea of promoting a mass wedding belongs to Valentin Brito, a Caracas district Prefect chief. When he launched the scheme in 1966 he managed to get 15 couples to the altar.

Current census fgures show 53 per cent of the country's babies are born out of wedlock. Only seven per cent are ever "recognized" by the fathers.

Mrs. Raul Leoni, wife of the president, has issued a plea to "make 1968 the year of the protected, sheltered and recognized child."

Illegitimate births are not confined to underprivileged classes.

El Universal, praising the First Lady's appeal, spoke of "the wealthy dandies who take advantage of painful economic situations or ignorance to happily and carelessly have a son here and another there."

Two Cars Involved In Lisbon Collision

LISBON — Cars driven by Peter G. Opincar, 77, of 249 W. Maple St. and Ralph J. Dangelo, 43, of Church St., Salineville, collided at 3 p.m. Saturday on S. Market St. about 100 feet north of the Washington St. intersection.

Police said Opincar pulled away from the East curb in his 1967 sport coupe and hit the right side of Dangelo's northbound 1965 station wagon.

Both vehicles were damaged, police said. No one was cited.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cities will not continue growing indefinitely, a veteran city planner and administrator said Sunday. And, as an example, he said New York's population will probably stabilize around nine million.

Robert Moses, 79, who has spent more than 50 years in urban-oriented official positions—mainly in New York—said, too, that cities will not "fold up or be obliterated."

"We're not going to solve their problems overnight," Moses said, "but leadership is slowly emerging and there is no reason to become unduly alarmed by the counsels of despair."

He predicted that New York where he is chairman of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority—will not be entirely different 25 years from now from the city of today. He said the air will be cleaner, the buildings higher, but otherwise it will be much the same.

Slum problems for all cities can be solved only one way, Moses said: tear-down every building and erect new ones.

He gave his views in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News & World Report magazine.

"The worst thing about Christmas this year is that the lights on our outdoor Christmas tree were taken away, were stolen," Wirtz said Sunday.

"I don't like that. I don't know what it means," he said in an ABC television-radio interview. Wirtz disclosed the theft while forecasting safety on the streets would be a major election issue in 1968 along with the economy, Vietnam and racial equality.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States rings in the New Year with an estimated population of 200,271,231, the Census Bureau said Sunday.

This represents an increase of 2,165,000, or about 1 per cent, for the year. The nation officially reached a population of 200 million Nov. 20.

The net gain during 1967, the bureau said, resulted from about 3,572,000 births, 1,852,000 deaths and a net immigration of 444,000.

Points To Fressing Need

Finance Director Backs Rhodes' Highway Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The need for adoption of Gov. James A. Rhoades' proposed $700 million highway bond issue was seconded Sunday by his finance director, Richard L. Krabach, who pointed up the pressing need for finishing up Ohio's highway system.

The $700 million highway bond issue is in addition to the comprehensive $265 million proposed bond issue proposed Saturday by Gov. Rhodes for capital improvements.

"Ohio is the transportation center of the U.S.," Krabach said. "It will complete its interests system years ahead of any other large state.

"At the same time the congestion in our cities is becoming more acute. Bottlenecks and traffic jams cause hours of delay. Many workers must take as much as an hour just to get to work.

"Many of our municipalities have resorted to real estate tax levies to finance their improvements and they are finding it difficult to keep up with the problem.

"It is recommended that some $275 million of this proposed bond issue be given to the local communities on a per capita basis to solve these local problems.

"This issue can be financed without any additional taxes. We can use the present 1-cent gas tax and the axle mile tax for the payments," Krabach said.

Krabach said the proposed $700 million would provide:

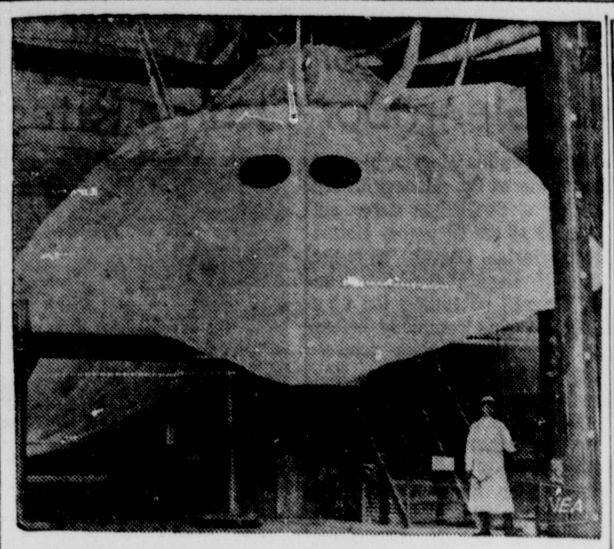

—$275 million in direct grants to Ohio communities to break traffic bottlenecks; $265 million to the highway department for state-financed road building projects and to match federal construction money; $100 million to complete the Appalachian Highway System in Southern Ohio; $30 million to construct the transportation research and development center near Bellefontaine; and $30 million to provide access roads facilities.

DEHRA DUN, India (AP)—All India Radio, the government station, is to establish a network of transmitters along the Himalayan border area. Information Minister K. K. By HAL HUMPHREY

Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde

Despite experiencing a whole series of troubles producing his 2½-hour version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Dan Curtis believes it is the best one ever done, and he includes the three movie versions starring John Barrymore, Fredric March and Spencer Tracy, respectively. The TV "Jekyll" can be seen Sunday on ABC with Jack Palance in the double role.

Hal Humphrey

"I've spent a year and a half and about $900,000 on my show, so I feel I'm an expert," says Curtis, whose main claim to fame up to now was as the producer of the daytime soaper, Dark Shadows, and the CBS Golf Classic.

Curtis started out to do the Robert Louis Stevenson classic in London with a Red Serling script and Jason Robards as his star. Two things went wrong. British TV technicians went on strike for more money to do color, and the last company to settle with the technicians was Associated British TV, the firm Curtis was working with.

BY THE TIME the strike was over, Curtis found he had no star. Robards did not like Serling's script. Other writers were called in to rewrite it, but Robards still said no. Meanwhile, Curtis had moved back to New York with Jekyll, had already spent $100,000 for his London venture but with nothing to show for it.

Writer Serling was paid off and his script thrown out completely by Curtis, who then got Ian McLellan Hunter to write one. Hunter has been a Hollywood screenwriter for many years, and Curtis says his "Jekyll" is the best yet because it sticks closer to Stevenson's original story.

In the meantime Curtis recalled that Jack Palance had said he'd like to do "Jekyll," after turning Curtis down on another property. They made a deal and Curtis started shopping for locations to shoot it in New York.

"THEN I FOUND studio facilities in New York were filled up at the time, and also there was a possibility of a strike of technicians at ABC. I couldn't afford to gamble by now. I got a call from a scenic designer at the Canadian Broadcast Corp. who suggested I do the show in Toronto and I decided to do it there," says Curtis.

He had wanted New York's Washington Square for some of the key scenes in "Jekyll," but decided it was impractical to do production in both Toronto and New York.

"I wound up spending another $200,000 to build my own Washington Square in Toronto for some of our exterior scenes," continues Curtis, who by this time had decided that "Jekyll" was going to be a lifetime project with him.

THE TAPING of the show in Toronto took 23 days which is about twice what Curtis expected, but the production was slowed down when Palance injured his arm in a 12-foot fall during a scene in which he was running along a wall. He was out of action four days, then had to take things easier when he did return.

Palance was made up rather elaborately for the two roles of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, which also consumed considerable extra time.

"He doesn't have any fangs as Hyde. We went more for the fear than shock element in Palance's Hyde make-up. He's a really terrifying guy, rather than a monster, and he gets to looking more rotten as the play progresses. I'm very happy with him. He does this role with more power than anyone you've ever seen do it. He really goes," Curtis says.

SINCE THE "Jekyll" project ran so much more money than Curtis expected, he's hoping to renegotiate his deal with ABC, which at this point is paying out just a little more than half of Curtis' reported $900,000 cost.

"I'm also hoping to get some of my money back eventually by transferring the 'Jekyll' tape to film and releasing it to European theaters," Curtis adds.

Does he expect to do another TV special soon? Not for a while. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" took a lot out of Dan Curtis.

Bridges For Profit

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Madhya Pradesh State believes it has developed a scheme which will provide the state with the many bridges it needs but can not afford. Contractors are being asked to build pontoon or other inexpensive bridges at their own cost. Then they will be permitted to charge tolls for a specified period, judged sufficient to recover costs and make a profit.

'Tremendous Gains' Seen In Mental Help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, according to its director, expects to make "tremendous gains" on the local community level in 1968.

Martin A. Janis, in a statement issued Saturday, said seven centers for the mentally retarded and nine centers for the mentally ill which were applied for in 1965 and 1966 are under construction in Ohio.

Of communities which filed applications for mental health facilities in 1967, seven are being processed or centers already are in various stages of construction.

Twenty-nine of the 50 U. S. states produce petroleum commercially.

Poll Indicates LBJ Gaining In Popularity

NEW YORK (AP) — A Gallup Poll released Sunday showed President Johnson gaining in popularity, but still with less than majority approval.

His handling of his job was approved by 46 per cent of the adults polled in December, up 5 points from late November and 8 points from his October low. In December 41 per cent disapproved, and 13 per cent had no opinion.

The year-end spurt enabled Johnson to end 1967 with nearly the same rating as he began it. He had 47 per cent approval in January 1967.

The latest poll showed him registering gains among all groups, with his lowest rating (35 per cent) in the South.

Johnson's high mark in the Gallup Poll was 80 per cent in January 1964, shortly after he took office.

President John F. Kennedy's range in the poll was from a high of 83 to a low of 57. Harry S. Truman ran from 87 down to 23. Dwight D. Eisenhower varied from 79 to 49, and Franklin D. Roosevelt from 84 to 50.

The poll said a president can expect a tight election if his rating is below 55 per cent.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I deal with ink or blood stains on wallpaper?

A.—Try applying water, then rubbing with some white magnesia chalk. Allow this mixture to dry, then rub it off.

Q.—How can I keep the car on my fingernail polish bottle from sticking?

A.—By applying a little face cream to the threads of the bottle.

Q. — How can I "antique" an old gilt wood frame?

A. — By a small tube of burnt umber oil paint from an artists' supply store, daub a small amount of this on clean cloth, and rub into the gilt frame until you achieve the mellow shade you're looking for.

Q. — How can I improve the looks of powdered sugar cake icings?

A. — Add a few drops of lemon juice. This makes the icing very white.

Q.—How can I make a stronger, better job of restringing pearls?

A.—By using nylon fishing line. This is strong, yet so flexible and firm that you can string the beads without a needle . . . and the color blends nicely with the pearls, too.

Q.—How can I remove coffee, tea and wine stains from table linens?

A.—By rubbing the spots with glycerin, then laundering in the usual way. Or, cover the spot at once with salt, let stand awhile then pour boiling water through it holding your pitcher at a height of a few inches above the spot. Follow this treatment with the usual washing.

Correct name for the face of a coin is the obverse.

Cynthia Morgan Marries In Glenmoor Church Rites

Miss Cynthia Morgan became the bride of Cpl. Robert Woods during a candlelight ceremony Dec. 19 at the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. H. Gene Toot of the Trinity Church officiating for the double - ring ceremony before an altar banked with poinsettia, palms and ferns. Mrs. Helen Densmore was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Morgan Jr. of Kelly Ave., Glenmoor. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woods of Ross St., Glenmoor.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length sheath gown of white velvet designed with long, bell - shaped sleeves. A double-ring circle formed the neckline and a pearl and silk cord effect accented the yoke.

Her floor - length veil of silk illusion was attached to a white velvet bow. She carried a white Bible, the gift of Miss Jill Ogilvie, topped with an arrangement of white orchids and lily-of-the-valley tied with satin streamers. The traditions were observed.

Miss Ogilvie was maid of honor and Miss Elaine Morgan, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore sheath dresses of forest green velvet with matching velvet bows as headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets of white carnations interspersed with sprigs of holly and tied with red velvet streamers.

Leonard Walker served as best man. Ushers were Brent Railing, cousin of the bridegroom, and Rick Wolfe, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride chose a teal blue lace dress and the bridegroom's mother a green knit suit. Matching accesories and white carnation corsages complemented their attire. Mrs. Percy Woods, grandmother of the bridegroom, was attired in a rose color ensemble with white carnation corsage.

MRS. ROBERT WOODS

Double-Ring Ceremony.

—:—

A RECEPTION followed in the social rooms, where Miss Jana Jo Franklin presided at the guest register. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake topped with bells and encircled at the base with holly and red velvet ribbon.

Aides were Mrs. Richard Wolfe, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Howard Douglas, her great - aunt; Mrs. Martin Christen, and Mrs. Herman Langer.

For her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a winter - white dress and cranberry color coat ensemble and her bridal orchids.

The newlyweds are graduates of East Liverpool High School, the bride in 1965 and her husband in 1966. She is employed at the Bell Telephone Co. and will remain with her parents. The bridegroom will return to Ft. Benning, Ga., where he will enter the NCO Academy.

Installation Ceremonies Held By Job's Daughters

Miss Linda Mae Haney, honored queen, headed the list of 1968 first - term officers of the International Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel 61, installed during ceremonies last week at the Masonic Temple. More than 100 were present.

"One Nation Under God" was the theme chosen by the new honored queen, who selected the Bible and the flag as her symbols, the white rose as her flower and purple and silver as her colors. The program booklets had silver color covers inscribed with purple lettering.

Boone, a Bible student at Kentucky Christian College at Grayson, Ky., gave the address and the charge to the newly - installed officers. Richard Mattern sang "The Lord's Paryer."

OTHER installing officers were Annelynne McDowell, guide; Vicky Deshler, marshal; Kay Eaton, chaplain; Mrs. Jackie Kraft, recorder; Debbie Badger, senior custodian; Kathy Blackburn, junior custodian, and Nancy Sturgeon, musician.

Miss Phillips and Miss Andrews, princesses, were robed with purple velvet capes and received the jeweled crowns, symbolic of their offices.

Preceding the ceremony installation was the "Rose Ceremony" honoring the retiring honored queen, Miss Nancy Doland, and her officers. Miss Doland received the past honored queen's jewel. Following the ritual of signing her name in the Bible, she presented her officers with red rosebuds, which they used to form an arch for her retirement. During the ceremony, Mattern sang "Climb Every Mountain" and "Only a Rose."

Dan Dupont, master councilor, and other members of Harding Chapter Order of DeMolay, served as escorts, and participated in the closing ritual.

Announcement was made of the executive Bethel guardian council comprised of Mrs. Genevieve Hoffman, guardian; Samuel Blackburn, associate; Mrs. Hilda Raines, secretary Mrs. Mildred Hopper, treasurer, and Mrs. Hazel Neiser, directress of music.

The associate council consists of Miss Marianne Emmerling, custodian of paraphernalia; Mrs. Clara Young, promoter of sociability; Mrs. Arlene Blackburn, hospitality chairman; Mrs. Dorothy Sneddon, special awards chairman; Homer Hoffman, chairman of fraternal relations, and Mrs. Betty Doland, promoter of finance.

Brazil Floods Fatal To 200

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — New pleas for assistance came Sunday from the coastal state of Bahia, where authorities estimated 200 persons have been drowned and 50,000 left homeless in raging floods.

Food and medicine were flown by helicopter to the southeastern Bahia city of Itabuna, which is the most seriously effected and is cut off from the outside by high water.

A navy corvette unloaded several tons of supplies at the coasta city of Ilheus, 20 miles east of Itabuna.

A government agency in Bahia sent word that at least $750,000 was needed for food, medicine and to rebuild damaged homes.

Gov. Luis Viana Filho of Bahia sent another aid request to President Arthur da Costa e Silva.

Several days of heavy rain sent rivers out of their banks in southern Bahia, destroying bridges, homes, highways, communications and inundating airports.

The rivers now are receding, but health authorities fear epidemics.

Plane Crash Fatal To Six

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A private plane carrying six persons plunged into Lake Pontchartrain Sunday and rescue units reported no signs of survivors.

The Coast Guard said reports indicated the plane was carrying a pilot and five passengers who had missed a commercial flight from Mobile to New Orleans.

Airport personnel said the twin-engined Beechcraft was heading for a landing at New Orleans International Airport when it disappeared from the radar scope. It crashed shortly after noon two miles from the New Orleans shore, and about 150 feet from the heavily traveled Lake Pontchartrain Causeway.

"About the snap of your fingers, everything was gone under the water," a witness said. "As the plane hit the water an orange and white flame came in a short burst . . . then all I saw was eight or ten pieces of small debris, and a lot of bubbles."

The plane had been rented earlier in the day from Executive Aircraft Co. at Mobile.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm going to be married next month and my bride-to-be is a very romantic girl. Bernice has all sorts of movieland ideas about what a marriage should be and I hate to disappoint her, but I want to get one thing settled beforehand and I need your help.

Bernice has made frequent references to my carrying her over the threshold on our wedding night. She weighs about 25 pounds more than I do and, what's more, I have a bad back. When my back konks out on me, Ann, I'm as good as dead for at least three days.

Please tell me what to do about this awkward situation.

Dear Hank: If your back konks out, Bernice will be a whole lot unhappier than if she has to give up some of her movieland ideas. Tell her she'd better walk across the threshold and you'll hold her hand instead.

-:-

How To Buy

Dear Ann: There ought to be a published guide for grandmas who buy gifts. Since no one has published such a guide, will you please print mine? It's too late for Christmas but it might come in handy for Easter.

1. Remember the gift is for the child, not his parents. What might impress the living daylights out of mom and dad could fall flat with a youngster.

2. Don't buy a gift with the idea it will break in a few days but the kids will have a lot of fun while it lasts. Such a gift is a waste of money and encourages children to be destructive and wasteful.

3. Know the clothing size of the child and buy for the year he is in. A dress or a suit or a bathrobe means nothing to a youngster who must wait until next year to grow into it.

4. Don't buy war toys or guns or knives for kids (even if they don't actually "work"). Children should not grow up with the idea that killing is the way to prove superiority, or that war is fun.

5. If you don't know what a child wants or needs, ask his mother. If she says, "Oh, anything you bring will be all right," tell her you don't want to bring "just anything." Insist on a practical suggestion.

6. Don't feel that you must bring your grandchild a gift every time you show up. This is how kids get into the habit of saying, "What did you bring me?" — instead of just being glad you came to visit. — I HAPPEN TO HAVE SOME PICTURES.

Dear Hap: Thank you for some extremely sensible suggestions. I've never seen a gift guide for grannies and yours will certainly do until something better comes along.

Keep 'Em Guessing

Dear Ann: Yesterday my wife and I went to church. We left the house in a hurry because the alarm clock didn't go off and we overslept. When the collection plate was passed my wife dug in her pocketbook and discovered she had left her coin purse at home. I reached for my wallet and realized I'd left it on the dresser.

The people on either side of us looked appalled when we didn't put anything in the plate. One woman nudged the man next to her and whispered something.

We are new in this community and do not know many people in our church. My wife says I should have explained to those around us the circumstances of our not giving. I disagreed with her and we got into a big argument. What do you say? — NOT CHEAP, JUST ABSENT-MINDED.

Dear Ab: You don't give to the church to impress the observers, do you: Well then, why explain? Double your contribution next week and buy a new alarm clock.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

573 Names Removed

7,125 Qualified For Voting Here

East Liverpool is beginning 1968 with 7,125 qualified voters after the County Election Board removed the names of 573 in its annual year-end check for failure to vote at least once in the preceding two years.

The city's voter registration stood at 7,048 on Jan. 1, 1967, following removal of 1,523 names in the annual check, so the total at the start of 1968 is a gain of 77. East Liverpool's registration was 8,348 at the start of 1966 after the board removed the name of 396.

STATE LAW makes the yearly check mandatory in all subdivisions where voter registration is required. The board must remove the names of all persons who have not voted in a primary, general or special election in the preceding two years. East Liverpool is the only community in Columbiana County where voter registration is required.

Postcard notices are in the mail to all the disqualified electors, notifying them of the board's action. The double-fold card includes an addressed, postage-paid card which the residents may use to reinstate their registration.

The card allows a voter to become qualified again without the necessity for a trip to the board's downtown office.

The elector need only enter his name and address and affix his signature. Until the law was changed a few years ago by the General Assembly, electors could reinstate their names only by a personal trip to the board"s office.

The notice warns that the mail reinstatement rule runs out in 30 days — on Feb. 2. After that, a person will be required to visit the office in person to have his name entered on the list again.

Past experience has shown that only about 20 per cent of the disqualified electors take advantage of the mail reinstatement. But the board said the percentage may be higher in early 1968 because of interest in the Presidential election.

THE DROP to 7,125 is another step in the gradual downward trend in the number of city voters that began shortly after the end of World War II. The city's all-time peak registration was the 12,642 for the November 1940 Presidential election.

In the last hours before the deadline that year, a line of prospective registrants stretched from the board's former office in the basement of City Hall up the steps and along the sidewalk in Peach Alley onto W. 6th St. Frank R. O'Hanlon, the late director of elections, recalled that the board's staff worked at top speed for hours to enroll the voters. There was intense interest in President Roosevelt's bid for a third term, opposed by Wendell Willkie, a Republican.

Since 1945, there has been a continual, gradual decline in registrations, blamed on migration to the new residential districts immediately outside the city limits. The residents are not lost to Greater East Liverpool, however, as most have occupied new homes in nearby Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

The year-end check eliminated 144 names in the First Ward, 190 in the Second, 114 in the Third and 125 in the Fourth.

The Second Ward remains the city's largest, with 2,522 qualified electors. The First has 1,633; the Third, 1,180, and the Fourth, $1,790.

The East Liverpool registration books are open now and will remain open until March 27 at 9 p. m., the deadline for enrolling for the May 7 primary election. State law bans registration for 10 days after an election.

Voters will be able to enroll again, starting May 18. Registration for the Nov. 5 general election will close Sept. 25 at 9 p. m.

Trade Pact Finished Between Japan, China

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's five-year trade agreement with Communist China expired Sunday while Peking kept silent on whether it will agree to negotiate an extension of the pact with Japanese businessmen.

Although Communist China has not explained its silence, it had repeated charges that Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's government is hostile to Peking.

Japanese businessmen, with tacit support from Sato's predecessor, Hayato Ikeda, signed the agreement in November 1962 to cover five years beginning Jan. 1, 1963.

Gen. Bar-Lev Sworn In As Israeli Leader

JERUSALEM (AP) — Gen. Haim Bar-Lev was sworn in Sunday as Israel's military chief of staff for a four-year hitch. He succeeded Gen. Itzhak Rabin.

Bar-Lev, 43, born in Vienna, Austria, is credited with getting Israeli troops and supplies to the right places at the right time while serving as Rabin's deputy commander in the Arab-Israeli war in June.

In an interview with the Jerusalem Post, Bar-Lev said Israel had to face the possibility that the dispute with the Arabs would "not be solved without another war."

Tendency To Myopia

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indians are short-sighted, claims Dr. P. M. Kapoor of the Indian Council of Medical Research. He said studies show a preponderance of myopia and an inherent tendency towards it.

Rhodes Sets Job Mark For Young People

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, in a year-end report, said Sunday the coming year might well be "the year of the $2 billions" for Ohio, and said "our No. 1 goal this year is to create 62,000 new jobs for the young people entering the labor market."

The $2 billions year to which he referred that was that Ohio might expect more than $2 billion in new industrial capital investment, $2 billion in exports $2 billion in tourism, $2 billion in agriculture business and $2 billion in federal contracts.

"That," he said, "would add up to thousands of new and better jobs for Ohioans."

Rhodes said his Department of Development will continue to cooperate with industry and Ohio communities to assist existing industry to expand and new industry to locate in Ohio. He said to provide the needed 62,000 jobs, about $2.2 billion in capital investment by industry will be needed, that more than 2200 plants must expand and more than 500 new plants will have to be located in Ohio.

He said surface transportation will be improved as well as air transportation.

He said he hoped with new and expanded food processing and manufacturing plants, the promotion of Ohio agricultural products for export, the farm industry could reach a level of $2 billion per year and provide thousands of jobs.

Swearing-In Service Held At Wellsville

The oath of office was administered to several Wellsville city officials and councilmen Saturday morning at 9 at the City Hall by Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool.

Sworn in were William W. Daugherty, mayor; Edgar Davidson, auditor; Thomas Grafton, treasurer; Wayne Rose, president of Council; Glenn Mathess, Nunzio S. Lombardozzi, Russell Keefer and James B. Phillips, councilmen.

Jack Call, Robert Taggart and Paul Todd will be sworn in later.

Greek Queen Believed Now Fully Recovered

ROME (AP) — Queen Anne-Marie of Greece has completely recovered from a miscarriage last Thursday, her personal physician announced Sunday. She and King Constantine took a short drive.

Constantine's secretary released the announcement by Dr. Basil Coutifaris.

King Constantine and his 21-year-old Danish-born queen remained at the Greek Embassy, where they have stayed since their flight to Rome Dec. 14 after the collapse of the counter-coup that the king attempted against the Greek junta.

Hungary Boosts Fund Rate As Tourist Move

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary announced Sunday a new tourist exchange rate for its currency, the forint, in a partial devaluation designed to attract more Western visitors.

The new tourist rate of 30 forints to $1, six forints more than the previous rate, is effective Monday for noncommercial transactions in all convertible Western currencies.

Except for tourists, the official exchange rate is 11.47 forints to $1.

At Speeds Up To 60 MPH

'68 Car Safety Devices Expected To Save Lives

WAHSNIGTON (AP) — Many auto occupants can expect to escape death or serious injury in traffic accidents — at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, says the director of the national highway safety program.

Dr. William Haddon Jr. applies this assessment to persons riding in 1968 model cars equipped with safety devices newly required on vehicles built in Amreica.

But he makes one basic proviso: The travelers must be wearing the combination lap and cross-chest seat belts.

The seat belt combination is one—and, Haddon says, the most important — of the package of safety standards going into effect Monday under the government's new highway safety program.

"Most people dying on the highways are dying of smashed heads — I would put it just that way," Haddon, director of the National Highway Safety Bureau, said in an interview.

"And these belts, used together, prevent that."

And, he said, the belts prevent another major cause of death in accidents: being crushed by one's car or by another car after having been thrown out of the vehicle.

In support of his claim that death and major injury can be ruled out in most under-60 accidents, the young physician said:

"We've known for years what the body can take with proper packaging." And he said the new cars provide the proper package with such features in addition to seat belts as:

—Improved laminated windshields, which won't break and therefore won't gash heads and necks;

—Shock absorbing steering columns, which cushion impact spears: and

—Stronger door locks, so doors don't pop open in crashes.

Evidence that "people are beginning to walk away" from once fatal types of accidents, Haddon said, is contained in a study of 28,000 such crashes in Sweden involving cars with lap and cross chest seat belts. Among occupants wearing the belts, no one was killed at speeds under 60.

Yet only about one-third of the drivers and passengers in cars wear seat belts, he said. Many refuse to wear them because they think they're better off to be thrown clear in an accident.

Haddon said they couldn't be more wrong.

The safety chief conceded that officials expect many people—especially women — won't use the new chest belts because of inconvenience, discomfort or concern for clothes.

But he said statistics show lap belts alone improve one's chances of avoiding death or serious injury by 35 per cent, lap and chest belts together, by 80 per cent.

Haddon predicted the new harnesses will be much improved in the next two or three years. Some companies are expected to introduce belts that allow freedom while riding but which lock if the car crashes.

He expresed hope too about studies which show that people with more education are more likely to use the belts. The same pattern has occurred with life-protecting developments in the past, such as vaccination, Haddon said.

Caracas Men Give Children Unique Gift

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Thirty-nine Caracas men gave their 238 children a unique Christmas gift, a family name.

They did it by marrying in a mass ceremony the mothers with whom they had been living. Some of the 78 newlyweds have been living together almost 20 years.

The ceremony was a measure of progress towards overcoming one of Venezuela's major social ailments — common law marriages and illegitimate births.

Under the law children born out of wedlock can use only their mother's name unless she marries the father or he "recognizes" the child as being his before government officials.

The idea of promoting a mass wedding belongs to Valentin Brito, a Caracas district Prefect chief. When he launched the scheme in 1966 he managed to get 15 couples to the altar.

Current census fgures show 53 per cent of the country's babies are born out of wedlock. Only seven per cent are ever "recognized" by the fathers.

Mrs. Raul Leoni, wife of the president, has issued a plea to "make 1968 the year of the protected, sheltered and recognized child."

Illegitimate births are not confined to underprivileged classes.

El Universal, praising the First Lady's appeal, spoke of "the wealthy dandies who take advantage of painful economic situations or ignorance to happily and carelessly have a son here and another there."

Two Cars Involved In Lisbon Collision

LISBON — Cars driven by Peter G. Opincar, 77, of 249 W. Maple St. and Ralph J. Dangelo, 43, of Church St., Salineville, collided at 3 p.m. Saturday on S. Market St. about 100 feet north of the Washington St. intersection.

Police said Opincar pulled away from the East curb in his 1967 sport coupe and hit the right side of Dangelo's northbound 1965 station wagon.

Both vehicles were damaged, police said. No one was cited.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cities will not continue growing indefinitely, a veteran city planner and administrator said Sunday. And, as an example, he said New York's population will probably stabilize around nine million.

Robert Moses, 79, who has spent more than 50 years in urban-oriented official positions—mainly in New York—said, too, that cities will not "fold up or be obliterated."

"We're not going to solve their problems overnight," Moses said, "but leadership is slowly emerging and there is no reason to become unduly alarmed by the counsels of despair."

He predicted that New York where he is chairman of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority—will not be entirely different 25 years from now from the city of today. He said the air will be cleaner, the buildings higher, but otherwise it will be much the same.

Slum problems for all cities can be solved only one way, Moses said: tear-down every building and erect new ones.

He gave his views in a copyrighted interview in U. S. News & World Report magazine.

A new radar to search out weather disturbances around stormy Cape Hatteras, N.C., will be commissioned Jan. 15. The Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) said the new model would detect weather disturbances at ranges of more than 200 miles.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., in an interview with Physics Today magazine, said there is overlapping of scientific effort in federal departments and agencies. He said research should be centralized under one body—the Atomic Energy Commission or the National Science Foundation—to "get the most out of our science dollar."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Christmas thief has tarnished the spirit of the season for Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz.

"The worst thing about Christmas this year is that the lights on our outdoor Christmas tree were taken away, were stolen," Wirtz said Sunday.

"I don't like that. I don't know what it means," he said in an ABC television-radio interview. Wirtz disclosed the theft while forecasting safety on the streets would be a major election issue in 1968 along with the economy, Vietnam and racial equality.

—:—

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States rings in the New Year with an estimated population of 200,271,231, the Census Bureau said Sunday.

This represents an increase of 2,165,000, or about 1 per cent, for the year. The nation officially reached a population of 200 million Nov. 20.

The net gain during 1967, the bureau said, resulted from about 3,572,000 births, 1,852,000 deaths and a net immigration of 444,000.

'ROUND-THE-CLOCK PROTECTION

More than 50,000,000 people are injured each year according to the National Health Survey conducted by the U.S. Public Health Service. In a single year there were 10,400,000 disabling injuries . . . 107,000 deaths. Wage losses alone from these accidents totaled over five billion dollars. Medical fees and hospital expenses cost another $1,800,000,000.

THIS COULD HAPPEN TO YOU OR A MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY ANY TIME—ANY PLACE . . . in your own home, at work, on the road traveling or at play. If so, HOW WILL YOU PAY THE BILLS.

INSURANCE IS YOUR BEST ANSWER! As a special service to its readers, this newspaper offers such protection for less than 2c a day to readers from 1 to 90 years of age. The policy, issued by Columbus Mutual Life Insurance Company of Columbus, Ohio, won't pay all the bills but it will be an important help should an accident occur.

THIS POLICY WILL PAY YOU benefits for loss of life, limb or sight and for disability caused by accidental injury (the amount depending on how the accident is sustained).

*$7.00 daily up to 60 days in the hospital if injuries require hospital confinement.

*Ambulance expense up to $10.00.

*X-ray examination costs up to $10.00.

*Medical treatment of non-disabling injuries at the rate of $6.00 for the first treatment and $3.00 for subsequent treatments up to $21.00.

The only accidents not covered by this valuable policy are those sustained while outside the United States, Canada or Mexico; in a mine; or while riding or driving in a race or speed contest. It does not cover suicide; injuries resulting from act of war or asphyxiation from gas or poison vapor. Riding in or driving a motorcycle, any type of hernia, accidental or otherwise.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde

Despite experiencing a whole series of troubles producing his 2½-hour version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," Dan Curtis believes it is the best one ever done, and he includes the three movie versions starring John Barrymore, Fredric March and Spencer Tracy, respectively. The TV "Jekyll" can be seen Sunday on ABC with Jack Palance in the double role.

Hal Humphrey

"I've spent a year and a half and about $900,000 on my show, so I feel I'm an expert," says Curtis, whose main claim to fame up to now was as the producer of the daytime soaper, Dark Shadows, and the CBS Golf Classic.

Curtis started out to do the Robert Louis Stevenson classic in London with a Red Serling script and Jason Robards as his star. Two things went wrong. British TV technicians went on strike for more money to do color, and the last company to settle with the technicians was Associated British TV, the firm Curtis was working with.

BY THE TIME the strike was over, Curtis found he had no star. Robards did not like Serling's script. Other writers were called in to rewrite it, but Robards still said no. Meanwhile, Curtis had moved back to New York with Jekyll, had already spent $100,000 for his London venture but with nothing to show for it.

Writer Serling was paid off and his script thrown out completely by Curtis, who then got Ian McLellan Hunter to write one. Hunter has been a Hollywood screenwriter for many years, and Curtis says his "Jekyll" is the best yet because it sticks closer to Stevenson's original story.

In the meantime Curtis recalled that Jack Palance had said he'd like to do "Jekyll," after turning Curtis down on another property. They made a deal and Curtis started shopping for locations to shoot it in New York.

-:-

"THEN I FOUND studio facilities in New York were filled up at the time, and also there was a possibility of a strike of technicians at ABC. I couldn't afford to gamble by now. I got a call from a scenic designer at the Canadian Broadcast Corp. who suggested I do the show in Toronto and I decided to do it there," says Curtis.

He had wanted New York's Washington Square for some of the key scenes in "Jekyll," but decided it was impractical to do production in both Toronto and New York.

"I wound up spending another $200,000 to build my own Washington Square in Toronto for some of our exterior scenes," continues Curtis, who by this time had decided that "Jekyll" was going to be a lifetime project with him.

-:-

THE TAPING of the show in Toronto took 23 days which is about twice what Curtis expected, but the production was slowed down when Palance injured his arm in a 12-foot fall during a scene in which he was running along a wall. He was out of action four days, then had to take things easier when he did return.

Palance was made up rather elaborately for the two roles of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, which also consumed considerable extra time.

"He doesn't have any fangs as Hyde. We went more for the fear than shock element in Palance's Hyde make-up. He's a really terrifying guy, rather than a monster, and he gets to looking more rotten as the play progresses. I'm very happy with him. He does this role with more power than anyone you've ever seen do it. He really goes," Curtis says.

SINCE THE "Jekyll" project ran so much more money than Curtis expected, he's hoping to renegotiate his deal with ABC, which at this point is paying out just a little more than half of Curtis' reported $900,000 cost.

"I'm also hoping to get some of my money back eventually by transferring the 'Jekyll' tape to film and releasing it to European theaters," Curtis adds.

Does he expect to do another TV special soon? Not for a while. "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" took a lot out of Dan Curtis.

Bridges For Profit

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Madhya Pradesh State believes it has developed a scheme which will provide the state with the many bridges it needs but can not afford. Contractors are being asked to build pontoon or other inexpensive bridges at their own cost. Then they will be permitted to charge tolls for a specified period, judged sufficient to recover costs and make a profit.

'Tremendous Gains' Seen In Mental Help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, according to its director, expects to make "tremendous gains" on the local community level in 1968.

Martin A. Janis, in a statement issued Saturday, said seven centers for the mentally retarded and nine centers for the mentally ill which were applied for in 1965 and 1966 are under construction in Ohio.

Of communities which filed applications for mental health facilities in 1967, seven are being processed or centers already are in various stages of construction.

Poll Indicates LBJ Gaining In Popularity

NEW YORK (AP) — A Gallup Poll released Sunday showed President Johnson gaining in popularity, but still with less than majority approval.

His handling of his job was approved by 46 per cent of the adults polled in December, up 5 points from late November and 8 points from his October low. In December 41 per cent disapproved, and 13 per cent had no opinion.

The year-end spurt enabled Johnson to end 1967 with nearly the same rating as he began it. He had 47 per cent approval in January 1967.

The latest poll showed him registering gains among all groups, with his lowest rating (35 per cent) in the South.

Johnson's high mark in the Gallup Poll was 80 per cent in January 1964, shortly after he took office.

President John F. Kennedy's range in the poll was from a high of 83 to a low of 57. Harry S. Truman ran from 87 down to 23. Dwight D. Eisenhower varied from 79 to 49, and Franklin D. Roosevelt from 84 to 50.

The poll said a president can expect a tight election if his rating is below 55 per cent.

Summary Of 1967

Building Permits Total $2,754,036

New construction and remodeling totaled $2,754,036 in East Liverpool during 1967, exceeding by $603,551 the previous record of $2,150,485 established in 1965.

A single permit for $2,225,000 helped establish the new record. Mayor George E. Willshaw's office issued the authoriation last January to the Potters Construction Co., general contractor for erection of the new high school and north elementary school on Maine Blvd.

THE 1967 projects bring to $20,065,142 the estimated dollar value of building projects in East Liverpool since the close of World War II in 1945. The permits exceeded the $2 million mark only in one other year. That was in 1954, when the total hit $2,118,653. The third biggest year for local construction was the $1,569,362 in 1953.

During 1966, there was only one major project to help swell the total. That was in October, when a permit was issued for the new East Elementary School at an estimated cost of $425,000.

The 1965 total was pushed to a record by a whole series of major projects, including two new motels, one costing $100,000; and the other $350,000; a convalescent center costing $250,000; an apartment complex worth $275,000 and a $100,000 church remodeling.

The 1933 permits hit $922,889 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,071, 932. The total for 1961 was $443,308.

A $130,000 permit issued a few days ago to the Ohio Power Co. helped swell the total for 1967. The company obtained the authorization to build a new substation at the corner of Franklin St. and St. Clair Ave., primarily to help serve the new school buildings on Maine Blvd.

But the 1967 total does not represent all the new construction work in the immediate East Liverpool area.

MILLIONS have been spent on new housing in the suburban areas immediately outside the corporate limits in a postwar migration to the adjoining townships that began more than 20 years ago.

Governmental projects also are not included, as building permits are not required. For example, work got underway late in the fall on a $252,000 Ohio Highway Department project for erection of a new auto-pedestrian ramp over the Freeway to link together the two deadend sections of W. 9th St.

Here's a monthly breakdown on the dollar value of 1967 permits, contrasting the totals with the same months in 1966:

January, $2,302,959 and $17,745; February, $72,500 and $32,500; March, $13,218 and $36,400; April, $6,197 and $59,927; May, $22,760 and $122,520; June, $18,980 and $34,700; July $46,378 and $76,861; August $25,030 and $23,770; September, $15,750 and $85,380; October, $15,980 and $456,606; November, $75,050 and $21,800, and December, $139,285 and $8,650.

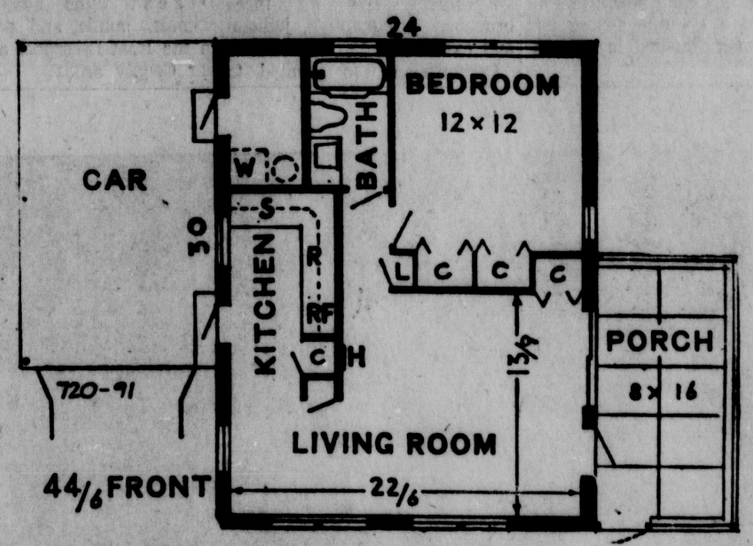

In addition to the Ohio Power project, the December permits covered these projects:

I. L. Tackett, to repair a building at 860 Lisbon St., $500.

Guilford L. Hughes, to erect an addition to a home at 129 S. Surry Rd., $1,785.

William Mangano, to raze a commercial building at 728-730 Dresden Ave., $7,000.

RETIREMENT HOME is compact, yet apparently spacious. There is ample storage space within as well as an exterior storage room to accommodate laundry fixtures, garden tools, etc. The 8 by 16-foot screened porch acts as an entrance to the house, as well as a visual extension of the living room. The corner, cross-ventilated bedroom has ample closets and handy access to the bath. Kitchen has easy access to the car. Carport could be turned into a garage. Plan HA 529 R was designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

B&O To Discountinue Two Runs In Ohio

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, citing a $125,000 annual loss in Ohio on passenger trains 31 and 32—the National Limited—between Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W. Va., reported Saturday the runs will be discontinued Jan. 26.

The railroad also listed lack of passengers as the reason for discontinuing the train, citing figures from last September showing that only 18 passengers were carried on one National Limited run.

First Volunteers

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Cambridge residents, fired with the abolitionist sentiments of William Lloyd Garrison, formed the first volunteer company to serve with union forces. On the other hand, the Harvard community thought little of the war and the practice of hiring military replacements was common.

Louver Door Enjoying Upsurge In Popularity

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There has been an upsurge in popularity in the louver door in decorating and remodeling.

This is due in no small part to the availability of factory-made louver doors in a wide variety of sizes and styles. You can get them in most lumber yards and even a few department stores. Mail order houses stock them.

They are not terribly expensive. There are sizes that will take care of almost any situation. And they are easy to install.

You can use them on closets and wardrobes, as doors for cupboards and cabinets, to make a storage wall, a room divider or a screen (hinge three or more together). On closets, the slanted slats allow air to circulate while keeping out dust.

YOU CAN hang them on hinges as you would a conventional door or slide them on a track. There are duofold types available which make a folded door that does not project as far into a room.

You can get a short cafe - type door if you like. Hang them on special hinges that swing both ways and use them for kitchen, pantry or your own private bar room.

Use louver doors to close off the space under the sink or for a bathroom vanity.

If furnace and water heater are located on the first floor use louver doors to enclose them attractively.

Outdoors you can take louver doors and hang them on each side of a window as decorative shutters. Get the proper hardware and it is no trick to turn them into real shutters that can be closed.

Shutters inside have become an interesting decorative trick too. They make good window blinds. Get them in sections rather than full length and you can open the top for air and light while leaving the lower half closed for privacy.

Outdoors again you can make a narrow entrance door look wider by adding two full-length louver panels, one on each side and painted to match the door.

YOU MAY not find the louver door you want in exactly the size you want it, but you can get them close enough and cutting down is easy.

Generally they are stocked in sizes that will vary four inches in height, two inches in width. You can easily cut an inch or more off the end rails for fitting.

A one - slat panel means the entire door consists of slats in a standard frame. Two panel doors have a cross rail across the middle. There also are some with slats in one half, solid panel in the other.

When mounting, trim top and bottom to fit. If you are mortising the hinge, trace the hinge on the edge of the panel and then chisel carefully to the right depth. Mount one leaf of the hinge, then prop the door against the frame to find the position of the other leaf.

If you use pulls or other hardware, center them with the center rail.

If you make screens out of louver panels use hinges at three points, not two.

Finish as you would any door —weather - resistant paints or varnishes outdoors; paint, varnish, shellac, or wax indoors.

Right Technique Does The Job In 'Setting' Screw

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The person who has tried to drive a screw into oak, maple or other hardwood is well aware of the difficulty encountered. At the same time, there are places where nothing but a screw is satisfactory, and most people know that a screw is about five or six times as strong as any nail.

You can fasten two pieces of wood together with a solid nail, and then using the claw of the hammer you can pry them apart without too much effort. If the pieces are fastened together with a screw, you will tear and rip the wood, but the screw will still hold.

Professional carpenters avoid any difficulty in using screws by the use of a simple formula. It takes a few seconds longer, but the screw will sink into any wood without effort if this formula is followed:

Establishing the point at which the screw is to be sunk, a drill or nail is used to make an entrance if a drill is used, it should be about half of the diameter of the shank of the screw. When a nail is used, it should be driven in half an inch, twisted around, driven another fraction of an inch and withdrawn.

The threads of the screw are drawn over a piece of soap or smeared with petroleum jelly and then set in the hole and turned up. This procedure not only makes the work easy, but also prevents splitting the wood.

Another point to be remembered in setting a screw is that it is impossible to exert the required amount of strength unless you are in a position where the weight of your body and the thrust of your arms is right against the screw.

If the job is attempted incorrectly, the effort is exhausting, and in all probability the setting will be inaccurate.

According to the Bible, Noah's ark was 450 feet long, 75 feet wide and had a depth of 43 feet.

Waste Piles Up And Up For Do-It-Yourselfers

By ANDY LANG

The amount of materials wasted during 1967 by do-it-yourselfers can never be accurately determined. But it's a safe bet that it runs into the many millions of dollars.

If you're a home handyman, you have only to look around your own workshop to know that this must be true.

A typical workshop includes several cans of paint which are partly filed and which may never be used again. The chances are that the partial contents of each can have hardened and are unusable.

It also is probable that the same thing has happened to two, three or more paint brushes which were used only a couple of times and not cleaned properly.

—:—

A PAINT manufacturer, in a confidential mood at the time, once told us that he believed only about two-thirds of all paint sold to home owners was ever used.

Asked why, he said that, first of all, most persons bought more paint than was needed, especially for small jobs, and then never had occasion to use paint of that kind and color again.

Secondly, he explained, most people simply did not take the time and trouble necessary to make the paint can airtight after finishing a project.

Slapping the cover on again in a haphazard fashion allowed air to get inside and eventually ruined the contents.

The proper procedure, he said, was to be sure the top of the can and the cover were wiped clean of all drippings, after which the cover had to be forced down very tightly — hammered into place, if necessary, after placing a cloth around the top to prevent splattering.

As for buying only what you need, this is especially important in the case of shellac. The popular clear material deteriorates with age. Buy only what you are going to use in a few months.

SHELLAC which is too old will produce an unsatisfactory finish.

There is much waste with many other materials which change their character when exposed to the air. Things like plastic wood and certain adhesives are affected even when the cover or cap of the container is left off while the project is in progress.

The best guide in knowing how to handle a product is to read the label instructions carefully. While most persons do this the first time they use the material, they neglect it thereafter. Since weeks and months may ensue before the next use, the precautions on the label are completely forgotten during that period.

A tree forms concentric lines for each year of its growth and the salmon adds a layer to its earbone every year in the same manner, so a salmon's age can be determined by the number of its "earrings."

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm going to be married next month and my bride-to-be is a very romantic girl. Bernice has all sorts of movieland ideas about what a marriage should be and I hate to disappoint her, but I want to get one thing settled beforehand and I need your help.

Bernice has made frequent references to my carrying her over the threshold on our wedding night. She weighs about 25 pounds more than I do and, what's more, I have a bad back. When my back konks out on me, Ann, I'm as good as dead for at least three days.

Please tell me what to do about this awkward situation.

Dear Hank: If your back konks out, Bernice will be a whole lot unhappier than if she has to give up some of her movieland ideas. Tell her she'd better walk across the threshold and you'll hold her hand instead.

How To Buy

Dear Ann: There ought to be a published guide for grandmas who buy gifts. Since no one has published such a guide, will you please print mine? It's too late for Christmas but it might come in handy for Easter.

1. Remember the gift is for the child, not his parents. What might impress the living daylights out of mom and dad could fall flat with a youngster.

2. Don't buy a gift with the idea it will break in a few days but the kids will have a lot of fun while it lasts. Such a gift is a waste of money and encourages children to be destructive and wasteful.

3. Know the clothing size of the child and buy for the year he is in. A dress or a suit or a bathrobe means nothing to a youngster who must wait until next year to grow into it.

4. Don't buy war toys or guns or knives for kids (even if they don't actually "work"). Children should not grow up with the idea that killing is the way to prove superiority, or that war is fun.

5. If you don't know what a child wants or needs, ask his mother. If she says, "Oh, anything you bring will be all right," tell her you don't want to bring "just anything." Insist on a practical suggestion.

6. Don't feel that you must bring your grandchild a gift every time you show up. This is how kids get into the habit of saying, "What did you bring me?" — instead of just being glad you came to visit. — I HAPPEN TO HAVE SOME PICTURES.

Dear Hap: Thank you for some extremely sensible suggestions. I've never seen a gift guide for grannies and yours will certainly do until something better comes along.

Keep 'Em Guessing

Dear Ann: Yesterday my wife and I went to church. We left the house in a hurry because the alarm clock didn't go off and we overslept. When the collection plate was passed my wife dug in her pocketbook and discovered she had left her coin purse at home. I reached for my wallet and realized I'd left it on the dresser.

The people on either side of us looked appalled when we didn't put anything in the plate. One woman nudged the man next to her and whispered something.

We are new in this community and do not know many people in our church. My wife says I should have explained to those around us the circumstances of our not giving. I disagreed with her and we got into a big argument. What do you say? — NOT CHEAP, JUST ABSENT-MINDED.

Dear Ab: You don't give to the church to impress the observers, do you: Well then, why explain? Double your contribution next week and buy a new alarm clock.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

573 Names Removed

7,125 Qualified For Voting Here

East Liverpool is beginning 1968 with 7,125 qualified voters after the County Election Board removed the names of 573 in its annual year-end check for failure to vote at least once in the preceding two years.

The city's voter registration stood at 7,048 on Jan. 1, 1967, following removal of 1,523 names in the annual check, so the total at the start of 1968 is a gain of 77. East Liverpool's registration was 8,348 at the start of 1966 after the board removed the name of 396.

STATE LAW makes the yearly check mandatory in all subdivisions where voter registration is required. The board must remove the names of all persons who have not voted in a primary, general or special election in the preceding two years. East Liverpool is the only community in Columbiana County where voter registration is required.

Postcard notices are in the mail to all the disqualified electors, notifying them of the board's action. The double-fold card includes an addressed, postage-paid card which the residents may use to reinstate their registration.

The card allows a voter to become qualified again without the necessity for a trip to the board's downtown office.

The elector need only enter his name and address and affix his signature. Until the law was changed a few years ago by the General Assembly, electors could reinstate their names only by a personal trip to the board"s office.

The notice warns that the mail reinstatement rule runs out in 30 days — on Feb. 2. After that, a person will be required to visit the office in person to have his name entered on the list again.

Past experience has shown that only about 20 per cent of the disqualified electors take advantage of the mail reinstatement. But the board said the percentage may be higher in early 1968 because of interest in the Presidential election.

THE DROP to 7,125 is another step in the gradual downward trend in the number of city voters that began shortly after the end of World War II. The city's all-time peak registration was the 12,642 for the November 1940 Presidential election.

In the last hours before the deadline that year, a line of prospective registrants stretched from the board's former office in the basement of City Hall up the steps and along the sidewalk in Peach Alley onto W. 6th St. Frank R. O'Hanlon, the late director of elections, recalled that the board's staff worked at top speed for hours to enroll the voters. There was intense interest in President Roosevelt's bid for a third term, opposed by Wendell Willkie, a Republican.

Since 1945, there has been a continual, gradual decline in registrations, blamed on migration to the new residential districts immediately outside the city limits. The residents are not lost to Greater East Liverpool, however, as most have occupied new homes in nearby Liverpool and St. Clair Townships.

The year-end check eliminated 144 names in the First Ward, 190 in the Second, 114 in the Third and 125 in the Fourth.

The Second Ward remains the city's largest, with 2,522 qualified electors. The First has 1,633; the Third, 1,180, and the Fourth, $1,790.

The East Liverpool registration books are open now and will remain open until March 27 at 9 p. m., the deadline for enrolling for the May 7 primary election. State law bans registration for 10 days after an election.

Voters will be able to enroll again, starting May 18. Registration for the Nov. 5 general election will close Sept. 25 at 9 p. m.

Rhodes Sets Job Mark For Young People

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, in a year-end report, said Sunday the coming year might well be "the year of the $2 billions" for Ohio, and said "our No. 1 goal this year is to create 62,000 new jobs for the young people entering the labor market."

The $2 billions year to which he referred that was that Ohio might expect more than $2 billion in new industrial capital investment, $2 billion in exports $2 billion in tourism, $2 billion in agriculture business and $2 billion in federal contracts.

"That," he said, "would add up to thousands of new and better jobs for Ohioans."

Rhodes said his Department of Development will continue to cooperate with industry and Ohio communities to assist existing industry to expand and new industry to locate in Ohio. He said to provide the needed 62,000 jobs, about $2.2 billion in capital investment by industry will be needed, that more than 2200 plants must expand and more than 500 new plants will have to be located in Ohio.

He said surface transportation will be improved as well as air transportation.

He said he hoped with new and expanded food processing and manufacturing plants, the promotion of Ohio agricultural products for export, the farm industry could reach a level of $2 billion per year and provide thousands of jobs.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Daniel Boone and James Harrod surveyed the site and laid out the town of Harrodsburg, Kentucky's first permanent white settlement, two years before the Declaration of Independence.

Swearing-In Service Held At Wellsville

The oath of office was administered to several Wellsville city officials and councilmen Saturday morning at 9 at the City Hall by Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool.

Sworn in were William W. Daugherty, mayor; Edgar Davidson, auditor; Thomas Grafton, treasurer; Wayne Rose, president of Council; Glenn Mathess, Nunzio S. Lombardozzi, Russell Keefer and James B. Phillips, councilmen.

Jack Call, Robert Taggart and Paul Todd will be sworn in later.

Greek Queen Believed Now Fully Recovered

ROME (AP) — Queen Anne-Marie of Greece has completely recovered from a miscarriage last Thursday, her personal physician announced Sunday. She and King Constantine took a short drive.

Constantine's secretary released the announcement by Dr. Basil Coutifaris.

King Constantine and his 21-year-old Danish-born queen remained at the Greek Embassy, where they have stayed since their flight to Rome Dec. 14 after the collapse of the countercoup that the king attempted against the Greek junta.

Hungary Boosts Fund Rate As Tourist Move

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary announced Sunday a new tourist exchange rate for its currency, the forint, in a partial devaluation designed to attract more Western visitors.

The new tourist rate of 30 forints to $1, six forints more than the previous rate, is effective Monday for noncommercial transactions in all convertible Western currencies.

Except for tourists, the official exchange rate is 11.47 forints to $1.

Trade Pact Finished Between Japan, China

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's five-year trade agreement with Communist China expired Sunday while Peking kept silent on whether it will agree to negotiate an extension of the pact with Japanese businessmen.

Although Communist China has not explained its silence, it had repeated charges that Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's government is hostile to Peking.

Japanese businessmen, with tacit support from Sato's predecessor, Hayato Ikeda, signed the agreement in November 1962 to cover five years beginning Jan. 1, 1963.

Gen. Bar-Lev Sworn In As Israeli Leader

JERUSALEM (AP) — Gen. Haim Bar-Lev was sworn in Sunday as Israel's military chief of staff for a four-year hitch. He succeeded Gen. Itzhak Rabin.

Bar-Lev, 43, born in Vienna, Austria, is credited with getting Israeli troops and supplies to the right places at the right time while serving as Rabin's deputy commander in the Arab-Israeli war in June.

In an interview with the Jerusalem Post, Bar-Lev said Israel had to face the possibiiity that the dispute with the Arabs would "not be solved without another war."

Tendency To Myopia

NEW DELHI (AP) — Indians are short-sighted, claims Dr. P. M. Kapoor of the Indian Council of Medical Research. He said studies show a preponderance of myopia and an inherent tendency towards it.

LBJ's Seen Campaiging 'If He Runs'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's press secretary predicted Sunday it will be campaigning as usual if President Johnson runs next year—regardless of any concern about security, protestors and dissenters.

George Christian was not announcing that the President is going to try for another term. But he indicated that in the event he does, some of the travel plans might not be announced in advance.

"We travel both ways," Christian said. "Sometimes we announce plans in advance; sometimes we don't. I would expect this would continue."

Christian was talking with CBS reporters on the "Face The Nation" television show.

Relations between Johnson and the press and Christian and the press dominated the half-hour.

For one thing, Christian was asked whose fault it is that there is a so-called "credibility gap" between the press and the President.

Christian said the gap puzzles him, but that all presidents have had problems "in the sense that in this society it is quite the thing to do for your opponents to attempt to discredit the word of the President."

"It is, in a political sense," he said, "a smart thing to do, to discredit your President."

Christian said he thought there was a responsibility on the part of people in government and people in the press to try to be accurate.

The press secretary said he never had heard the President criticize honest dissent and he didn't believe the President ever said dissent is unpatriotic

This was to a reporter who said many of his colleagues seem to feel that Johnson "equates dissent with lack of patriotism, or with such complete wrong-headedness as to be intolerable, or with lack of knowledge."

Christian said that he, himself, never knowingly misled a reporter.

On the war, the press secretary was asked whether the United States is going into Cambodia and Laos where, his questioner said, both guerilla and main-force activity on the part of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong originates.

Christian said he thinks "we are going to do everything we can to resolve these problems" and, "It is wrong speculation that the United States is going to take some moves to widen a war when it has limited objectives."

On war coverage in general, the press secretary said he was sure it was necessary for news media to seek out the excitement of the war and point up deficiencies of some of those conducting it.

But he said he thought it important that the entire war be covered. He said he did not think that what is happening in Vietnam villages and in training of civilians and reconstruction and development teams to get into hamlets to build schools and the country, is being developed as fully as it could be.

He characterized coverage of contributions made by the South Vietnamese and allied troops as inadequate.

In the political realm again, Christian was asked whether Johnson's character is such that he would not make a fight for another term, "faced with the low estimate, apparently, the public has of him according to the opinion polls."

Christian called the "low estimate" renark a "little hooker," and then went on to say that the President is a fighter and has been all his life.

Thief Enters Market At Lisbon By Window

LISBON — Someone with a long reach, or a buddy's boost, broke into Wolfe's Market on N. Market St. Friday night and left by the front door.

Police Capt. John Varner said entry was made through a window 10 feet from the ground on the north side of the store. "The thief stood on a bench, but it would still be hard for one person," he said.

Edgar Wolfe, owner, told police he was unable to tell without an inventory what had been taken.

Bankruptcies Up

LONDON (AP) — Bankruptcies both of individuals and companies were up this year. A court report says 1,008 London companies and 975 persons were declared unable to meet their debts. Small builders, movers, garment makers and electrical tradesmen were the hardest hit.

Generations of British soldiers and sailors served at Aden. They wrote a pipe march about it, "The Barren Rocks of Aden."

Crash Hurts City Girl, 17

A city girl was in "fair" condition at City Hospital Sunday night with injuries suffered when the car in which she was a passenger struck an embankment along Route 7 yesterday afternoon.

Sheila Colvin, 17, of 1048 Waterloo St. suffered a back injury and bruises of the leg in the mishap at 1:45, about two miles north of Route 30.

She was in a car driven by Terry K. Hoffman, 17, of 519 E. 4th St. which veered off the highway at a curve and struck an embankment.

Hoffman was treated at the hospital for bruises of the right leg and left knee. There was considerable damage to the front and sides of his 1965 convertible, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Officers investigated a collision between two cars on Route 170, about six miles north of Route 30 Saturday.

A 1964 auto operated by Mary Lou Kontnier, 23, of Negley and a 1964 sedan driven by Howard Green, 62, of East Liverpool RD 3 were headed south when the mishap occurred, according to the patrol which did not have complete details.

Israel Swim Meet

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Israelis and Jordanians have held their first organized swimming contest in the Dead Sea, where the salinity of the water makes it nearly impossible to sink. Sixty - eight swimmers attempted a 1¼-mile course and the winner finished in 40 minutes.

Crucible Again Offers Films To District Schools

The Screen News Digest, a monthly film series made available to area schools by the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co., will release its first full color film Jan. 15.

Entitled "We, The People," it will illustrate the functions and responsibilities of the federal government and its three branches — legislative, judicial and executive.

Persmission was granted to photograph a presidential cabinet meeting, a session of Congress and the chambers of the Supreme Court. Detailed animation is utilized to show the unique system of checks and balances of the federal government.

"We, The People" is narrated by Alexander Scourby, noted for his work on the "Victory at Sea" and "Project Twenty" television series.

This is the eighth year that Crucible has made Screen News Digest films available to schools, public and parochial, in the East Liverpool and Beaver County areas.

Sheriff Reports Newell Accident

Three cars were damaged in a collision at Washington and 5th Sts. in Newell, the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported.

A 1961 auto operated by Reva J. Earlywine, 19, of Marietta came from 5th St. onto Washington and was struck by a north bound 1966 auto operated by James Alifimoff, 46, of Cheswick, Pa. His car then bounced into an auto driven by James Carl Durham, 43, of 624 Grant St., Newell, who was halted to make a turn.

The girl said a parked truck obstructed her view of Washington St.

Dope Smoking Up

HONG KONG (AP) — Police believe marijuana smoking is increasing in this British colony and they have compiled a long list of suspected users of the drug. Most on the list are said to be non - Chinese and authorities are reported weighing moves to deport many of them.

Happy New Year, Everybody!

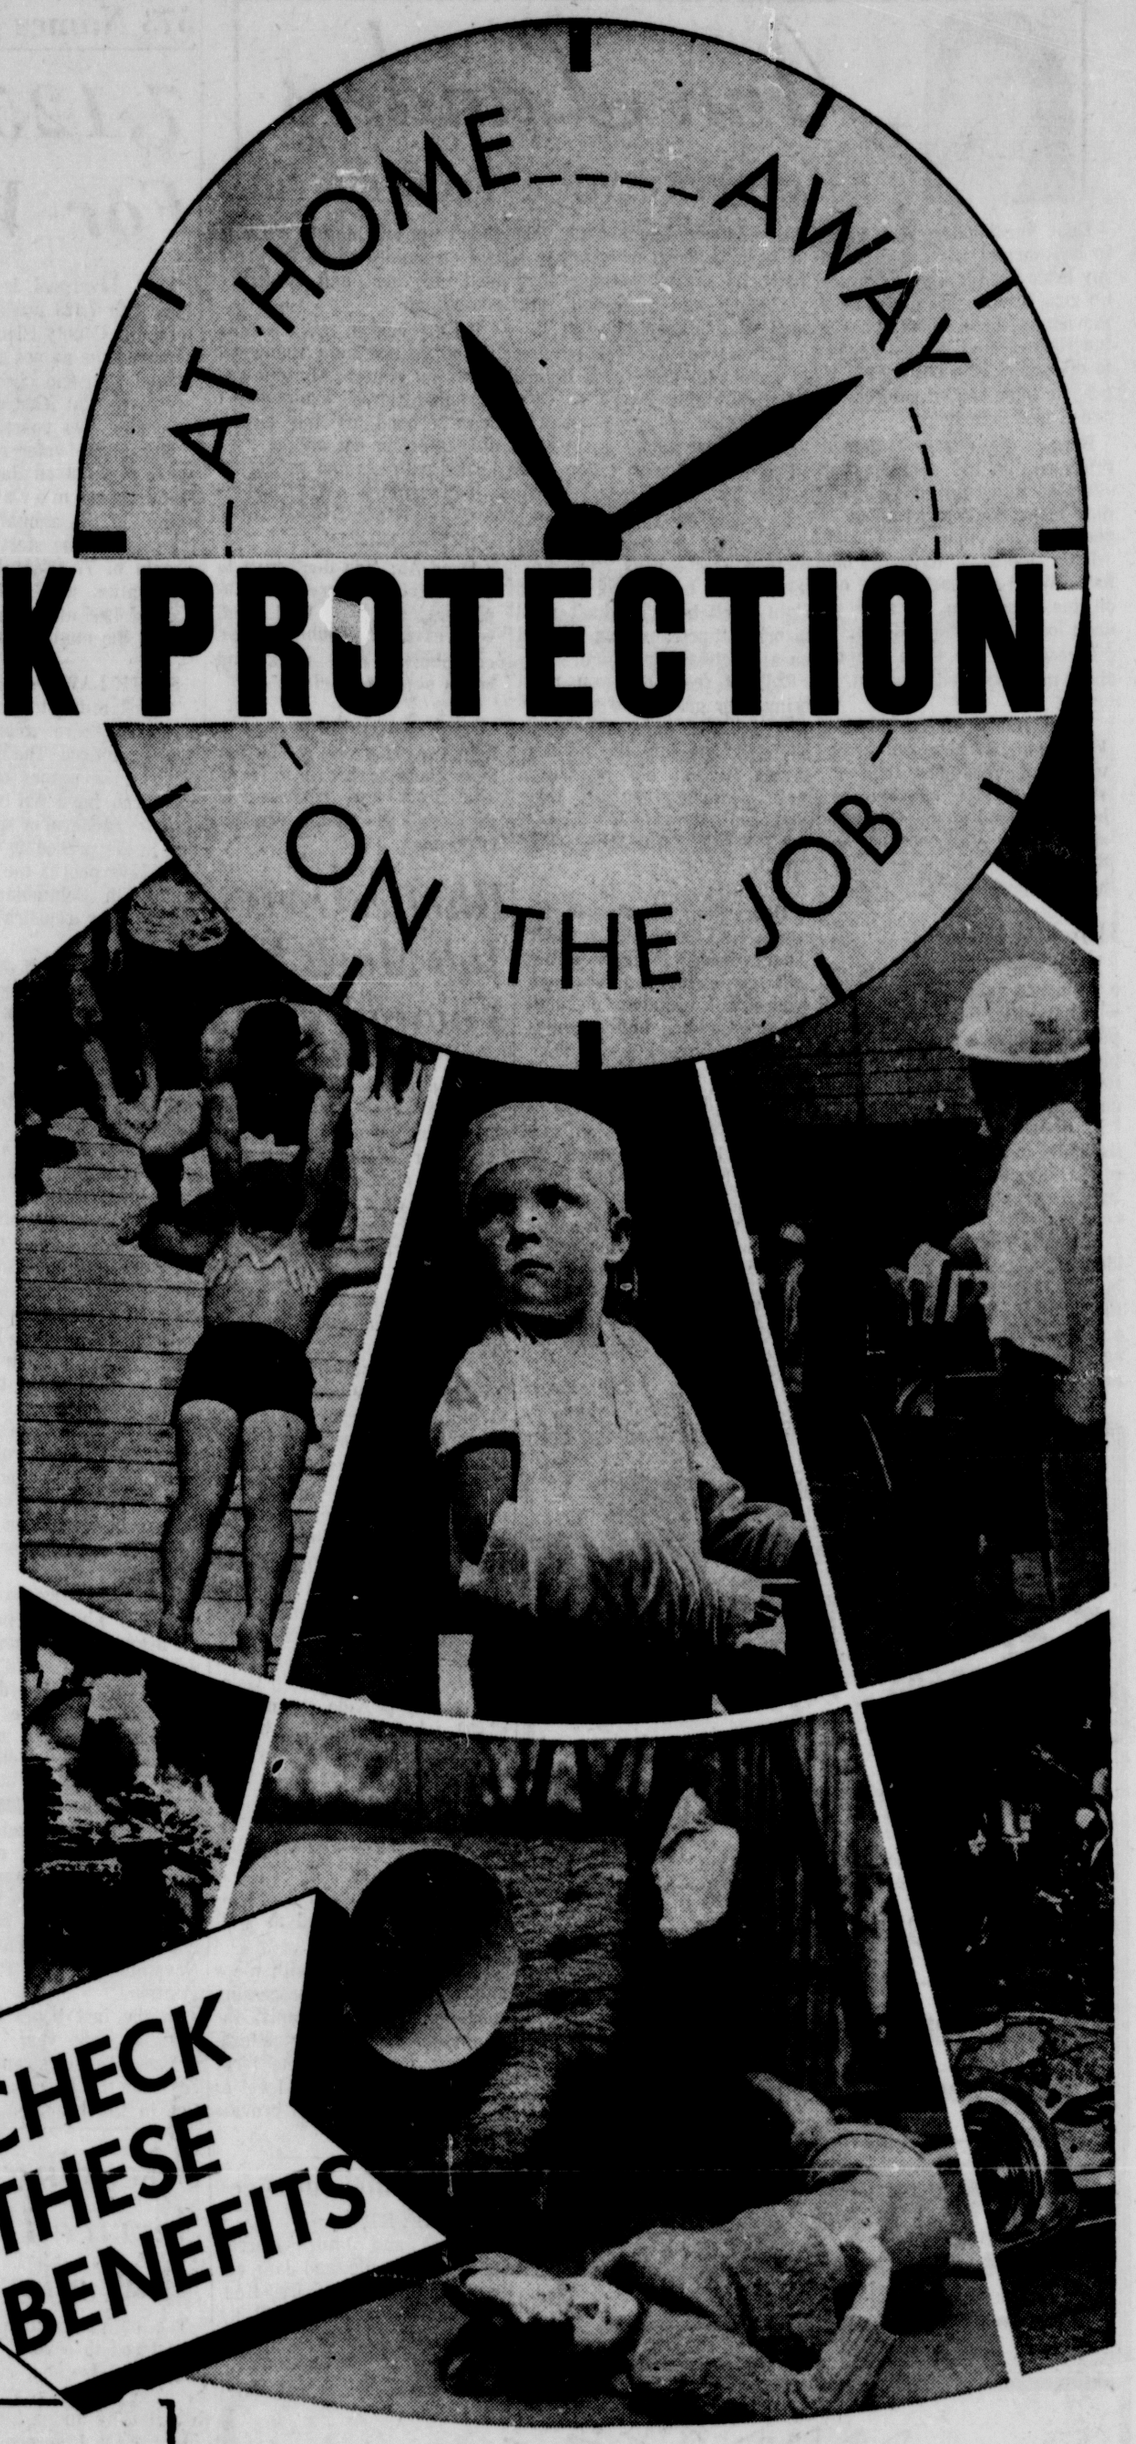

Well, we've done it again.
Managed to keep the cost of your telephone down. For another year. And that makes 9 years running we've done it. Because local telephone service still costs the same today as it did in 1959. With most everything else going up, your telephone becomes a better bargain every year. Just standing still.
Long distance rates are even going down. Last November they were reduced for the seventh time since 1959. Why not call now? Rates have never been lower on New Year's Day. Whoopie!

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR FOLKS: All during the year we try to give you some letters of laughter and it's more fun than a barrel of monkeys to see yours come in.

Today, however, I'm going to write one of my own. You may think it is just a letter of laughter, but do consider it otherwise.

Before you make your new Year's resolutions, let's consider our minds, our bodies, our medical bills and the cost of tranquilizers.

Trying to be a perfectionist when it comes to keeping house is the cost and the price we pay for those mentioned items.

Please don't do this.

Here are a few resolutons which I thoroughly believe in and if you have a mind to follow them, why don't you try it for awhile? I'm sure they will make your life much easier.

Don't try to keep a perfect house. Nobody is going to know it but you, anyway.

Always take time out in mid-morning and mid-afternoon for five minutes alone with yourself for a cup of coffee or a tall glass of ice tea. When you drink this, do not sit at your kitchen table. Walk into your living room and sit in the best chair available (even if it is Papa's!).

At least once a week use your very best Sunday dishes and silver. Serve the meal at the dining room table. You'll be surprised how much better the same food will taste and how your family will love it.

Instead of cleaning the whole house with a vengeance every six months, why not clean one room thoroughly once a month and let the rest of the house "glide"? This way you never really get behind.

Pick up the big chunks daily and get the middle clean. This will give you such an inspiration and you will be so relaxed that you can get around to deep cleaning as the mood hits you. Never work when you are overtired. Just tell the family that "Mother is tired." After all, Mother deserves her day, too.

Don't waste your energy and get your dander up screaming at the children. Energy is hard to come by these days and we need it for other things.

Lay down the law that each member of your family will pick up what they drop on the floor or misplace. This includes the children picking up their toys, Dad picking up his newspaper he drops on the floor, and the teen-agers' clothes which they seem to change three times a day.

Try doing your laundry on weekends when the family is home so they can help you. By jove, you'll be surprised how members of your family will help and how glorious it is to wake up on Monday morning not hating that day!

Bless you all from the bottom of my heart and may this be your best year yet.

Heloise.

DEAR HELOISE: I always address an envelope upside down, so the upper left hand corner is not next to the gummed flap.

In this way the return address is not torn when the letter is hastily opened by tearing the flap.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: About homemade toys for tiny children:

Cut a small hole in one end of a shoe box and fasten an old necktie in it. A string is too hard for toddlers to grasp, but they can hold on to the tie.

This makes a grand cart to "ride a doll in."

JANE.

DEAR HELOISE: Nothing makes a woman so mad as to have a cigarette burn on her skirt.

I took one of my most expensive two-piece dresses to my seamstress and instead of mending it (which she said would show), she embroidered an eyelet flower where the burn was.

She button-holed around the cigarette burn itself and then put little leaves around the outside of it, making a stem for the flower in a color nearly matching the material.

Here's where the trick comes in:

She asked for my blouse! She also cut a small hole in the top of the blouse and embroidered a matching eyelet flower.

The result was that I saved an expensive dress and it doesn't even look as if it had been burned.

Predicted By Brown New Voting Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Saturday he wished Ohioans would add one more important New Year's resolution to their lists—to make sure they're properly registered to vote.

Then he made his own New Year's Day prediction — that Ohio will set a new voting record in 1968. Ohio's highest vote come in November, 1960, when a 4,206,811 electors went to the polls.

Butterflies feed largely on nectar and apparently digest only sugar. Fat, protein and starch remain unchanged in their stomachs and all necessary ingredients, except sugar, are stored up in the insect's body during its caterpillar stage.

Steel Expects Shipments To Hit New High

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel shipments in 1968 are expected to total a record 93 million tons, Steel Magazine said Monday.

This figure would be 10 per cent higher than the 84.2 million tons estimated for all of 1967, the metalworking weekly added.

"The previous peak was 92.6 million, established in 1965, another strike threat year," Steel said.

The magazine said steelmen anticipate a record domestic consumption of 102 million tons in 1968.

Steel producers estimate imports will account for about 10 per cent of the total, a 10 per cent boost over the 1967 estimated total of 11 million tons, Steel added.

"The rise in foreign steel probably explains domestic steelmakers' recent reluctance to push up their prices across the board," the magazine said.

Steel estimates output in the week ended Dec. 30 was 2,727,000 net tons, down 20,000 from the previous week.

However, the magazine said, the cutback in raw steel production was less severe than had been expected over the Christmas holidays.

Production of raw steel for 1967 through Dec. 30 is estimated at 126.9 million tons (off about 5.5 per cent from the record or 134.1 million in 1966), Steel added.

Steel's price composite on the No. 1 heavy melted grade of steelmaking scrap rose 66 cents a gross ton last week to $30.83.

"This reflects the current market strength and activity in the scrap market is expected to gain momentum as steelmaking operations accelerate," the magazine said.

Woodrow Wilson's "Fourteen Points" were conditions set forth in his address to Congress in 1918 as a basis of world peace following World War I.

OEA Sees Boost In School Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association has predicted that teachers in the state will make more money and increased funds will be spent on students in 1968.

The OEA, reviewing Saturday the National Education Association's estimates on school statistics for the 1967-68 school year, figures a $300 million boost in state support for education will do the trick.

In 1968, the OEA estimates Ohio will spend an average of $559 per student while the nation will spend an average of $586. In the preceding school year, the Ohio per pupil expenditure rate was $473.

Summary Of 1967

Building Permits Total $2,754,036

New construction and remodeling totaled $2,754,036 in East Liverpool during 1967, exceeding by $603,551 the previous record of $2,150,485 established in 1965.

A single permit for $2,225,000 helped establish the new record. Mayor George E. Willshaw's office issued the authoriation last January to the Potters Construction Co., general contractor for erection of the new high school and north elementary school on Maine Blvd.

THE 1967 projects bring to $20,065,142 the estimated dollar value of building projects in East Liverpool since the close of World War II in 1945. The permits exceeded the $2 million mark only in one other year. That was in 1954, when the total hit $2,118,653. The third biggest year for local construction was the $1,569,362 in 1953.

During 1966, there was only one major project to help swell the total. That was in October, when a permit was issued for the new East Elementary School at an estimated cost of $425,000.

The 1965 total was pushed to a record by a whole series of major projects, including two new motels, one costing $100,000; and the other $350,000; a convalescent center costing $250,000; an apartment complex worth $275,000 and a $100,000 church remodeling.

The 1933 permits hit $922,889 and 1962 building authorizations reached $1,071, 932. The total for 1961 was $443,308.

A $130,000 permit issued a few days ago to the Ohio Power Co. helped swell the total for 1967. The company obtained the authorization to build a new substation at the corner of Franklin St. and St. Clair Ave., primarily to help serve the new school buildings on Maine Blvd.

But the 1967 total does not represent all the new construction work in the immediate East Liverpool area.

MILLIONS have been spent on new housing in the suburban areas immediately outside the corporate limits in a post-war migration to the adjoining townships that began more than 20 years ago.

Governmental projects also are not included, as building permits are not required. For example, work got underway late in the fall on a $252,000 Ohio Highway Department project for erection of a new auto-pedestrian ramp over the Freeway to link together the two deadend sections of W. 9th St.

Here's a monthly breakdown on the dollar value of 1967 permits, contrasting the totals with the same months in 1966:

January, $2,302,959 and $17,745; February, $72,500 and $32,500; March, $13,218 and $36,400; April, $6,197 and $59,927; May, $22,760 and $122,520; June, $18,980 and $34,700; July $46,378 and $76,861; August $25,030 and $23,770; September, $15,750 and $85,380; October, $15,980 and $456,606; November, $75,050 and $21,800, and December, $139,285 and $8,650.

In addition to the Ohio Power project, the December permits covered these projects:

I. L. Tackett, to repair a building at 860 Lisbon St., $500.

Guilford L. Hughes, to erect an addition to a home at 129 S. Surry Rd., $1,785.

William Mangano, to raze a commercial building at 728-730 Dresden Ave., $7,000.

B&O To Discountinue Two Runs In Ohio

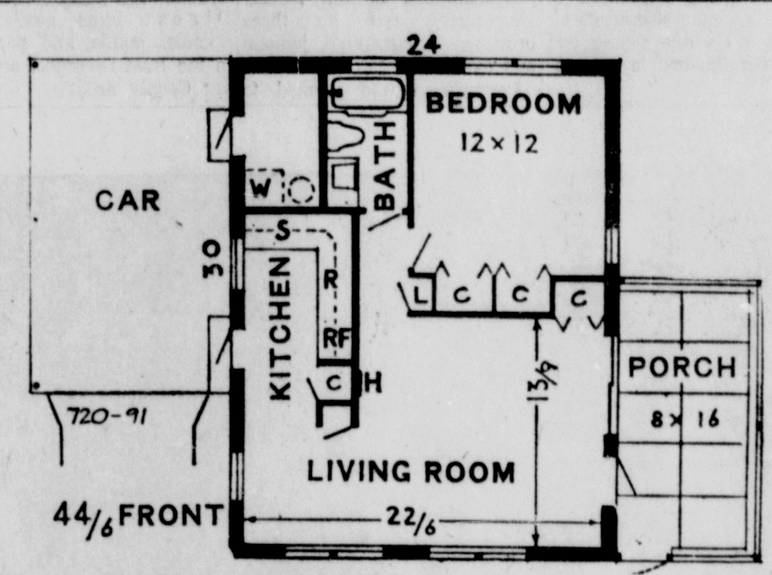

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, citing a $125,000 annual loss in Ohio on passenger trains 31 and 32—the National Limited—between Cincinnati and Parkersburg, W. Va., reported Saturday the runs will be discontinued Jan. 26.

The railroad also listed lack of passengers as the reason for discontinuing the train, citing figures from last September showing that only 18 passengers were carried on one National Limited run.

First Volunteers

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Cambridge residents, fired with the abolitionist sentiments of William Lloyd Garrison, formed the first volunteer company to serve with union forces. On the other hand, the Harvard community thought little of the war and the practice of hiring military replacements was common.

RETIREMENT HOME is compact, yet apparently spacious. There is ample storage space within as well as an exterior storage room to accommodate laundry fixtures, garden tools, etc. The 8 by 16-foot screened porch acts as an entrance to the house, as well as a visual extension of the living room. The corner, cross-ventilated bedroom has ample closets and handy access to the bath. Kitchen has easy access to the car. Carport could be turned into a garage. Plan HA 529 R was designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Louver Door Enjoying Upsurge In Popularity

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There has been an upsurge in popularity in the louver door in decorating and remodeling.

This is due in no small part to the availability of factory-made louver doors in a wide variety of sizes and styles. You can get them in most lumber yards and even a few department stores. Mail order houses stock them.

They are not terribly expensive. There are sizes that will take care of almost any situation. And they are easy to install.

You can use them on closets and wardrobes, as doors for cupboards and cabinets, to make a storage wall, a room divider or a screen (hinge three or more together). On closets, the slanted slats allow air to circulate while keeping out dust.

YOU CAN hang them on hinges as you would a conventional door or slide them on a track. There are duofold types available which make a folded door that does not project as far into a room.

You can get a short cafe - type door if you like. Hang them on special hinges that swing both ways and use them for kitchen, pantry or your own private bar room.

Use louver doors to close off the space under the sink or for a bathroom vanity.

If furnace and water heater are located on the first floor use louver doors to enclose them attractively.

Outdoors you can take louver doors and hang them on each side of a window as decorative shutters. Get the proper hardware and it is no trick to turn them into real shutters that can be closed.

Shutters inside have become an interesting decorative trick too. They make good window blinds. Get them in sections rather than full length and you can open the top for air and light while leaving the lower half closed for privacy.

Outdoors again you can make a narrow entrance door look wider by adding two full-length louver panels, one on each side and painted to match the door.

YOU MAY not find the louver door you want in exactly the size you want it, but you can get them close enough and cutting down is easy.

Generally they are stocked in sizes that will vary four inches in height, two inches in width. You can easily cut an inch or more off the end rails for fitting.

A one - slat panel means the entire door consists of slats in a standard frame. Two panel doors have a cross rail across the middle. There also are some with slats in one half, solid panel in the other.

When mounting, trim top and bottom to fit. If you are mortising the hinge, trace the hinge on the edge of the panel and then chisel carefully to the right depth. Mount one leaf of the hinge, then prop the door against the frame to find the position of the other leaf.

If you use pulls or other hardware, center them with the center rail.

If you make screens out of louver panels use hinges at three points, not two.

Finish as you would any door —weather - resistant paints or varnishes outdoors; paint, varnish, shellac, or wax indoors.

Right Technique Does The Job In 'Setting' Screw

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The person who has tried to drive a screw into oak, maple or other hardwood is well aware of the difficulty encountered. At the same time, there are places where nothing but a screw is satisfactory, and most people know that a screw is about five or six times as strong as any nail.

You can fasten two pieces of wood together with a solid nail, and then using the claw of the hammer you can pry them apart without too much effort. If the pieces are fastened together with a screw, you will tear and rip the wood, but the screw will still hold.

Professional carpenters avoid any difficulty in using screws by the use of a simple formula. It takes a few seconds longer, but the screw will sink into any wood without effort if this formula is followed:

Establishing the point at which the screw is to be sunk, a drill or nail is used to make an entrance if a drill is used, it should be about half of the diameter of the shank of the screw. When a nail is used, it should be driven in half an inch, twisted around, driven another fraction of an inch and withdrawn.

The threads of the screw are drawn over a piece of soap or smeared with petroleum jelly and then set in the hole and turned up. This procedure not only makes the work easy, but also prevents splitting the wood.

Another point to be remembered in setting a screw is that it is impossible to exert the required amount of strength unless you are in a position where the weight of your body and the thrust of your arms is right against the screw.

If the job is attempted incorrectly, the effort is exhausting, and in all probability the setting will be inaccurate.

According to the Bible, Noah's ark was 450 feet long, 75 feet wide and had a depth of 43 feet.

Waste Piles Up And Up For Do-It-Yourselfers

By ANDY LANG

The amount of materials wasted during 1967 by do-it-yourselfers can never be accurately determined. But it's a safe bet that it runs into the many millions of dollars.

If you're a home handyman, you have only to look around your own workshop to know that this must be true.

A typical workshop includes several cans of paint which are partly filed and which may never be used again. The chances are that the partial contents of each can have hardened and are unusable.

It also is probable that the same thing has happened to two, three or more paint brushes which were used only a couple of times and not cleaned properly.

—:—

A PAINT manufacturer, in a confidential mood at the time, once told us that he believed only about two-thirds of all paint sold to home owners was ever used.

Asked why, he said that, first of all, most persons bought more paint than was needed, especially for small jobs, and then never had occasion to use paint of that kind and color again.

Secondly, he explained, most people simply did not take the time and trouble necessary to make the paint can airtight after finishing a project.

Slapping the cover on again in a haphazard fashion allowed air to get inside and eventually ruined the contents.

The proper procedure, he said, was to be sure the top of the can and the cover were wiped clean of all drippings, after which the cover had to be forced down very tightly — hammered into place, if necessary, after placing a cloth around the top to prevent splattering.

As for buying only what you need, this is especially important in the case of shellac. The popular clear material deteriorates with age. Buy only what you are going to use in a few months.

SHELLAC which is too old will produce an unsatisfactory finish.

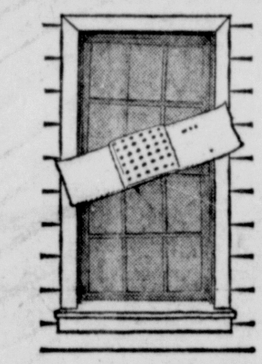

There is much waste with many other materials which change their character when exposed to the air. Things like plastic wood and certain adhesives are affected even when the cover or cap of the container is left off while the project is in progress.

The best guide in knowing how to handle a product is to read the label instructions carefully. While most persons do this the first time they use the material, they neglect it thereafter. Since weeks and months may ensue before the next use, the precautions on the label are completely forgotten during that period.

A tree forms concentric lines for each year of its growth and the salmon adds a layer to its earbone every year in the same manner, so a salmon's age can be determined by the number of its "earrings."

Sports Whirled

A happy new year to everyone, especially area sports fans!

Devotees of the East Liverpool Potters could hardly hope for a better year than 1967, as their stalwarts reached the district finals in basketball and ranked 12th or 9th in the state after compiling an 8-1 record on the gridiron. Of course there are a few hopeful cage fans who are saying "We'll win the state in '68," but that's a long road to travel.

Other area fans had less to cheer about. Midland ran up a fine record for the 1966-67 basketball season before losing to Fox Chapel in the WPIAL playoffs but Leopard fans have had too little to cheer about lately. Oak Glen's quintet compiled a fine winning streak early in 1967 and Beaver Local was off to a good start on the hardwood as 1967 drew to a close. Wellsville backers will savor the memory of the Tigers' 49-48 upset of Midland in the season's opener in November.

THE PAST YEAR was a disappointing one for followers of the Pittsburgh and Cleveland professional teams. Number one flop has to be the Pirates, who were picked for the pennant but stumbled home sixth. The Indians pulled their usual "June Swoon" and ended the season by firing freshman manager Joe Adcock.

Steeler followers got their hopes up before the season started, with 50 per cent of them picking the Rooneymen to win a title. But after an impressive opening win over the Bears it was "same old Steelers" the rest of the year. The Browns got off to a bad start, recovered to win the Century Division title, but left a taste of ashes in the mouths of their supporters by getting routed 52-14 by Dallas in the NFL Eastern Division title game.

Pro soccer was more successful in Cleveland than in Pittsburgh. The Phantoms, plagued by dissension and lack of fan support, will probably give up the ghost in 1968. Cleveland's Stokers were not televised and thus not well-known outside the immediate area.

Hockey was one sport where Pittsburgh fans could cheer. The Hornets won the American Hockey League title under Baz Bastien and then gave way to the National Hockey League Penguins, who are at least holding their own. Pro basketball also came to Pittsburgh, in the form of the ABA Pipers, who rolled up a long winning streak as 1967 came to a close.

ON THE college level, it was another bad year for Pitt fans, both in basketball and football. The Panthers' recent upset of Temple is a ray of hope. Duquesne roundball followers would rather forget the 1966-67 campaign, the worst in the history of the school, but the present season has started promisingly. Ohio State had a disappointing year in football despite a fast finish, and the Buckeyes' hoop five is hardly on a par with those of the Lucas era. Ohio U. fans celebrated sharing the MAC grid title with Toledo, even though the Bobcats were helped out when Kent State had to forfeit a game. Toledo had a banner year, also winning the MAC basketball crown. Marshall, a flop on the gridiron, was good enough in basketball to go to the NIT. West Virginia won the Southern Conference cage title but lost to Princeton in the NCAA tournament. The Mountaineers got off to a fast start on the football field but finished slowly.

Small college fans were proudest of Fairmont State, which won the NAIA title in football. Waynesburg had a powerful team, losing only to the Falcons.

So, whom ever you root for, we hope your team does better in 1968.

Cowboys Nipped In 13-Below Cold

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, flattened eight times by Dallas' "Doomsday Defense," sneaked home from the one with 13 seconds to go Sunday and gave Green Bay an unprecedented third straight National Football League playoff title with a 21-17 victory over the Cowboys.

Starr's two touchdown passes to Boyd Dowler had built up an early 14-0 lead for the favored Packers in the frigid cold of 13 below zero weather. But Dallas struck back by turning two fumbles into a touchdown and a field goal and then took the lead in the final period on a 50-yard option pass from halfback Danny Reeves to Lance Rentzel.

In the dramatic final seconds, the Packers pulled it out for Coach Vince Lombardi, and moved into the Jan. 14 Super Bowl game at Miami against the American Football League champion.

Trailing 17-14 with 4:54 to go, Starr took the Packers 68 yards in 12 plays, and at last crashed over for the winner after two smashes by Donny Anderson failed to move the ball. It was third and one when Starr took matters into his own hands.

Spurning a field goal attempt that might have sent the game into sudden death overtime, Starr and Lombardi elected to go for the win.

"It was a question of the team knowing what they had to do with time running out," Lombardi said. "They arrived."

Hundreds of the sellout crowd of 50,861 surged onto the playing surface after Starr smashed home for the big touchdown that could be worth $27,500 for each Packer.

When the game ended two plays later, the half-frozen spectators in the gaily colored ski gear, red hunting coats and blue and yellow parkas attacked the metal goal posts and finally twisted them to the ground.

It was the second heart-breaking defeat for Coach Tom Landry and his Cowboys in two NFL title games for they had lost last New Year's Day in the Cotton Bowl 34-27 when a desperate last-down pass by Don Meredith was intercepted by Tom Brown.

Time after time, the aroused Dallas defenders smeared Starr, tossing him eight times for losses of 76 yards as he attempted to de-ice his throwing arm and get off a pass.

It seemed that the Cowboys, who appeared on the way out of the game when the Packers ran up an early 14-0 lead, had gained the momentum to take the first title to Dallas.

A fumble by Starr after he was hit by Willie Townes was scooped up by defensive end George Andrie, who rumbled the final seven yards for a Dallas touchdown late in the second period.

Just before halftime, another Packer misplay gave the Cowboys a chance to close the gap. This time, it was safety Willie Wood fumbling the ball while attempting a fair catch. Rookie defensive back Phil Clark recovered for Dallas on the Packers' 17.

On fourth and six, Danny Villanueva connected with a 21-yard field goal.

Instead of a romp, Green Bay suddenly found itself in a dog fight, betrayed by the bitter Packer weather on the coldest Dec. 31 in the history of the local Weather Bureau.

Held to 42 yards in the first half, Dallas began to move the ball in the third period. A beautifully executed 50-yard option pass from Reeves to Rentzel on the first play of the final quarter put Dallas in front for the first time.

The icy blast of a 15 mile an hour wind from the northwest, and the subzero temperature, hampered both clubs in a game marred by several fumbles. However, the footing on the electrically heated turf apparently was good enough.

Don Chandler was waiting for the call to try for a tying field goal in the final seconds but it never came.

Chandler had missed a 40-yard field goal attempt earlier in the final quarter.

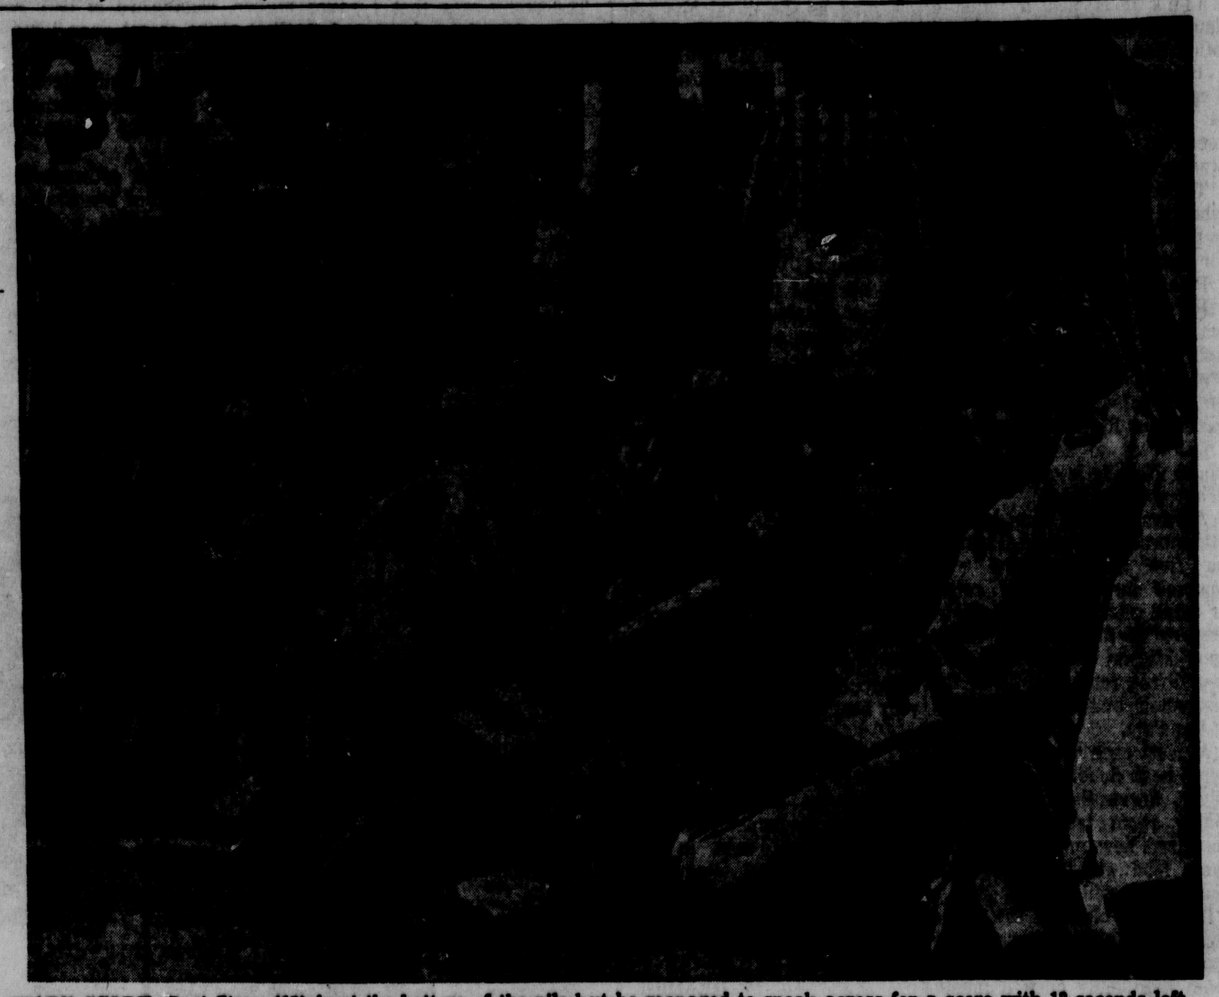

Although Green Bay won three consecutive NFL titles in 1929-30-31 before the league was divided into conferences for playoffs, no other club has ever won three straight playoffs.

This should be worth about $7,800 from this game and a possible $15,000 winning share from the Super Bowl for each Packer. The players also got an extra day's pay last week for the division playoff with Los Angeles, and could get another payday in next year's College All-Star game if they win in Miami.

The winning surge covered 68 yards, with Starr hitting Dowler for 13, Anderson for 12 and nine and Chuck Mercein for 19 to bring it down close.

Mercein, the castoff of the New York Giants who was picked up by the Packers in an emergency because of backfield injuries, earned his pay by rolling for 19 yards on a Starr pass and slamming up the middle for eight yards to the Cowboy three.

'Out Of Ideas,' Starr Says Of Sneak

By KEN HARTNETT

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, almost out of time, were almost out of ideas Sunday when Bart Starr snaked for the touchdown that gave the Packers a 21-17 victory over Dallas in the National Football League title game.

"We had run out of ideas," explained Starr, who followed Jerry Kramer's block on Jethro Pugh into the end zone with only 13 seconds showing on the scoreboard clock.

"The footing was real poor, and we were stumped for something to do. Kramer made a great block," he said.

Coach Vince Lombardi said the Packers would have sent their field goal unit into the game on the next play, if there was still time.

"It was a little bit of a gamble we took," he said. "We might not have gotten the kicking team in there."

Besides, he said, "I didn't figure all those people could stay on in the stands."

The game was played under arctic conditions with the temperature 13 degrees below zero.

"You can't say I'm always without compassion," Lombardi said.

"It was a very satisfying year, a very frustrating year and a very thrilling one," said Lombardi, who coached Green Bay to its third straight NFL title—a feat unprecedented since the playoff system began in 1933.

"I'm drained," gulped tackle Ron Kostelnik. "I'm supposed to be celebrating, but I'm drained."

Kramer said the field near the goal line was frozen solid like cement as the Packers moved in toward the winning score.

"I dug my right foot in. I was going to give it my best shot," he said.

Starr got about two feet into the end zone on the play.

Donny Anderson and Chuck Mercein were almost speechless.

Both played major roles in the winning drive. "It's like a dream," said Anderson. "Just beautiful."

Mercein, a former New York Giant who made the jump from the Westchester Bulls to the Packers in one head-spinning season, said, "I can't believe it. My, what a great team."

Beaver Local Wrestlers Win Louisville Event

The Beaver Local wrestling team won the Louisville Tournament Saturday, winning four individual chimpionships.

Jack Havice at 112, Jim Bowersock at 127, John Pugh at 133 and Bill Cole at 175 were the individual winners for Paul Jackson's team. Placing second were Paul Brown at 138 and Sam Hall at 165. Bill Lucas at 145 won his first match but lost in the second round. The other Beaver entrants lost to the eventual champions.

Beaver Local scored 68 points, Jackson-Milton 49, Louisville 45, Perry 42, Canton Lincoln 33, Minerva 33, Marlington 26, Canton Timken 24 and Glenwood 21. The team won a trophy, which will be presented to the school at an assembly this week, and the individual winners also got trophies.

Potter Wrestlers Drop Opening Match

The East Liverpool wrestling team lost its opening match of the season Saturday, falling 46-3 at Dover.

Mike Jackson was the lone winner for Joe Mowad's matmen, winning a 3-0 decision in the 120-pound class. Dover is now 4-0.

United Golden Eagles Soar Past Minerva

HANOVERTON — United evened its record at 3-3 with a 68-56 win over Minerva here Saturday night.

Tad Drake hit 18, Jack Mills 16 and Tom Wood 15 to lead the Golden Eagles of Jack Mills Sr. Dan Dagger scored 21 for the losers, now 0-6, and Jim Knudson added 12 and Al Madison 10.

The winners controlled the boards 57-36. Mills had 16 rebounds and Knudson led Minerva with 14. The Golden Eagles were also hot from the floor, with 41 per cent to 34 per cent by the losers, but actually won the game from the foul line, converting 18 of 34 while Minerva got only six attempts, making four.

In the reserve game Minerva swept to a 80-34 win, with Crawford getting 19 and Dennis 18. Dana Holmes and Jim Erb had 8 each to lead the losers.

Two hard - running halfbacks, Ron (Po) James of New Brighton and Herb Ellis of Beaver, were Beaver County's contribution to the Pennsylvania "Big 33" football squad announced yesterday.

James set a county scoring record as he led New Brighton to an unbeaten (but twice tied) season.

Other Midwestern Athletic Conference schools represented on the elite list were Ellwood City, with end Tom Mondell; New Castle, with halfback Lou Santangelo; and Butler, with center DuWayne Cunningham.

Penn St, Tied In Gator; Four Bowl Games Today

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The South will try to rise again today as the 1967 college bowl season hits its peak with Tennessee, Alabama and Louisiana State trying to do a little better than its neighbors did two days ago.

Tennessee takes on Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl in the only night game while the day schedule has Alabama meeting Texas A&M in the Cotton Bowl, Louisiana State battling Wyoming in the Sugar Bowl and Southern California and Indiana going at it in the Rose Bowl.

The teams from the South didn't fare too well in Saturday's games. Penn State tied Florida State 17-17 in the Gator Bowl, Texas at El Paso downed Mississippi 14-7 in the Sun Bowl and the Blue stopped the Gray 22-16. The East edged the West 16-14 in the other all-star contest.

The three Southern teams playing Monday are all favorites, but the flu bug may have something to say about at least two of the games,

Richmond Flowers, Tennessee's ace pass receiver, apparently will play against Oklahoma but might be in a weakened condition because of a respiratory infection that struck him late last week. Flowers also is not completely recovered from a bruised knee.

The Cotton Bowl teams both are trying to withstand a siege of illness.

Alabama had 12 of its players in bed with the flu, and then seven Texas A&M players complained of runny noses and sore throats.

As the game grew nearer, however, the sick beds began emptying. Even Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama appeared to be recovered from his virus problems.

Alabama, 8-1-1, and Tennessee, 9-1, remained one-touchdown favorites with LSU, 6-3-1, while Southern Cal, 9-1, was rated a pair of touchdowns better than Indiana, also 9-1.

In taking on Wyoming, LSU will be trying to wipe out the only unbeaten record among the bowl teams. The Cowboys won all 10 of their regular-season games and will have to stop quarterback Nelson Stokley if they hope to make it 11-0.

O. J. Simpson is the man Indiana must contend with in the Rose Bowl. But one of the men who help open the holes for Simpson will miss the game. Guard Mike Scarpace was operated on last Friday for a torn ligament in his right knee.

All of the games will be televised—the Cotton by CBS at 1:45 p.m. EST and the rest by NBC, the Sugar at 1:45 p.m. EST, the Rose at 4:45 p.m. EST and the Orange at 7:45 p.m. EST.

In Saturday's Gator Bowl, Florida State rallied from a 17-0 deficit and finally tied Penn State on Grant Guthrie's 25-yard field goal with 15 seconds left. Florida's Kim Hammond connected on 37 of 53 passes for 362 yards.

Texas-El Paso downed Mississippi on two fourth-quarter touchdowns in the Sun Bowl. Billy Stevens passed five yards to David Karns for the tying touchdown, and Larry McHenry bucked across from four yards out for the winner.

All-American Dick Anderson of Colorado sparkled for the Blue against the Gray.

U.S. Athletes Cited

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Jim Ryun, the world record middle distance runner from Kansas, and Mark Spitz, 17-year-old world record swimmer from Santa Clara, Calif., were the 1-2 selections as Athlete of the year in a worldwide poll taken by Aftonbladet, the Stockholm newspaper, announced Sunday.

Bob Veale, the Pirates leading pitcher last season with 16 wins, had his best success with the Dodgers. He was 4-0 with the Los Angeles team in '67 and was 3-0 against the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals. The only team Bob didn't have a victory over was San Francisco.

LBJ's Seen Campaiging 'If He Runs'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's press secretary predicted Sunday it will be campaigning as usual if President Johnson runs next year—regardless of any concern about security, protestors and dissenters.

George Christian was not announcing that the President is going to try for another term. But he indicated that in the event he does, some of the travel plans might not be announced in advance.

"We travel both ways," Christian said. "Sometimes we announce plans in advance; sometimes we don't. I would expect this would continue."

Christian was talking with CBS reporters on the "Face The Nation" television show.

Relations between Johnson and the press and Christian and the press dominated the half-hour.

For one thing, Christian was asked whose fault it is that there is a so-called "credibility gap" between the press and the President.

Christian said the gap puzzles him, but that all presidents have had problems "in the sense that in this society it is quite the thing to do for your opponents to attempt to discredit the word of the President."

"It is, in a political sense," he said, "a smart thing to do, to discredit your President."

Christian said he thought there was a responsibility on the part of people in government and people in the press to try to be accurate.

The press secretary said he never had heard the President criticize honest dissent and he didn't believe the President ever said dissent is unpatriotic

This was to a reporter who said many of his colleagues seem to feel that Johnson "equates dissent with lack of patriotism, or with such complete wrong-headedness as to be intolerable, or with lack of knowledge."

Christian said that he, himself, never knowingly misled a reporter.

On the war, the press secretary was asked whether the United States is going into Cambodia and Laos where, his questioner said, both guerilla and main-force activity on the part of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong originates.

Christian said he thinks "we are going to do everything we can to resolve these problems" and, "It is wrong speculation that the United States is going to take some moves to widen a war when it has limited objectives."

On war coverage in general, the press secretary said he was sure it was necessary for news media to seek out the excitement of the war and point up deficiencies of some of those conducting it.

But he said he thought it important that the entire war be covered. He said he did not think that what is happening in Vietnam villages and in training of civilians and reconstruction and development teams to get into hamlets to build schools and the country, is being developed as fully as it could be.

He characterized coverage of contributions made by the South Vietnamese and allied troops as inadequate.

In the political realm again, Christian was asked whether Johnson's character is such that he would not make a fight for another term, "faced with the low estimate, apparently, the public has of him according to the opinion polls."

Christian called the "low estimate" renark a "little hooker," and then went on to say that the President is a fighter and has been all his life.

Thief Enters Market At Lisbon By Window

LISBON — Someone with a long reach, or a buddy's boost, broke into Wolfe's Market on N. Market St. Friday night and left by the front door.

Police Capt. John Varner said entry was made through a window 10 feet from the ground on the north side of the store. "The thief stood on a bench, but it would still be hard for one person," he said.

Edgar Wolfe, owner, told police he was unable to tell without an inventory what had been taken.

Bankruptcies Up

LONDON (AP) — Bankruptcies both of individuals and companies were up this year. A court report says 1,006 London companies and 975 persons were declared unable to meet their debts. Small builders, movers, garment makers and electrical tradesmen were the hardest hit.

Generations of British soldiers and sailors served at Aden. They wrote a pipe march about it, "The Barren Rocks of Arden."

Crash Hurts City Girl, 17

A city girl was in "fair" condition at City Hospital Sunday night with injuries suffered when the car in which she was a passenger struck an embankment along Route 7 yesterday afternoon.

Sheila Colvin, 17, of 1048 Waterloo St. suffered a back injury and bruises of the leg in the mishap at 1:45, about two miles north of Route 30.

She was in a car driven by Terry K. Hoffman, 17, of 519 E. 4th St. which veered off the highway at a curve and struck an embankment.

Hoffman was treated at the hospital for bruises of the right leg and left knee. There was considerable damage to the front and sides of his 1965 convertible, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Officers investigated a collision between two cars on Route 170, about six miles north of Route 30 Saturday.

A 1964 auto operated by Mary Lou Kontnier, 23, of Negley and a 1964 sedan driven by Howard Green, 62, of East Liverpool RD 3 were headed south when the mishap occurred, according to the patrol which did not have complete details.

Israel Swim Meet

Crucible Again Offers Films To District Schools

The Screen News Digest, a monthly film series made available to area schools by the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co., will release its first full color film Jan. 15.

Entitled "We, The People," it will illustrate the functions and responsibilities of the federal government and its three branches — legislative, judicial and executive.

Persmission was granted to photograph a presidential cabinet meeting, a session of Congress and the chambers of the Supreme Court. Detailed animation is utilized to show the unique system of checks and balances of the federal government.

"We, The People" is narrated by Alexander Scourby, noted for his work on the "Victory at Sea" and "Project Twenty" television series.

This is the eighth year that Crucible has made Screen News Digest films available to schools, public and parochial, in the East Liverpool and Beaver County areas.

Sheriff Reports Newell Accident

Three cars were damaged in a collision at Washington and 5th Sts. in Newell, the Hancock County Sheriff's Department reported.

A 1961 auto operated by Reva J. Earlywine, 19, of Marietta came from 5th St. onto Washington and was struck by a north bound 1966 auto operated by James Alifimoff, 46, of Cheswick, Pa. His car then bounced into an auto driven by James Carl Durham, 43, of 624 Grant St., Newell, who was halted to make a turn.

The girl said a parked truck obstructed her view of Washington St.

Dope Smoking Up

Happy New Year, Everybody!

Well, we've done it again.
Managed to keep the cost of your telephone down. For another year. And that makes 9 years running we've done it. Because local telephone service still costs the same today as it did in 1959. With most everything else going up, your telephone becomes a better bargain every year. Just standing still.
Long distance rates are even going down. Last November they were reduced for the seventh time since 1959. Why not call now? Rates have never been lower on New Year's Day. Whoopie! Ohio Bell

UCLA Rolls Over Wyoming; Temple Tops St. Francis

By RON RAPPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

All the time the Wyoming players were looking in astonishment at the scoreboard, they should have been keeping an eye on the ceiling. The roof was about to fall in.

For 15 wonderful minutes Saturday night, the Cowboys played top-ranked UCLA to a near-standoff. With only five minutes left in the first half, the Bruins only led by seven points.

But 17 terrorized minutes of play later, the Cowboys were counting their dead and nursing their wounded. They had been outscored 52-17 and UCLA was well on the way to a 104-71 victory and their sixth straight Los Angeles Classic title.

By the time Wyoming's chief tormentors — Lynn Shackleford, Lew Alcindor and Mike Warren —had left the game there was 8:11 left in the game but already the Cowboys were UCLA's 42nd straight victim.

Shackleford was high for the Bruins with 24 points while Alcindor, most valuable player in the tournament for the second straight year, had 20 and Warren 16.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina won the Far West Tournament in Portland, Ore., beating Oregon State 68-61 with Larry Miller scoring 33 points. Miller, the tourney's MVP, scored 19 of his points on free throws as five players fouled out in the bruising contest.

Vanderbilt, No. 9, beat eighth-rated Davidson 80-67 to win the Sugar Bowl Tournament in New Orleans, La. It was the Commodores' second victory over the Wildcats this season. Tom Hagan had 26 points and Bo Wyenandt had 23 for Vanderbilt.

Second-ranked Houston, 13-0, was held to its lowest score of the season and had to come from behind to nip North Texas State 45-43 Saturday in the final of the fourth annual Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. Elvin Hayes, Houston's 6-foot-8 All-American was held to 12 points but was named the outstanding player of the tournament.

Columbia completed its surprising week in the New York Holiday Festival by taking the title with a 60-55 victory over St. John's, N.Y. Sophomore Jim McMillian, the tournament's MVP, scored 20 of his 25 points in the second half.

Boston College, 10th ranked when the week began, dropped the consolation game to Louisville 81-74.

Detroit captured its Motor City Tournament, beating Niagara 102-97 and holding Calvin Murphy to a mere 29 points, his lowest output of the seasn. Larry Salci led the Titans with 27 points.

Temple, led by Clarence Brookins' 28 points, won the Quaker City Tournament in Philadelphia, beating St. Francis, Pa., 83-77. Nebraska won its first Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, downing Kansas State 66-62 behind Tom Baack's 28-point output.

Rich Travis, third-leading scorer in the country, poured in 45 points to lead Oklahoma City, 8-0, to the All-College Tournament title in Oklahoma City, Okla., with a 91-88 victory over Brigham Young.

And in a doubleheader at Chicago, Illinois beat Texas-El Paso 68-50 and Loyola of Chicago downed Georgia Tech 96-71.

Raiders Whip Oilers 40-7

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — M-Oakland's power-laden Raiders romped to their first American Football League championship Sunday with a display of near-perfect football, demolishing the Houston Oilers 40-7.

Hewritt Dixon softened the Oilers up with a 69-yard touchdown sprint on the first play of the second period and after that, it was all Oakland.

The Raiders, who will play National League champion Green Bay in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 14, ran up a 30-0 lead before the Oilers scored in the fourth period.

Dixon and Pete Banaszak shredded the Houston defenses along the ground while quarterback Daryle Lamonica plunged for one TD and passed for two others as the Raiders rode roughshod over the Eastern champion Oilers.

George Blanda had kicked the first of his record four field goals for the only points of the first period.

Then, on the first play of the second quarter, Dixon took off around left end. Rookie guard Gene Upshaw pulled in front of him and threw a devastating block on defensive back W.K. Hicks that gave Dixon a clear path.

The 69-yard run set a championship game record for the longest TD run from scrimmage. And it set the tone for the game. After that, the Raiders had things pretty much their own way.

Houston's Hoyle Granger, the AFL's second-leading rusher with 1,194 yards during the regular season, never got loose against the Raider front four and several times the record crowd of 53,330 gave the Oakland defense a standing ovation as it came off the field.

The score was still 10-0 although Oakland was clearly dominating play.

Lamonica pulled a fake field goal attempt and turned it into a 17-yard scoring pass to Dave Kocorek in the final minute of the first half.

That sent the Raiders into the dressing room with a 17-0 lead.

The momentum held as Oakland kicked off in the second half. Zeke Moore, trying to break loose on the return, ran laterally, almost from sideline to sideline before being tackled and fumbling. Oakland's Ken Herrock recovered the ball and the Raiders were in business again at the Houston 30.

Banaszak and Dixon took turns running at the Oilers and drove Oakland down to the Houston one. Lamonica took it in from there.

Now Blanda, the 39-year-old veteran who was cut loose by the Oilers before the season started, took over. He kicked field goals of 40, 42 and 36 yards to go with his earlier 34-yarder. His 16 points set a championship game record as did the four field goals.

The Oilers finally scored in the fourth period when Charley Frazier grabbed a five-yard pass in the end zone from Pete Beathard. But it took a 34-yard pass interference call against Oakland's Dave Grayson to set up the score.

Lamonica got those points back on a 12-yard scoring pass to Bill Miller as the Raiders completed the romp.

The game was played in clear, crisp weather with a temperature of 47 degrees in contrast to the subzero temperatures at Green Bay, where the Packers defeated the Dallas Cowboys 21-17. The AFL game was nationally televised by NBC-TV.

Alexei Seeks Joint Vatican Peace Efforts

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian Orthodox Patriarch Alexei has cabled Pope Paul VI proposing joint effors for peace in Vietnam, Tass said Sunday.

Peace proposals by the head of the Russian Orthodox Church echoed Soviet government demands for a cessation of all military activities by U.S. and allied troops and "unconditional withdrawal of all foreign troops."

In excerpts of the telegram, printed by Tass, the Soviet News Agency, Alexei did not mention whether Vietnamese Communists also would have to stop all military activities as a way of ending the war.

The agency said Alexei made the proposal for joint efforts Saturday in reply to a message from the Pope urging that Jan. 1 be dedicated to world peace.

"We see a possibility of jointly promoting international peace also by our holy churches, the Roman Catholic and the Russian Orthodox," Alexei told the Pope.

He did not specify what joint steps the two Christian faiths could take to promote peace.

Vatican sources said Sunday night the lengthy text of the cable was translated from Russian into Italian and given to Pope Paul.

The sources said the patriarch's text will be disclosed by publication Tuesday in the Vatican daily, L'Osservatore Romano, as happened to other messages received by the Pope in reply to his worldwide proposal for celebrating a world peace day Jan. 1.

Matched Record High

'67 Highway Toll Hit 39 Over Columbiana County

Highway deaths in Columbiana County during 1967 totaled 39—matching the record high of 39 in 1965 — while Beaver County's toll was 45, well below the record of 62 set a year ago.

In Columbiana the number of deaths was not only over the 36 of 1966, but above the previous highs of 35 which occurred in 1952 and 1949.

East Liverpool had two fatalities — one on the River Rd. and one on W. 5th St. — compared to three the previous year. Wellsville, which counted two in 1966, had none in 1967.

Route 30 posted the heaviest loss of life on county highways with 11, while Route 7, another heavily traveled road had only one fatality.

Four men lost their lives in a collision at West Point last year; four men died in a mishap at Rock Camp the previous year on Route 30.

Seventeen drivers, 13 passengers, six pedestrians and three on motorcycles were claimed in 1967, compared to 23 drivers, nine passengers and four pedestrians in 1966.

In contrast to the normal pattern of the majority of deaths in the central and northern part of the county, the areas of fatal accidents were centered in the northwestern section (8), the southeastern (13) and the northeastern (8) with the remainder scattered in the central and north.

A breakdown of the deaths by months, with last year's in parenthesis shows January 3 (1), February 1 (1), March 1 (3), April 2 (3), May 4 (3), June 2 (2), July 6 (1), August 4 (5), September 2 (5), October 3 (8), November 6 (1) and December 2 (2).

The Patrol at Lisbon investigated a total of 1,439 accidents last year, an increase of 28 over the 1,411 of 1966.

GOP Presses For Rhodes' 3rd Term Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republicans reportedly are making quiet efforts to lift the law preventing Gov. James A. Rhodes from seeking a third term in office.

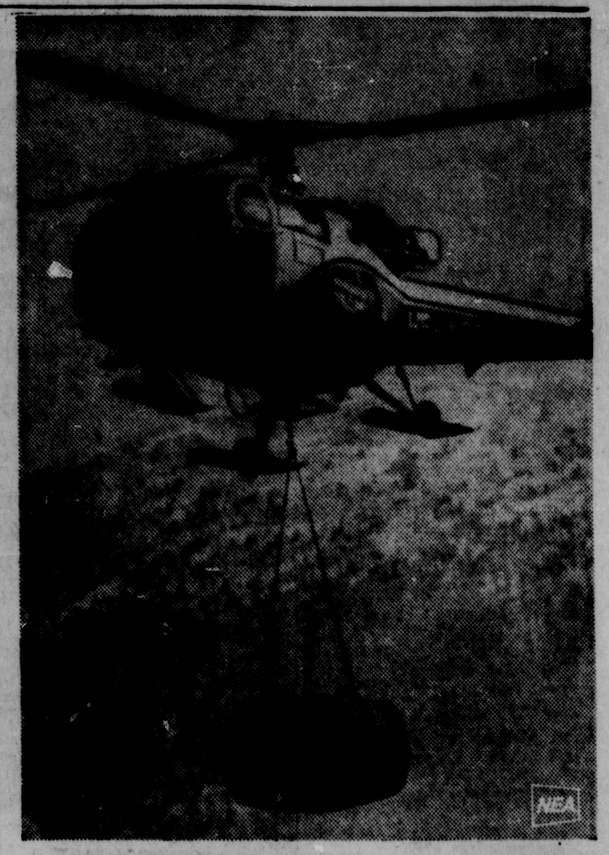

Backers of the plan told the Associated Press they expect a well-known Ohioan not now active in politics to lead a drive for voter approval of a constitutional amendment to repeal the two-term limit adopted at the polls in 1954.

Advocates of the plan, who requested anonymity, said the plan had not been discussed with Rhodes, but that he was expected to give at least tacit approval. Rhodes himself had no comment on the report.

The two-term limit was pushed through the 1953 General Assembly by Republicans who controlled both House and Senate. It was directed at Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who was then in his fifth two-year term.

Republicans now dominate both house of the General Assembly again, and backers of the limit repeal say the legislature could adopt a resolution putting the measure on the ballot next Nov. 5.

Mao's Efforts To Slash Economic Incentives Hit

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's campaign to cut out all economic incentives, including pay raises, has run into resistance from workers and peasants in Red China, a report from Peking indicated Sunday.

The Nihon Keizai - Economic -Shimbun said in a Peking dispatch that the Maoist leadership believes workers have not yet accepted its months - old call to "fight self-interest."

It quoted two newspapers, the Peking Daily and Shanghai's Wen Hui Pao, as complaining that Mao's foes are inciting workers anew to seek subsidies, year-end bonuses and other incentives.

The two Maoist newspapers said some workers even resort to "armed clashes," strikes and sabotage in demanding pay raises.

The Maoist hierarchy believes, Nihon Keizai said, that enemies of Mao are capitalizing on this situation.

Mao and his followers insist the best way to increase production and to build a Communist economy is to "fight self-interest" and sharply denounce the Russians who have concluded that incentives stimulate production.

As the dust of China's cultural revolution has somewhat settled down, the Maoist leadership has challenged the Russians and begun to put its no-incentives economic policy into practice.

Recent Japanese visitors to mainland China report that all material and monetary incentives have been abolished at industrial plants they visited.

Mao's propaganda machine has begun a campaign to attack the incentive - motivated economic program among peasants. Under fire are private plots, free markets and decentralization in production planning and quotas.

These are already common in the Russian agricultural region. In China, President Liu Shao-chi, arch enemy of Mao in the current purge movement, encouraged such incentives to help patch up the fiasco of the 1958 Big Leap Forward.

China watchers here said that while the Nihon Keizai's dispatch indicated Mao's economic policy is meeting resistance at the grassroots, the opposition does not seem serious enough to disrupt the cultural revolution at least at present.

A joint editorial in three official organs, People's Daily, Red Flag and the Liberation Army Daily, asserted that a decisive victory had been scored over the Liu faction in 1967.

But it called for a step-up in the purge in 1968 to achieve an "all-round victory" in 1968.

The editorial broadcast by Peking Radio boasted that Mao's purge of his enemies "has given an impetus to the work in all fields" and the situation throughout China is favorable for his leadership.

"Our successful guided missile and hydrogen bomb tests shook the world," the editorial said. "The whole country is full of enthusiasm and everywhere there is a vigorous revolutionary atmosphere."

Hsieh Fu-chih, the security minister, told a meeting of the Peking Revolutionary Committee that grain production in 1967 exceeded that of 1966 by between 9.9 million and 11.5 million tons. No total figures were given.

Hsieh said grain production was greater than in 1957, which Peking set at 185 million tons. Western sources put 1957 production at 170 million tons. The best production year is believed to be 1963, when Red China reported harvesting 204 million tons of grain.

News Blackout In New York Aims To Nip Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP)— A news blackout was clamped Sunday on last-minute negotiations aimed at averting a second city-wide transit strike, set for today.

The talks were taking place on the fourth floor of a mid-town hotel as a light snow covered the city, readying itself for New Year's revels.

"They've agreed not to make any public statements during the course of today when the discussions are at their most intense point, and I'm going to respect that request," said Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The last word Saturday night from Matthew Guinan, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, was that a strike appeared "inevitable."

The city had elaborate plans ready in case of a repetition of the great transit strike of 1966.

That one hit at 5 a.m. Jan. 1 —five hours after Lindsay took office. It paralyzed the city for 12 days, shutting down 800 miles of interconnected bus and subway routes which carried 7.4 million persons on an average weekday.

People resorted to walking, skating, bicycling and driving, boosting the traffic jam in Manhattan from 600,000 to 850,000 and more cars a day. Shops were empty and hotels were full.

In the end, the union won a $62-million package, including a 15-per cent pay boost over two years. It forced the bus and subway fare up a nickle to 20 cents.

This year the union demanded a 30-per cent pay boost for 36,000 employes, a reduction of the work week from 40 to 30 hours, and a pension plan allowing workers to retire at half pay after 20 years' service.

DEAR FOLKS: All during the year we try to give you some letters of laughter and it's more fun than a barrel of monkeys to see yours come in.

Today, however, I'm going to write one of my own. You may think it is just a letter of laughter, but do consider it otherwise.

Before you make your new Year's resolutions, let's consider our minds, our bodies, our medical bills and the cost of tranquilizers.

Trying to be a perfectionist when it comes to keeping house is the cost and the price we pay for those mentioned items.

Please don't do this.

Here are a few resolutons which I thoroughly believe in and if you have a mind to follow them, why don't you try it for awhile? I'm sure they will make your life much easier.

Don't try to keep a perfect house. Nobody is going to know it but you, anyway.

Always take time out in mid-morning and mid-afternoon for five minutes alone with yourself for a cup of coffee or a tall glass of ice tea. When you drink this, do not sit at your kitchen table. Walk into your living room and sit in the best chair available (even if it is Papa's!).

At least once a week use your very best Sunday dishes and silver. Serve the meal at the dining room table. You'll be surprised how much better the same food will taste and how your family will love it.

Instead of cleaning the whole house with a vengeance every six months, why not clean one room thoroughly once a month and let the rest of the house "glide"? This way you never really get behind.

Pick up the big chunks daily and get the middle clean. This will give you such an inspiration and you will be so relaxed that you can get around to deep cleaning as the mood hits you. Never work when you are overtired. Just tell the family that "Mother is tired." After all, Mother deserves her day, too.

Don't waste your energy and get your dander up screaming at the children. Energy is hard to come by these days and we need it for other things.

Lay down the law that each member of your family will pick up what they drop on the floor or misplace. This includes the children picking up their toys, Dad picking up his newspaper he drops on the floor, and the teen-agers' clothes which they seem to change three times a day.

Try doing your laundry on weekends when the family is home so they can help you. By jove, you'll be surprised how members of your family will help and how glorious it is to wake up on Monday morning not hating that day!

Bless you all from the bottom of my heart and may this be your best year yet.

Heloise.

DEAR HELOISE: I always address an envelope upside down, so the upper left hand corner is not next to the gummed flap.

In this way the return address is not torn when the letter is hastily opened by tearing the flap.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: About homemade toys for tiny children:

Cut a small hole in one end of a shoe box and fasten an old necktie in it. A string is too hard for toddlers to grasp, but they can hold on to the tie.

This makes a grand cart to "ride a doll in."

JANE.

DEAR HELOISE: Nothing makes a woman so mad as to have a cigarette burn on her skirt.

I took one of my most expensive two-piece dresses to my seamstress and instead of mending it (which she said would show), she embroidered an eyelet flower where the burn was.

She button-holed around the cigarette burn itself and then put little leaves around the outside of it, making a stem for the flower in a color nearly matching the material.

Here's where the trick comes in:

She asked for my blouse! She also cut a small hole in the top of the blouse and embroidered a matching eyelet flower.

The result was that I saved an expensive dress and it doesn't even look as if it had been burned.

Predicted By Brown New Voting Record

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said Saturday he wished Ohioans would add one more important New Year's resolution to their lists—to make sure they're properly registered to vote.

Then he made his own New Year's Day prediction — that Ohio will set a new voting record in 1968. Ohio's highest vote come in November, 1960, when a 4,208,311 electors went to the polls.

Butterflies feed largely on nectar and apparently digest only sugar. Fat, protein and starch remain unchanged in their stomachs and all necessary ingredients, except sugar, are stored up in the insect's body during its caterpillar stage.

Steel Expects Shipments To Hit New High

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel shipments in 1968 are expected to total a record 93 million tons, Steel Magazine said Monday.

This figure would be 10 per cent higher than the 84.2 million tons estimated for all of 1967, the metalworking weekly added.

"The previous peak was 92.6 million, established in 1965, another strike threat year," Steel said.

The magazine said steelmen anticipate a record domestic consumption of 102 million tons in 1968.

Steel producers estimate imports will account for about 10 per cent of the total, a 10 per cent boost over the 1967 estimated total of 11 million tons, Steel added.

"The rise in foreign steel probably explains domestic steelmakers' recent reluctance to push up their prices across the board," the magazine said.

Steel estimates output in the week ended Dec. 30 was 2,727,000 net tons, down 20,000 from the previous week.

However, the magazine said, the cutback in raw steel production was less severe than had been expected over the Christmas holidays.

Production of raw steel for 1967 through Dec. 30 is estimated at 126.9 million tons (off about 5.5 per cent from the record or 134.1 million in 1966), Steel added.

Steel's price composite on the No. 1 heavy melted grade of steelmaking scrap rose 66 cents a gross ton last week to $30.83.

"This reflects the current market strength and activity in the scrap market is expected to gain momentum as steelmaking operations accelerate," the magazine said.

OEA Sees Boost In School Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association has predicted that teachers in the state will make more money and increased funds will be spent on students in 1968.

The OEA, reviewing Saturday the National Education Association's estimates on school statistics for the 1967-68 school year, figures a $300 million boost in state support for education will do the trick.

In 1968, the OEA estimates Ohio will spend an average of $559 per student while the nation will spend an average of $586. In the preceding school year, the Ohio per pupil expenditure rate was $473.

Sports Whirled

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

A happy new year to everyone, especially area sports fans!

Devotees of the East Liverpool Potters could hardly hope for a better year than 1967, as their stalwarts reached the district finals in basketball and ranked 12th or 9th in the state after compiling an 8-1 record on the gridiron. Of course there are a few hopeful cage fans who are saying "We'll win the state in '68," but that's a long road to travel.

Other area fans had less to cheer about. Midland ran up a fine record for the 1966-67 basketball season before losing to Fox Chapel in the WPIAL playoffs but Leopard fans have had too little to cheer about lately. Oak Glen's quintet compiled a fine winning streak early in 1967 and Beaver Local was off to a good start on the hardwood as 1967 drew to a close. Wellsville backers will savor the memory of the Tigers' 49-48 upset of Midland in the season's opener in November.

THE PAST YEAR was a disappointing one for followers of the Pittsburgh and Cleveland professional teams. Number one flop has to be the Pirates, who were picked for the pennant but stumbled home sixth. The Indians pulled their usual "June Swoon" and ended the season by firing freshman manager Joe Adcock.

Steeler followers got their hopes up before the season started, with 50 per cent of them picking the Rooneymen to win a title. But after an impressive opening win over the Bears it was "same old Steelers" the rest of the year. The Browns got off to a bad start, recovered to win the Century Division title, but left a taste of ashes in the mouths of their supporters by getting routed 52-14 by Dallas in the NFL Eastern Division title game.

Pro soccer was more successful in Cleveland than in Pittsburgh. The Phantoms, plagued by dissension and lack of fan support, will probably give up the ghost in 1968. Cleveland's Stokers were not televised and thus not well-known outside the immediate area.

Hockey was one sport where Pittsburgh fans could cheer. The Hornets won the American Hockey League title under Baz Bastien and then gave way to the National Hockey League Penguins, who are at least holding their own. Pro basketball also came to Pittsburgh, in the form of the ABA Pipers, who rolled up a long winning streak as 1967 came to a close.

ON THE college level, it was another bad year for Pitt fans, both in basketball and football. The Panthers' recent upset of Temple is a ray of hope. Duquesne roundball followers would rather forget the 1966-67 campaign, the worst in the history of the school, but the present season has started promisingly. Ohio State had a disappointing year in football despite a fast finish, and the Buckeyes' hoop five is hardly on a par with those of the Lucas era. Ohio U. fans celebrated sharing the MAC grid title with Toledo, even though the Bobcats were helped out when Kent State had to forfeit a game. Toledo had a banner year, also winning the MAC basketball crown. Marshall, a flop on the gridiron, was good enough in basketball to go to the NIT. West Virginia won the Southern Conference cage title but lost to Princeton in the NCAA tournament. The Mountaineers got off to a fast start on the football field but finished slowly.

Small college fans were proudest of Fairmont State, which won the NAIA title in football. Waynesburg had a powerful team, losing only to the Falcons.

So, whom ever you root for, we hope your team does better in 1968.

United Golden Eagles Soar Past Minerva

HANOVERTON — United evened its record at 3-3 with a 68-56 win over Minerva here Saturday night.

Tad Drake hit 18, Jack Mills 16 and Tom Wood 15 to lead the Golden Eagles of Jack Mills Sr. Dan Dagger scored 21 for the losers, now 0-6, and Jim Knudson added 12 and Al Madison 10.

The winners controlled the boards 57-38. Mills had 18 rebounds and Knudson led Minerva with 14. The Golden Eagles were also hot from the floor, with 41 per cent to 34 per cent by the losers, but actually won the game from the foul line, converting 18 of 34 while Minerva got only six attempts, making four.

In the reserve game Minerva swept to a 80-34 win, with Crawford getting 19 and Dennis 18. Dana Holmes and Jim Erb had 8 each to lead the losers.

OSU Assistant Strobel Retires

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Harry Strobel has announced his retirement as an assistant to Ohio State head football coach Woody Hayes.

Stroble,whose retirement from active coaching is effective Jan. 15, will assume new duties in OSU'S intramural sports office.

The 59-year-old Strobel, a product of Massillon, first joined OSU in 1949 as freshman football and basketball coach.

James, Ellis Selected On Pa. 'Big 33'

Two hard - running halfbacks, Ron (Po) James of New Brighton and Herb Ellis of Beaver, were Beaver County's contribution to the Pennsylvania "Big 33" football squad announced yesterday.

James set a county scoring record as he led New Brighton to an unbeaten (but twice tied) season.

Other Midwestern Athletic Conference schools represented on the elite list were Ellwood City, with end Tom Mondell; New Castle, with halfback Lou Santangelo; and Butler, with center DuWayne Cunningham.

Cowboys Nipped In 13-Below Cold

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, flattened eight times by Dallas' "Doomsday Defense," sneaked home from the one with 13 seconds to go Sunday and gave Green Bay an unprecedented third straight National Football League playoff title with a 21-17 victory over the Cowboys.

Starr's two touchdown passes to Boyd Dowler had built up an early 14-0 lead for the favored Packers in the frigid cold of 13 below zero weather. But Dallas struck back by turning two fumbles into a touchdown and a field goal and then took the lead in the final period on a 50-yard option pass from halfback Danny Reeves to Lance Rentzel.

In the dramatic final seconds, the Packers pulled it out for Coach Vince Lombardi, and moved into the Jan. 14 Super Bowl game at Miami against the American Football League champion.

Trailing 17-14 with 4:54 to go, Starr took the Packers 68 yards in 12 plays, and at last crashed over for the winner after two smashes by Donny Anderson failed to move the ball. It was third and one when Starr took matters into his own hands.

Spurning a field goal attempt that might have sent the game into sudden death overtime, Starr and Lombardi elected to go for the win.

"It was a question of the team knowing what they had to do with time running out," Lombardi said. "They arrived."

Hundreds of the sellout crowd of 50,861 surged onto the playing surface after Starr smashed home for the big touchdown that could be worth $27,500 for each Packer.

When the game ended two plays later, the half-frozen spectators in the gaily colored ski gear, red hunting coats and blue and yellow parkas attacked the metal goal posts and finally twisted them to the ground.

It was the second heart-breaking defeat for Coach Tom Landry and his Cowboys in two NFL title games for they had lost last New Year's Day in the Cotton Bowl 34-27 when a desperate last-down pass by Don Meredith was intercepted by Tom Brown.

Time after time, the aroused Dallas defenders smeared Starr, tossing him eight times for losses of 76 yards as he attempted to de-ice his throwing arm and get off a pass.

It seemed that the Cowboys, who appeared on the way out of the game when the Packers ran up an early 14-0 lead, had gained the momentum to take the first title to Dallas.

A fumble by Starr after he was hit by Willie Townes was scooped up by defensive end George Andrie, who rumbled the final seven yards for a Dallas touchdown late in the second period.

Just before halftime, another Packer misplay gave the Cowboys a chance to close the gap. This time, it was safety Willie Wood fumbling the ball while attempting a fair catch. Rookie defensive back Phil Clark recovered for Dallas on the Packers' 17.

On fourth and six, Danny Villanueva connected with a 21-yard field goal.

Instead of a romp, Green Bay suddenly found itself in a dog fight, betrayed by the bitter Packer weather on the coldest Dec. 31 in the history of the local Weather Bureau.

Held to 42 yards in the first half, Dallas began to move the ball in the third period. A beautifully executed 50-yard option pass from Reeves to Rentzel on the first play of the final quarter put Dallas in front for the first time.

The icy blast of a 15 mile an hour wind from the northwest, and the subzero temperature, hampered both clubs in a game marred by several fumbles. However, the footing on the electrically heated turf apparently was good enough.

Don Chandler was waiting for the call to try for a tying field goal in the final seconds but it never came.

Chandler had missed a 40-yard field goal attempt earlier in the final quarter.

Although Green Bay won three consecutive NFL titles in 1929-30-31 before the league was divided into conferences for playoffs, no other club has ever won three straight playoffs.

This should be worth about $7,800 from this game and a possible $15,000 winning share from the Super Bowl for each Packer. The players also got an extra day's pay last week for the division playoff with Los Angeles, and could get another payday in next year's College All-Star game if they win in Miami.

The winning surge covered 68 yards, with Starr hitting Dowler for 13, Anderson for 12 and nine and Chuck Mercein for 19 to bring it down close.

Mercein, the castoff of the New York Giants who was picked up by the Packers in an emergency because of backfield injuries, earned his pay by rolling for 19 yards on a Starr pass and slamming up the middle for eight yards to the Cowboy three.

Penn St, Tied In Gator; Four Bowl Games Today

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The South will try to rise again today as the 1967 college bowl season hits its peak with Tennessee, Alabama and Louisiana State trying to do a little better than its neighbors did two days ago.

Tennessee takes on Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl in the only night game while the day schedule has Alabama meeting Texas A&M in the Cotton Bowl, Louisiana State battling Wyoming in the Sugar Bowl and Southern California and Indiana going at it in the Rose Bowl.

The teams from the South didn't fare too well in Saturday's games. Penn State tied Florida State 17-17 in the Gator Bowl, Texas at El Paso downed Mississippi 14-7 in the Sun Bowl and the Blue stopped the Gray 22-16. The East edged the West 16-14 in the other all-star contest.

The three Southern teams playing Monday are all favorites, but the flu bug may have something to say about at least two of the games,

Richmond Flowers, Tennessee's ace pass receiver, apparently will play against Oklahoma but might be in a weakened condition because of a respiratory infection that struck him late last week. Flowers also is not completely recovered from a bruised knee.

The Cotton Bowl teams both are trying to withstand a siege of illness.

Alabama had 12 of its players in bed with the flu, and then seven Texas A&M players complained of runny noses and sore throats.

As the game grew nearer, however, the sick beds began emptying. Even Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama appeared to be recovered from his virus problems.

Alabama, 8-1-1, and Tennessee, 9-1, remained one-touchdown favorites with LSU, 6-3-1, while Southern Cal, 9-1, was rated a pair of touchdowns better than Indiana, also 9-1.

In taking on Wyoming, LSU will be trying to wipe out the only unbeaten record among the bowl teams. The Cowboys won all 10 of their regular-season games and will have to stop quarterback Nelson Stokley if they hope to make it 11-0.

O. J. Simpson is the man Indiana must contend with in the Rose Bowl. But one of the men who help open the holes for Simpson will miss the game. Guard Mike Scarpace was operated on last Friday for a torn ligament in his right knee.

All of the games will be televised—the Cotton by CBS at 1:45 p.m. EST and the rest by NBC, the Sugar at 1:45 p.m. EST, the Rose at 4:45 p.m. EST and the Orange at 7:45 p.m. EST.

In Saturday's Gator Bowl, Florida State rallied from a 17-0 deficit and finally tied Penn State on Grant Guthrie's 25-yard field goal with 15 seconds left. Florida's Kim Hammond connected on 37 of 53 passes for 362 yards.

Texas-El Paso downed Mississippi on two fourth-quarter touchdowns in the Sun Bowl. Billy Stevens passed five yards to David Karns for the tying touchdown, and Larry McHenry bucked across from four yards out for the winner.

All-American Dick Anderson of Colorado sparkled for the Blue against the Gray.

STARR SCORE. Bart Starr (15) is at the bottom of the pile but he managed to sneak across for a score with 13 seconds left to give the Packers a 21-17 win over Dallas in Green Bay yesterday. The win gave the Packers the NFL title and the right to play in the Super Bowl Jan. 14. (UPI Telephoto)

'Out Of Ideas,' Starr Says Of Sneak

By KEN HARTNETT

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers, almost out of time, were almost out of ideas Sunday when Bart Starr snaked for the touchdown that gave the Packers a 21-17 victory over Dallas in the National Football League title game.

"We had run out of ideas," explained Starr, who followed Jerry Kramer's block on Jethro Pugh into the end zone with only 13 seconds showing on the scoreboard clock.

"The footing was real poor, and we were stumped for something to do. Kramer made a great block," he said.

Coach Vince Lombardi said the Packers would have sent their field goal unit into the game on the next play, if there was still time.

"It was a little bit of a gamble we took," he said. "We might not have gotten the kicking team in there."

Besides, he said, "I didn't figure all those people could stay on in the stands."

The game was played under arctic conditions with the temperature 13 degrees below zero.

"You can't say I'm always without compassion," Lombardi said.

"It was a very satisfying year, a very frustrating year and a very thrilling one," said Lombardi, who coached Green Bay to its third straight NFL title—a feat unprecedented since the playoff system began in 1933.

"I'm drained," gulped tackle Ron Kostelnik. "I'm supposed to be celebrating, but I'm drained."

Kramer said the field near the goal line was frozen solid like cement as the Packers moved in toward the winning score.

"I dug my right foot in. I was going to give it my best shot," he said.

Starr got about two feet into the end zone on the play.

Donny Anderson and Chuck Mercein were almost speechless.

Both played major roles in the winning drive. "It's like a dream," said Anderson. "Just beautiful."

Mercein, a former New York Giant who made the jump from the Westchester Bulls to the Packers in one head-spinning season, said, "I can't believe it. My, what a great team."

Beaver Local Wrestlers Win Louisville Event

The Beaver Local wrestling team won the Louisville Tournament Saturday, winning four individual chtmpionships.

Jack Havice at 112, Jim Bowersock at 127, John Pugh at 133 and Bill Cole at 175 were the individual winners for Paul Jackson's team. Placing second were Paul Brown at 138 and Sam Hall at 165. Bill Lucas at 145 won his first match but lost in the second round. The other Beaver entrants lost to the eventual champions.

Beaver Local scored 68 points, Jackson-Milton 49, Louisville 45, Perry 42, Canton Lincoln 33, Minerva 33, Marlington 26, Canton Timken 24 and Glenwood 21. The team won a trophy, which will be presented to the school at an assembly this week, and the individual winners also got trophies.

Potter Wrestlers Drop Opening Match

The East Liverpool wrestling team lost its opening match of the season Saturday, falling 46-3 at Dover.

Mike Jackson was the lone winner for Joe Mowad's matmen, winning a 3-0 decision in the 120-pound class. Dover is now 4-0.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Jim Ryun, the world record middle distance runner from Kansas, and Mark Spitz, 17-year-old world record swimmer from Santa Clara, Calif., were the 1-2 selections as Athlete of the year in a worldwide poll taken by Aftonbladet, the Stockholm newspaper, announced Sunday.

Bob Veale, the Pirates leading pitcher last season with 16 wins, had his best success with the Dodgers. He was 4-0 with the Los Angeles team in '67 and was 3-0 against the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals. The only team Bob didn't have a victory over was San Francisco.

UCLA Rolls Over Wyoming; Temple Tops St. Francis

By RON RAPPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

All the time the Wyoming players were looking in astonishment at the scoreboard, they should have been keeping an eye on the ceiling. The roof was about to fall in.

For 15 wonderful minutes Saturday night, the Cowboys played top-ranked UCLA to a near-standoff. With only five minutes left in the first half, the Bruins only led by seven points.

But 17 terrorized minutes of play later, the Cowboys were counting their dead and nursing their wounded. They had been outscored 52-17 and UCLA was well on the way to a 104-71 victory and their sixth straight Los Angeles Classic title.

By the time Wyoming's chief tormentors — Lynn Shackleford, Lew Alcindor and Mike Warren —had left the game there was 8:11 left in the game but already the Cowboys were UCLA's 42nd straight victim.

Shackleford was high for the Bruins with 24 points while Alcindor, most valuable player in the tournament for the second straight year, had 20 and Warren 16.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina won the Far West Tournament in Portland, Ore., beating Oregon State 68-61 with Larry Miller scoring 33 points. Miller, the tourney's MVP, scored 19 of his points on free throws as five players fouled out in the bruising contest.

Vanderbilt, No. 9, beat eighth-rated Davidson 80-67 to win the Sugar Bowl Tournament in New Orleans, La. It was the Commodores' second victory over the Wildcats this season. Tom Hagan had 26 points and Bo Wyenandt had 23 for Vanderbilt.

Second-ranked Houston, 13-0, was held to its lowest score of the season and had to come from behind to nip North Texas State 45-43 Saturday in the final of the fourth annual Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. Elvin Hayes, Houston's 6-foot-8 All-American was held to 12 points but was named the outstanding player of the tournament.

Columbia completed its surprising week in the New York Holiday Festival by taking the title with a 60-55 victory over St. John's, N.Y. Sophomore Jim McMillian, the tournament's MVP, scored 20 of his 25 points in the second half.

Boston College, 10th ranked when the week began, dropped the consolation game to Louisville 81-74.

Detroit captured its Motor City Tournament, beating Niagara 102-97 and holding Calvin Murphy to a mere 29 points, his lowest output of the seasn. Larry Salci led the Titans with 27 points.

Temple, led by Clarence Brookins' 28 points, won the Quaker City Tournament in Philadelphia, beating St. Francis, Pa., 83-77. Nebraska won its first Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, downing Kansas State 66-62 behind Tom Baack's 28-point output.

Rich Travis, third-leading scorer in the country, poured in 45 points to lead Oklahoma City, 8-0, to the All-College Tournament title in Oklahoma City, Okla., with a 91-88 victory over Brigham Young.

In a non-tournament game, sixth-rated Kentucky upended Notre Dame 81-73 with Mike Casey scoring 27 points including six in a one-minute span near the end of the game.

And in a doubleheader at Chicago, Illinois beat Texas-El Paso 68-50 and Loyola of Chicago downed Georgia Tech 96-71.

Alexei Seeks Joint Vatican Peace Efforts

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian Orthodox Patriarch Alexei has cabled Pope Paul VI proposing joint effors for peace in Vietnam, Tass said Sunday.

Peace proposals by the head of the Russian Orthodox Church echoed Soviet government demands for a cessation of all military activities by U.S. and allied troops and "unconditional withdrawal of all foreign troops."

In excerpts of the telegram, printed by Tass, the Soviet News Agency, Alexei did not mention whether Vietnamese Communists also would have to stop all military activities as a way of ending the war.

The agency said Alexei made the proposal for joint efforts Saturday in reply to a message from the Pope urging that Jan. 1 be dedicated to world peace.

"We see a possibility of jointly promoting international peace also by our holy churches, the Roman Catholic and the Russian Orthodox," Alexei told the Pope.

He did not specify what joint steps the two Christian faiths could take to promote peace.

Vatican sources said Sunday night the lengthy text of the cable was translated from Russian into Italian and given to Pope Paul.

The sources said the patriarch's text will be disclosed by publication Tuesday in the Vatican daily, L'Osservatore Romano, as happened to other messages received by the Pope in reply to his worldwide proposal for celebrating a world peace day Jan. 1.

Raiders Whip Oilers 40-7

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — M Oakland's power-laden Raiders romped to their first American Football League championship Sunday with a display of near-perfect football, demolishing the Houston Oilers 40-7.

Hewritt Dixon softened the Oilers up with a 69-yard touchdown sprint on the first play of the second period and after that, it was all Oakland.

The Raiders, who will play National League champion Green Bay in the Super Bowl at Miami, Jan. 14, ran up a 30-0 lead before the Oilers scored in the fourth period.

Dixon and Pete Banaszak shredded the Houston defenses along the ground while quarterback Daryle Lamonica plunged for one TD and passed for two others as the Raiders rode roughshod over the Eastern champion Oilers.

Dixon finished with 144 yards on 21 carries while Banaszak picked up 116 on 5 carries.

George Blanda had kicked the first of his record four field goals for the only points of the first period.

Then, on the first play of the second quarter, Dixon took off around left end. Rookie guard Gene Upshaw pulled in front of him and threw a devastating block on defensive back W.K. Hicks that gave Dixon a clear path.

The 69-yard run set a championship game record for the longest TD run from scrimmage. And it set the tone for the game. After that, the Raiders had things pretty much their own way.

Houston's Hoyle Granger, the AFL's second-leading rusher with 1,194 yards during the regular season, never got loose against the Raider front four and several times the record crowd of 53,330 gave the Oakland defense a standing ovation as it came off the field.

The score was still 10-0 although Oakland was clearly dominating play.

Lamonica pulled a fake field goal attempt and turned it into a 17-yard scoring pass to Dave Kocorek in the final minute of the first half.

That sent the Raiders into the dressing room with a 17-0 lead.

The momentum held as Oakland kicked off in the second half. Zeke Moore, trying to break loose on the return, ran laterally, almost from sideline to sideline before being tackled and fumbling. Oakland's Ken Herrock recovered the ball and the Raiders were in business again at the Houston 30.

Banaszak and Dixon took turns running at the Oilers and drove Oakland down to the Houston one. Lamonica took it in from there.

Now Blanda, the 39-year-old veteran who was cut loose by the Oilers before the season started, took over. He kicked field goals of 40, 42 and 36 yards to go with his earlier 34-yarder. His 16 points set a championship game record as did the four field goals.

The Oilers finally scored in the fourth period when Charley Frazier grabbed a five-yard pass in the end zone from Pete Beathard. But it took a 34-yard pass interference call against Oakland's Dave Grayson to set up the score.

Lamonica got those points back on a 12-yard scoring pass to Bill Miller as the Raiders completed the romp.

The game was played in clear, crisp weather with a temperature of 47 degrees in contrast to the subzero temperatures at Green Bay, where the Packers defeated the Dallas Cowboys 21-17. The AFL game was nationally televised by NBC-TV.

Matched Record High

'67 Highway Toll Hit 39 Over Columbiana County

Highway deaths in Columbiana County during 1967 totaled 39—matching the record high of 39 in 1965 — while Beaver County's toll was 45, well below the record of 62 set a year ago.

In Columbiana the number of deaths was not only over the 36 of 1966, but above the previous highs of 35 which occurred in 1952 and 1949.

East Liverpool had two fatalities — one on the River Rd. and one on W. 5th St. — compared to three the previous year. Wellsville, which counted two in 1966, had none in 1967.

Route 30 posted the heaviest loss of life on county highways with 11, while Route 7, another heavily traveled road had only one fatality.

Four men lost their lives in a collision at West Point last year; four men died in a mishap at Rock Camp the previous year on Route 30.

Seventeen drivers, 13 passengers, six pedestrians and three on motorcycles were claimed in 1967, compared to 23 drivers, nine passengers and four pedestrians in 1966.

In contrast to the normal pattern of the majority of deaths in the central and northern part of the county, the areas of fatal accidents were centered in the northwestern section (8), the southeastern (13) and the northeastern (8) with the remainder scattered in the central and north.

A breakdown of the deaths by months, with last year's in parenthesis shows January 3 (1), February 1 (1), March 1 (3), April 2 (3), May 4 (3), June 2 (2), July 6 (1), August 4 (5), September 2 (5), October 3 (8), November 6 (1) and December 2 (2).

The Patrol at Lisbon investigated a total of 1,439 accidents last year, an increase of 28 over the 1,411 of 1966.

GOP Presses For Rhodes' 3rd Term Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republicans reportedly are making quiet efforts to lift the law preventing Gov. James A. Rhodes from seeking a third term in office.

Backers of the plan told the Associated Press they expect a well-known Ohioan not now active in politics to lead a drive for voter approval of a constitutional amendment to repeal the two-term limit adopted at the polls in 1954.

Advocates of the plan, who requested anonymity, said the plan had not been discussed with Rhodes, but that he was expected to give at least tacit approval. Rhodes himself had no comment on the report.

The two-term limit was pushed through the 1953 General Assembly by Republicans who controlled both House and Senate. It was directed at Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, who was then in his fifth two-year term.

Republicans now dominate both house of the General Assembly again, and backers of the limit repeal say the legislature could adopt a resolution putting the measure on the ballot next Nov. 5.

Mao's Efforts To Slash Economic Incentives Hit

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's campaign to cut out all economic incentives, including pay raises, has run into resistance from workers and peasants in Red China, a report from Peking indicated Sunday.

The Nihon Keizai - Economic Shimbun said in a Peking dispatch that the Maoist leadership believes workers have not yet accepted its months - old call to "fight self-interest."

It quoted two newspapers, the Peking Daily and Shanghai's Wen Hui Pao, as complaining that Mao's foes are inciting workers anew to seek subsidies, year-end bonuses and other incentives.

The two Maoist newspapers said some workers even resort to "armed clashes," strikes and sabotage in demanding pay raises.

The Maoist hierarchy believes, Nihon Keizai said, that enemies of Mao are capitalizing on this situation.

Mao and his followers insist the best way to increase production and to build a Communist economy is to "fight self-interest" and sharply denounce the Russians who have concluded that incentives stimulate production.

As the dust of China's cultural revolution has somewhat settled down, the Maoist leadership has challenged the Russians and begun to put its no-incentives economic policy into practice.

Recent Japanese visitors to mainland China report that all material and monetary incentives have been abolished at industrial plants they visited.

Mao's propaganda machine has begun a campaign to attack the incentive - motivated economic program among peasants. Under fire are private plots, free markets and decentralization in production planning and quotas.

These are already common in the Russian agricultural region. In China, President Liu Shaochi, arch enemy of Mao in the current purge movement, encouraged such incentives to help patch up the fiasco of the 1958 Big Leap Forward.

China watchers here said that while the Nihon Keizai's dispatch indicated Mao's economic policy is meeting resistance at the grassroots, the opposition does not seem serious enough to disrupt the cultural revolution at least at present.

A joint editorial in three official organs, People's Daily, Red Flag and the Liberation Army Daily, asserted that a decisive victory had been scored over the Liu faction in 1967.

But it called for a step-up in the purge in 1968 to achieve an "all-round victory" in 1968.

The editorial broadcast by Peking Radio boasted that Mao's purge of his enemies "has given an impetus to the work in all fields" and the situation throughout China is favorable for his leadership.

"Our successful guided missile and hydrogen bomb tests shook the world," the editorial said. "The whole country is full of enthusiasm and everywhere there is a vigorous revolutionary atmosphere."

Hsieh Fu-chih, the security minister, told a meeting of the Peking Revolutionary Committee that grain production in 1967 exceeded that of 1966 by between 9.9 million and 11.5 million tons. No total figures were given.

Hsieh said grain production was greater than in 1957, which Peking set at 185 million tons. Western sources put 1957 production at 170 million tons. The best production year is believed to be 1963, when Red China reported harvesting 204 million tons of grain.

News Blackout In New York Aims To Nip Transit Strike

NEW YORK (AP)— A news blackout was clamped Sunday on last-minute negotiations aimed at averting a second city-wide transit strike, set for today.

The talks were taking place on the fourth floor of a mid-town hotel as a light snow covered the city, readying itself for New Year's revels.

"They've agreed not to make any public statements during the course of today when the discussions are at their most intense point, and I'm going to respect that request," said Mayor John V. Lindsay.

The last word Saturday night from Matthew Guinan, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, was that a strike appeared "inevitable."

The city had elaborate plans ready in case of a repetition of the great transit strike of 1966.

That one hit at 5 a.m. Jan. 1 —five hours after Lindsay took office. It paralyzed the city for 12 days, shutting down 800 miles of interconnected bus and subway routes which carried 7.4 million persons on an average weekday.

People resorted to walking, skating, bicycling and driving, boosting the traffic jam in Manhattan from 600,000 to 850,000 and more cars a day. Shops were empty and hotels were full.

In the end, the union won a $62-million package, including a 15-per cent pay boost over two years. It forced the bus and subway fare up a nickle to 20 cents.

This year the union demanded a 30-per cent pay boost for 36,000 employes, a reduction of the work week from 40 to 30 hours, and a pension plan allowing workers to retire at half pay after 20 years' service.

ORDINANCE NUMBER 47, 1967.
AN ORDINANCE ACCEPTING A GIFT OF REAL ESTATE TO THE CITY BY WILLIAM LELAND THOMPSON AND ELISABETH B. THOMPSON.

WHEREAS, William Leland Thompson and Elisabeth B. Thompson have offered to the City of East Liverpool a gift of real estate and have executed and delivered to the City a deed therefor, to-wit:

TRACT NO. 1: Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana, and State of Ohio, and bounded and described as follows: Being Lot Number Five Hundred Nine (509) in T. M. Blackmore's Addition to said City. The plat of said addition is recorded in Plat Book No. 5, Page 32 of the Columbiana County Records of Plats.

TRACT NO. 11: Situated in the City of East Liverpool, County of Columbiana and State of Ohio, and bounded and described as follows: Commencing at a point on the North side of Sixth Street 148 feet 4 inches North 67° West from a post set near the middle of what is known as West Market Street and running thence North 23° East 130 feet; thence North 67° West about 25 feet; thence South 23° West 130 feet; thence with the North side of Sixth Street South 67° West, 25 feet to the place of beginning. Said parcel of ground being distinguished as Lot Number Five Hundred Eight (508) in T. M. Blackmore's Addition to said City. and,

WHEREAS, this Council is of the opinion that the acceptance of this gift is to the advantage of the City and the use of said property for City purposes will assist the City in the administration of City government,

NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF EAST LIVERPOOL, STATE OF OHIO:

SECTION 1. That the gift of real estate described above is hereby accepted by the City of East Liverpool.

SECTION 2. That this Council does hereby extend its "thanks" and appreciation for said gift to William Leland Thompson and Elisabeth B. Thompson.

SECTION 3. That the Clerk of this Council is hereby directed to send a copy of this Ordinance to the donors above mentioned.

SECTION 4. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an emergency measure and shall take effect immediately upon passage and approval. Said emergency lies in the fact that said gift must be accepted at once to become effective and to allow the said City to put into effect its plan for said property immediately needed and this action herefore is necessary to preserve the public peace, general welfare and health and safety of the citizens of East Liverpool.

Passed this 26th day of December, 1967.

Junior Editors Quiz on CLAY

QUESTION: Of what is clay made?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Clay is a smooth finely-grained kind of earth. When moist, it is soft and pliable, yet strong enough to hold some shape given to it. Clay hardens when dry. When heated sufficiently, it becomes extremely hard. This is how pottery, bricks and other ceramics are made. For a long time, sculptors have used clay in beginning their work; but the trouble was, the clay had to be kept moist. A sculptor would have to keep his clay statue covered with wet cloths between working sessions. Then a much better form of clay was invented for artists, the kind young people use to have fun with. By using special clay-like materials and adding oil, the substance plasticine was made, which can be modelled like clay and yet will not harden. Barbara started her horse by making a wire armature to hold the plasticine together (1). She added pellets of plasticine (2), finally finishing her statue with modelling tools (3). Later, perhaps, she will have her horse cast in hard white plaster by a professional.

Ruth Stefanezyk of Des Plaines, Ill., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash if your question, mailed to Junior Editors in care of The Review, is selected for a prize.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 1, the first day of 1968.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, declaring the slaves free.

On this date:

In 1735, the American patriot, Paul Revere, was born.

In 1863, the U.S. Homestead Act went into effect. A soldier in the Union Army staked out the first claim to a tract of land near Beatrice, Neb.

In 1901, the Commonwealth of Australia was proclaimed.

In 1913, the U.S. parcel post system began service.

In 1942, the joint declaration of the United Nations was signed in Washington, during World War II.

In 1959, the Cuban revolution led by Fidel Castro triumphed as dictator Fulgencio Batista fled the island.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a New Year's message every effort would be made to improve relations between the people of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Chinese Communist party berated the Soviet Union for trying to heal the split with Yugoslavia.

One year ago: U.S. Marines in South Vietnam launched an attack on an enemey force which infiltrated during the New Year's truce.

Cyprus, a strategic island in the eastern Mediterranean, was overwhelmed by Egyptian warriors in about 1500 B.C. Nearly a dozen empires seized and ruled Cyprus before it became an independent member of the British Commonwealth in 1960.

These Men Are A Highway Statistic You Don't Hear Much About...

They are part of the hundreds of mechanics who service the millions of automobiles sold each year. Automobiles made safer by these men's work. Constant study at factory technician schools and special films viewed at the dealership on their own time make these men true professionals — unheralded but none the less professional automobile men.

Junior Editors Quiz on CLAY

QUESTION: Of what is clay made?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Clay is a smooth finely-grained kind of earth. When moist, it is soft and pliable, yet strong enough to hold some shape given to it. Clay hardens when dry. When heated sufficiently, it becomes extremely hard. This is how pottery, bricks and other ceramics are made. For a long time, sculptors have used clay in beginning their work; but the trouble was, the clay had to be kept moist. A sculptor would have to keep his clay statue covered with wet cloths between working sessions. Then a much better form of clay was invented for artists, the kind young people use to have fun with. By using special clay-like materials and adding oil, the substance plasticine was made, which can be modelled like clay and yet will not harden. Barbara started her horse by making a wire armature to hold the plasticine together (1). She added pellets of plasticine (2), finally finishing her statue with modelling tools (3). Later, perhaps, she will have her horse cast in hard white plaster by a professional.

Ruth Stefanezyk of Des Plaines, Ill., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash if your question, mailed to Junior Editors in care of The Review, is selected for a prize.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, Jan. 1, the first day of 1968.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, declaring the slaves free.

On this date:

In 1735, the American patriot, Paul Revere, was born.

In 1863, the U.S. Homestead Act went into effect. A soldier in the Union Army staked out the first claim to a tract of land near Beatrice, Neb.

In 1901, the Commonwealth of Australia was proclaimed.

In 1913, the U.S. parcel post system began service.

In 1942, the joint declaration of the United Nations was signed in Washington, during World War II.

In 1959, the Cuban revolution led by Fidel Castro triumphed as dictator Fulgencio Batista fled the island.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower said in a New Year's message every effort would be made to improve relations between the people of the United States and the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: The Chinese Communist party berated the Soviet Union for trying to heal the split with Yugoslavia.

One year ago: U.S. Marines in South Vietnam launched an attack on an enemey force which infiltrated during the New Year's truce.

Cyprus, a strategic island in the eastern Mediterranean, was overwhelmed by Egyptian warriors in about 1500 B.C. Nearly a dozen empires seized and ruled Cyprus before it became an independent member of the British Commonwealth in 1960.
